HOOVER SAYS 'FALSEHOODS' TO FOES' CHARGES

President Replies to Democrats.

Democrats are so impressed by favorable sentiment aroused in Iowa by President Hoover's speech, that they plan to counter attack with speech by ex-Senator James Reed. Iowans feel the President revealed himself in a fighting light. Details on page 11.

Alliance, O., Oct. 5.—Aboard President Hoover's special train.—[Special.]—President Hoover today departed from the calm, impersonal attitude which he has assumed during the early stages of his campaign for reelection and lashed out in no unmistakable manner at his Democratic opponents who had just preceded him into the middle west.

For the second time within 24 hours Mr. Hoover virtually passed the "lie" to his adversaries for their insinuations, reported to him on this trip, that he was out of sympathy with the people in their present state of distress.

Admits Words Are "Harsh."

In the first of ten back platform appearances today, made at Fort Wayne, Ind., President Hoover branded as "deliberate, intolerable falsehoods" statements to the effect that he had only recently awakened to the sufferings of the American people. He admitted that these were "harsh" words and expressed regret at having to use them, but, he said, the "character of these personalities necessitates a direct word from me." His statement was accepted as a direct answer to Gov. F. D. Roosevelt, the Democratic candidate.

What Roosevelt Said.

When he was in California on Sept. 22 Roosevelt while greeting Hiram Johnson said:

"I rejoice that he [Johnson] said only yesterday that a government that thinks only of a favored few and forgets farmers whose homes are being taken away from them and toilers whose wages have been decreased to the danger line is unworthy of the name and unfit to govern."

It was this statement by Gov. Roosevelt, among others, that the President apparently had in mind when he said that "such statements are deliberate, intolerable falsehoods."

The President's statement at Fort Wayne followed by a few hours an allegation in his Des Moines speech that his Democratic opponent contended that the Smoot-Hawley tariff was the highest in the "history of the world." The President simply said that such a statement "isn't true."

Sees Fight to Finish.

In his Fort Wayne statement Mr. Hoover said:

"I deeply appreciate your reception and your expressions of confidence and approval. In the enthusiasm of the many receptions on this trip and in the remarkable reception in Des Moines yesterday, I see a rising resolution and a stern determination to fight to a finish for the continuation of constructive action in this emergency and for the preservation of fundamentals in our government. That is a mission for every one of you individually.

"I wish to take the occasion of this meeting to say a word to you and to all the people of the great midwest. During my public life I have believed that sportsmanship and statesmanship called for the elimination of harsh personalities between opponents. On this journey, however, I have received a multitude of reports as to the widespread personal misrepresentations which have been promulgated in the midwest in the last few weeks. I regret that the character of these personalities necessitates a direct word from me.

"Falsehoods," He Declares.

"I shall say now the only harsh word that I have uttered in public office. I hope it will be the last I shall have to say. When you are told that the President of the United States, who by the most sacred trust of our nation is the President of all the people, a man of your own blood and upbringing, has sat in the White House for the last three years of your misfortune without troubling to know your burdens, without heartaches over your miseries and casualties, without summoning every avenue of skilful assistance (irrespective of party or view, without using every ounce of his strength and straining his every nerve to protect and help, without

PAY TEACHERS THIS WEEK WITH WARRANT CASH

City, County Staffs Also to Be Paid.

Downtown banks agreed yesterday to purchase approximately $4,800,000 worth of tax warrants this week, enough to finance a two weeks' pay day for all employés of the city, school board, and county.

M. S. SZYMCZAK. [Moffett Photo.]

County employés will get their pay today as a result of the purchase by banks of a $455,000 anticipation warrant on 1932 county tax collections. Because of the delay in preparing city and school tax warrants to be purchased by the bankers, funds for the other pay days probably will not be ready until tomorrow, it was stated.

City Controller Szymczak announced that the bankers had agreed to purchase $1,900,000 worth of 1931 city tax warrants, and enough of the 1931 school tax warrants now held in the city treasury to give school employés two weeks' pay. The school pay rolls will amount to $2,401,213, it was stated by Charles E. Gilbert, secretary of the board of education.

To Buy School Warrants.

The city council adopted a resolution last summer instructing the controller to advance no more funds for school pay days until the city's aggregate of funds became sufficiently liquid to make up the back pay due city employés. The banks agreed to buy the school tax warrants from the city with proviso that Controller Szymczak propose to the council that the city purchase an equal amount of 1932 tax warrants from the school board, giving that body funds for its pay day.

Mr. Szymczak said he did not believe the proposed transfer of funds to the school board would violate the spirit of the council resolution, since the transaction would not increase the amount of school tax paper held by the city.

The delay in obtaining funds for the city and school employés is caused by the request of the banks that they be given tax warrants in denominations of $1,000 and up, with the evident intention of reselling them to investors of moderate means. The preparation of the warrants will require about 48 hours, it was said.

Bankers Pick 1932 Warrant.

Some pessimism on the part of the bankers regarding the collection of 1931 taxes was indicated in their choice of the warrant to be furnished by the county. While the county still has a quantity of warrants unissued which would be secured by the latter part of the 1931 collections, the bankers evidently decided that a warrant to be paid from the first 1932 collections would have better security, even though those taxes will be put in collection many months later than the 1931 levy.

The pay which the county employés will receive will be for the last half of May. The pay day will still leave the county employés' wages four months behind. Of the $455,000 to be obtained by the sale of the warrant, the regular pay rolls will consume about $350,000. An additional $93,000 will be used to pay mothers' pensions, home placing payments for children and industrial school payments for the last half of May.

Pay Days for July.

In addition to city employés, the $1,900,000 to be furnished to the city will pay employés of the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium. Both these pay days will be for the first half of July. The school pay roll, the farthest in arrears of all, is for the first half of April. School payments, Mr. Gilbert said, will be distributed as follows: Teachers, $1,959,977; special teachers, $23,128; educational civil service, $348,456; building civil service, $55,465; playgrounds, $19,190.

While the city has received pay roll funds, one of the conditions which the citizens' committee on public expenditures, headed by Fred W. Sargent, set as the price of its recommendation to banks of further tax warrant purchases is still to be met. This is the elimination of the $4,000,000 tax levy for 1931 for the city's working cash fund.

ACHILLES' HEEL

BOMB WRECKS $25,000 PLANT OF MILK CO-OP

Burlington, Wis., Oct. 6 [3 a. m. Thursday].—The new $25,000 plant of the Burlington Coöperative Pure Milk association was wrecked by a bomb early this morning. All Burlington was shaken and windows in houses five and six blocks away were shattered. The plant was opened only last Sept. 21.

The bombing was done by five masked gunmen following the kidnaping of the night watchman. Racine county and Burlington authorities began an inquiry to place responsibility for the crime. It was believed the motive originated in milk price differences in Chicago.

The bomb—which detectives said might have been made of nitroglycerine—was exploded shortly before 1 o'clock. About 10 minutes earlier the five gunmen stole into the place. Two of them pounced upon John Eisenbard, 55 years old, the night watchman. They bound him securely. The others went to the upper half floor. A short time later these three returned downstairs and with the other two carried Eisenbard into their automobile. They drove him out in Highway 36, a mile and a half out of town, where they threw him into the bushes. They drove away.

DRY AGENTS TO BE WITH US ALWAYS, SAYS ONE OF 'EM

Even if the eighteenth amendment is repealed the prohibition agent can rest secure that his government job won't be abolished, according to Howard Jones, assistant national director of prohibition, who made a "merely routine" visit to the Chicago dry headquarters yesterday.

Asked whether a change in the dry law would affect the personnel of the prohibition department, Mr. Jones said: "I don't see that it would cut down the number of men in our department. We would have to keep a large force even then to maintain law observance. I have told the boys not to worry for fear of losing their job on that score."

Mr. Jones added that no more dry raiders will be hired at the present time. He denied reports that more men would be placed in the Chicago area to improve enforcement here. The present dry force is using up all the funds appropriated, he explained.

Berwyn to Employ Idle on New Police Station

Plans for a new $56,000 police station in Berwyn, to be erected partly as an unemployment relief measure, were announced yesterday by Mayor Frank Novotny. The new station will be at 21st street and Oak Park avenue, and will replace a 40 year old frame structure which the police now share with the fire department. Only residents of Berwyn will be employed on the building, and the jobs will be rotated to care for as many unemployed workmen as possible.

Fire on Troops Ruling Streets in Mine Area

Kincaid, Ill., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Several shots were fired tonight at National Guardsmen patrolling Kincaid streets as a result of recent mine disorders. Authorities said no one was injured.

Capt. Carl Meachan, in command of militiamen in Christian county, refused to confirm or deny the firing of the shots, stating his report on the incident had been mailed to Adjt. Gen. Carlos Black in Springfield.

Citizens, however, said the guardsmen had been fired upon. The source of the shots was not determined.

Students Go on Strike.

Kincaid High school students Monday walked out on a strike protesting the purchase of coal by the Chicago board from the Langleville mines of the Pesbody Coal company, operating under the $5 wage scale.

The firing was reported to have occurred shortly after parents of the striking school children had concluded a meeting to discuss the possible return of their children to classes.

Troops in Farmington.

Canton, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—A detachment of state troops was rushed to Farmington, 12 miles north of here, late tonight following reports 1,000 pickets were staging a demonstration in the streets. Police denied there were any disorders. The detachment is part of Company E of the 130th Illinois National Guard.

This company was ordered to Canton earlier in the day by Col. Robert W. Davis. Until its arrival, Company F had been alone to cover an area of more than 20 square miles in which there are four or five mines, at all of which disorder has either occurred or threatened. The additional support was requested by Maj. J. D. Wanebrough, following the opening of the large Truax-Traer strip mine at St. David, 5 miles south of here.

Kidnaping Threats Made.

Progressive miners have announced they would prevent the mine's operation. Similar threats were voiced in regard to the Dorthel mine near Farmington. At no time, however, did any serious overt acts occur. Throughout Fulton county scores of special deputy sheriffs have been patrolling the mining regions to preserve order.

Several kidnaping threats have been received here. One made against Claude, the 11 year old son of William Blakley, owner of the Blakley mine, has resulted in a National Guard escort being furnished the boy en route to school, and a guard being placed at the school while he is there. A car containing five men followed the boy to school this morning and Mrs. Blakley received a threat over the telephone.

Military authorities released a 20 year old girl who had been questioned about the shooting of Robert Pollitt last Monday night. The investigation is being continued.

Henry May, an employé at the Knoxville mine near Galesburg, this morning reported that he was fired upon by six armed men in a car that attempted to stop his car while he was on the way to work.

C. B. KELLAND FIGHTS PAYING WIFE'S ACCOUNT

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Clarence Budington Kelland, novelist and short story writer, won a point in the Supreme court today in a suit against him by Hattie Carnegie, Inc., to recover a balance of $3,913 due for wearing apparel sold to his wife, Mrs. Betty Carolina Kelland. Kelland said he intended to fight the suit because "these people ought to be discouraged from piling up bills on women who do not realize, while they have no cash to pay for it, that they are getting themselves into deep obligations."

Justice Hatting denied an application by the plaintiff for a summary judgment and ruled that a triable issue of fact as to the defendant's liability was presented. In denying liability Mr. Kelland said that during the period in question he furnished his wife with more than $7,000 which "was sufficient for her necessities" and that she did not need the articles purchased.

"I allege that my financial condition at no time would justify a characterization of hose at $6.50 a pair, a white panama hat at $40, cloth coat at $420, dresses at $255 and $350, and perfumery at $25 or $15, as necessaries for my wife," he asserted.

Trap Employe of Assessor as Tax Fixer

Two alleged tax fixers, one a registered public accountant and the other an employé of the county assessor's office, were under arrest at the detective bureau last night on charges of conspiring to lower the personal property assessment of at least one large loop taxpayer. Their scheme was upset by Assessor J. L. Jacobs and detectives after the taxpayer had informed on the fixers.

The prisoners are Patrick C. Carey, 6440 North Albany avenue, the registered public accountant, and Art Hollaman of the assessor's office, who resides at the Allerton House, 701 North Michigan avenue.

Carey was seized yesterday afternoon by Lieut. Leo Carr and Sergt. William Knowles of the Secret Six as he stepped out of a Michigan avenue office with $300 in marked bills. He named Hollaman as his accomplice, and the latter was arrested last evening. Carey confessed his part in the tax fixing scheme.

Offer to Piano Company.

The pair, police said, started their operations last week when Carey went to the offices of Edward Story Jr., an official of the Story & Clark Piano company, at 173 North Michigan avenue. He told Mr. Story that he could reduce the company's personal property taxes for 1931.

The piano company official replied that he considered his taxes just, whereupon Carey—according to Carey's own admission—warned: "But remember, your taxes will be boosted next year, and you might be interested in holding them down."

Mr. Story sent Carey to L. B. Bull, secretary and treasurer of the company, first warning Mr. Bull of the nature of the offer. Carey repeated his proposition to Mr. Bull. That day Mr. Bull notified Alexander Jamie, chief investigator of the Secret Six, and Assessor Jacobs. A few days later Carey revisited Mr. Bull. He carried with him the piano company's 1931 schedule for $28,000 in personalty valuation.

Asks 50 Per Cent Share of Cut.

"I can slip another schedule in the files if you will give me 50 per cent of the tax reduction," Carey said, according to his admissions last night. Mr. Bull was not interested and later Carey offered to make a reduction in the taxes for a $300 fee. Mr. Bull advised him to return yesterday.

Carey appeared and was given the $300. To carry out his end of the deal he tore into pieces the 1931 tax schedule of the Story company. A moment later he was seized by Carr and Knowles. They recovered the pieces of the torn schedule. After questioning Carey they arrested Hollaman in his room. There they found several schedule blanks and one partly filled in. Police said this schedule probably would have been substituted for the regular schedule. They also found a list of half a dozen business houses which had filed large schedules, one on a $250,000 valuation. Officials of these houses will be questioned today.

Obtain a Confession.

Assistant State's Attorney Harry S. Ditchburne procured Carey's confession. Hollaman denied knowing Carey; he also denied complicity in the attempted fixing. Carey said Hollaman hit upon the fixing scheme because he had gone unpaid for months.

Detectives said that Hollaman was appointed a special deputy assessor several months ago and was one of six employés in the assessor's office having exclusive access to schedules already filed and approved. There was nothing to prevent him, they said, from removing a bona fide schedule and substituting a schedule with reduced valuation.

BULLETIN.

PARIS, Oct. 6 (Thursday).—At 8 a. m. today Samuel Insull and his son, Samuel Jr., had not returned to their hotel. Leaving Mrs. Insull in the hotel, the two men had been missing 27 hours.

BY HAL FOUST.

Orillia, Ont., Oct. 6 [4 a. m., Thursday].—Martin J. Insull, former president of the Middle West Utilities company, was routed out of bed in his obscure lodging house here at 4 o'clock this morning by Chicago law officers seeking to return him to Chicago to face trial on indictments charging embezzlement and larceny. The indictments were returned by the Cook county grand jury on Tuesday.

Mr. Insull met the officers in the hallway of the house, clad in a blue silk bathrobe, black silk pajamas, and leather slippers. Within five minutes he flatly refused to return voluntarily to Chicago and announced he would fight extradition. Less than ten minutes later the Illinois officers, accompanied by Canadian provincial officials, motored to Barrie, 24 miles distant, to procure a fugitive warrant for Insull's arrest.

Expect Arrest Today.

This warrant will be obtained about 7 or 8 o'clock, it was announced. An hour after its issuance officers said they expect Insull to be in jail, where they predicted, he would be held until the arrival of a presidential warrant from Washington, D. C.

The Chicago law officers were Assistant State's Attorney John Hampton and Sergt. Anthony Blaze. They arrived in Toronto by plane late last night and made the 80 mile trip here by motor. A group of Chicago and Canadian newspaper men accompanied them.

Confer with Constable.

Before advancing on the Insull refuge, Hampton and Blaze conferred with Robert E. Purvis, provincial constable of Orillia. They explained their program—to drive Insull back to Toronto and place him in the plane which would fly him back to Chicago—if he wished to return voluntarily. Otherwise, they explained, they would seek a fugitive warrant. Constable Purvis agreed to the program, but insisted Crown Attorney F. G. Evans should also approve it. Crown Attorney Evans' consent was obtained. Immediately afterward the party drove to the rooming house where Martin Insull and his wife are staying.

Dim Light Burning.

When the group reached the home only a dim light burned, as if some one were waiting. Hampton strode to the door. He knocked vigorously. There was no response. He rapped again, louder this time. From inside came the sound of slippered feet. The door opened. Mr. Insull stood within. He smiled. Assistant State's Attorney Hampton apologized for appearing at the late hour and a moment later stepped inside with Sergt. Blaze. The following conversation took place:

"Mr. Insull, if you will return voluntarily with us, we will drive you to Toronto by automobile, and fly back to Chicago in our plane," began Hampton. "Will you return?"

"No," replied Insull shortly.

To Fight Extradition.

"Will you fight extradition?"

"Yes."

"We understood, Mr. Insull, that you were willing to return to Chicago and submit to questioning whenever we wished."

There was no answer.

"Have you changed your mind?" continued Hampton.

"Yes," answered the former utility chief.

"We are prepared to obtain a fugitive warrant for your arrest. If this is done you will be forced to go to jail without hope of bond until such time as a presidential warrant arrives and is acted upon."

Shakes His Head.

"Two," interrupted Insull.

"Will you be here this morning when we come back?"

"I'll always be here," retorted In-

That terminated the interview. Insull disappeared down the hallway. Assistant State's Attorney Hampton and Sergt. Blaze departed. Accompanied by Constable Purvis and Crown Attorney Evans, they raced to Barrie. It was announced they would meet County Judge Jesse Holmes at breakfast time, get the warrant, and return to this town and arrest Insull.

Plane Arrives After Dark.

The plane trip to Toronto from Chicago marked another sensation in the Insull investigation and the effort to bring Martin Insull and his brother, Samuel Insull, who is in Paris, to trial on charges of embezzlement, larceny, and larceny by bailee. The plane arrived at Toronto at 10 o'clock last night and the officials hurried to prevent what they feared was Martin Insull's scheme to flee Canada.

Inquiry there developed the information that Insull had merely conferred with a Canadian law firm and his Chicago lawyer on plans to fight extradition. When Assistant State's Attorney Hampton learned of this he observed that Insull might spare himself imprisonment in jail on a fugitive warrant by returning voluntarily. As it transpired, Insull decided to take a chance.

Trip Ordered by Swanson.

The plane trip was ordered by State's Attorney Swanson in Chicago when it was rumored that Insull was leaving Orillia. Messages were sent here asking that he be detained. Although this was not done, it was announced that Gen. D. C. Draper, chief of Toronto police, and Gen. Williams, provincial police commissioner, had agreed to keep him under surveillance.

Prosecutor Hampton and his party halted at Detroit about dusk and then, with no beacons to guide them, flew by the map to Toronto. The compass and street lights in the towns below guided them to the airport here, where flares were burned to show them the way in.

If Insull continues to fight extradition other formalities besides the capias will be necessary. Edward Bayly, K. C., deputy attorney general of Ontario, said in Toronto last night that a provicial warrant under the dominion extradition act would have to be obtained and an inquiry conducted in court.

Trip Stirs Gossip.

The trip by Insull to Toronto from Orillia was the subject of gossip in this little town and suspicions were freely expressed that he would not be back. These suspicions were dispelled when he returned here late yesterday afternoon.

He carried several suitcases when he left and still had them when he returned. He tipped the taxi driver liberally at the station. Both on departure and return he was met by a delegation of newspapermen, but as usual he declined to make any comment on his affairs.

While he was absent Mrs. Insull first wrote and then, walking down to the telegraph office, dispatched a sheaf of messages. She appeared agitated during the walk. Late in the afternoon she went back to the boarding house. She refused to receive any visitors.

Last evening an automobile with an Illinois license stopped in front of Insull's temporary haven here. Its number was 308-382. Records in Chicago showed that the license had been issued to Mrs. William Barker of 308 Ravine drive, Highland park. The callers were cordially received and remained for more than half an hour and then drove away.

PREPARES FOR BATTLE

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Martin J. Insull, one time Chicago utilities magnate, came hurriedly to Toronto today and engaged a leading law firm to handle the extradition proceedings which are expected to follow the return of indictments charging him with larceny and embezzlement by the Cook county grand jury.

Long before the arrival of representatives of State's Attorney Swanson, hurrying here in an airplane, Insull had motored back to the little village of Orillia, eighty miles north of here, and locked himself in the modest boarding house which has been his home for months.

Chief of his counsel will be J. C. McRuer [king's counsel]. He issued a statement after Insull's departure indicating that his client had no intention of surrendering.

Lawyer Issues Statement.

"Mr. Insull was in Toronto and retained myself and Mr. Mills to advise him in regard to the indictment which is reported to have been preferred against him in Chicago," Mr. McRuer's statement read. "We have consulted with Ely Aaron, his Chicago attorney, and we can't make any additional statement until we have looked into the matter further. Mr. Insull has returned to his home in Orillia."

Besieged by representatives of the press before and after the conference, Insull's only statement was that he had nothing to say. He voiced a plea for privacy in a weary tone.

Yachtsman Goes to Toronto.

It was disclosed yesterday that Frank P. Parish, formerly president of the Missouri-Kansas Pipe Line company, who was indicted in Chicago last March on a charge of misuse of the mails in connection with the operations of his $35,000,000 concern, came here earlier in the week in an effort to see Insull. It is understood that they did not meet, however, and that Parish left Toronto in his yacht Tuesday.

There was a rumor that Insull might take to the Parish yacht and sail to Europe to visit his brother Samuel, but this possibility seems to have been banished.

FIGHTS FOR FUNDS

The action of Prosecutor Swanson in sending a plane to Canada to seek Martin Insull brought to the fore the fight between Mr. Swanson and the Democratic county board, which so far has refused to provide the estimated $10,000 cost of extradition of the two Insulls. Samuel Insull has been living in Paris. Indications last night were that the grand jury, which voted the indictments on charges of embezzlement, larceny by bailee, and larceny against the Insulls, will be called upon to find out why the money is not forthcoming.

Sees Fight Against Arrest.

State's Attorney Swanson, in his first message to Edward Bayly, deputy attorney general of Canada, expressed the fear that Martin Insull was taking steps to evade arrest. His telegram was as follows:

"Will you please procure the arrest and detention of Martin Insull, who resides at Orillia, Canada, and is reported to be en route to Toronto or in Toronto evading apprehension? Martin Insull now stands charged in Chicago with the commission of the crimes of larceny and embezzlement of property of the value of $66,000. Extradition papers are in the process of preparation and will be transmitted to you forthwith."

When Prosecutor Swanson decided on immediate action he was confronted with the shortage of funds. A private plane was chartered for the trip, and part of the expenses are to be borne by private interests.

Immediately after the problem of financing the plane trip was solved the prosecutor was faced with another financial difficulty when a telegram from Gov. Emmerson was placed before him by Assistant State's Attorney Euclid Taylor, his extradition expert. It was as follows:

"Your telegrams received asking that the secretary of state of the United States be requested to secure arrest and detention of Samuel Insull and Martin Insull preliminary to extradition. You doubtless remember that in each case since Cook county failed to pay expenses incurred in October, 1930, in Sheik Ali extradition the state department has inquired 'what assurance can be given that any expense involved will be met by the state of Illinois or Cook county.' Under the law expense must be borne by demanding county. Please advise facts to answer this inquiry."

Asks the County Board.

Prosecutor Swanson called Emmett Whealan, president of the county board, on the telephone and asked for assurance of money. Whealan even refused to call a meeting of the county board.

"I am calling you," Prosecutor Swanson began, "to ask what the county board intends to do about the necessary money for the Insull case."

Mr. Whealan told the prosecutor that the board had no money. Mr. Swanson was obviously angry as he started to talk again.

"Well," he said, "your board got $9,000 for a special grand jury for Judge Fisher. I don't know what the need is of a special grand jury unless it is for political purposes."

There was another pause while the prosecutor listened to Mr. Whealan, and then Mr. Swanson said:

"I don't care what the purpose, but that money was appropriated to pay some one a salary. Where did you get that money?"

Demands Funds for Inquiry.

Mr. Whealan talked again for a minute and Mr. Swanson resumed:

"Well, if you took that money out of a jury fund why can't you transfer some out of the same fund for me? This Insull matter is certainly as much an emergency as a special grand jury and state's attorney.

"I admit my appropriation is exceeded, but what of it? I have had problems with which no other state's attorney has been confronted. I have had scores of bank cases, the sanitary district graft case, the Serritella case, and now this Insull matter to handle out of my regular appropriations. These matters were all important to the public and had to be prosecuted. Criminals do not wait.

An Emergency, He Says.

"If ever an emergency existed it is now. Thousands of investors lost money in this Insull debacle, and I intend to see that these cases are prosecuted. I ask that you call the board together so that I may present the proposition again."

Mr. Whealan again talked and finally Prosecutor Swanson replied:

"Well, the grand jury voted these indictments and maybe the members of that jury are interested in seeing the cases prosecuted."

Prosecutor Swanson refused to amplify his statements, but it was understood that the entire situation will be taken up by the jury this morning. The Democratic county board has twice before refused the funds to carry on the inquiry.

"In reply to your inquiry as to what assurance I can give that expenses of the extradition of the Insull brothers will be paid by the county, please be advised that I an. now conferring with the county board on the subject. I request that you proceed with these extraditions without delay. I assure you that the people of Cook county will never permit two men who are charged with having swindled thousands of persons out of many millions of dollars to escape for the lack of funds to pay the cost of extradition proceedings."

Fear White Slavers May Have Kidnaped Rich Doctor

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUENOS AIRES, Oct. 5. — Police today were on the trail of gangsters who yesterday kidnaped a Jewish millionaire, Dr. Jaime Faveluke, head of the Israelite hospital, whom they are holding for $25,000 ransom. The kidnappers threatened to kill the doctor unless the ransom is paid. The police have no clews of value, but believe the fact that Dr. Faveluke for many years denounced the city's white slave traders may narrow the field of investigation.

MIDDLE WEST CO. WILL ASK R. F. C. FOR $21,000,000

Receivers Act to Rescue Eastern Properties.

A move to extricate the $600,000,000 National Electric Power company from bankruptcy and restore the management of that division of the Insull utilities system to the parent Middle West Utilities company was announced yesterday by Edward N. Hurley and Charles A. McCulloch, receivers for Middle West. Their plan, the receivers said, is advanced solely in the interest of Middle West investors, whose number is approximately 400,000.

E. N. HURLEY. [Du Bois Photo.]

The initial step, the receivers announced, will be to request a $21,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance corporation. With this money the receivers plan immediately to retire a $21,000,000 debt owed by National Electric Power to five New York banks. The plan is understood to have the full approval of Federal Judge Walter C. Lindley, in whose court the Middle West receivership is being administered.

Regain Eastern Assets.

Payment of the $21,000,000 loans, it was pointed out, would remove the New York banks entirely from the predominant position they now occupy in the eastern side of the Middle West picture. It also would enable the receivers for Middle West to regain a claim on the assets of National Electric Power which claim they linquished when that company was adjudged bankrupt last July.

While officials of the R. F. C. were quoted in Washington dispatches last night as indicating doubt that the loan could be arranged, Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch professed themselves confident. The principal objection of the R. F. C., as set forth in the Washington dispatches, was that the law creating the corporation limited R. F. C. loans to railroads, banks, and insurance companies, and contained no provision for loans to utilities.

Seek Loan Through Bank.

It is understood that Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch had found what they hope will prove a way around that obstacle. Instead of asking the loan direct for National Electric Power they will ask it for the Irving Trust company of New York, receiver in bankruptcy for the utility, and will seek authorization for Irving Trust to pay the bank loans.

Having retired the loans, the receivers would then petition Judge Lindley, and the New York federal bankruptcy court where National Electric Power is in ancillary receivership, to permit them to enter an agreement with Irving Trust to manage National Electric Power properties for the period of years over which the Reconstruction Finance corporation loan extends.

In this part of the program, it will be necessary for the receivers also to secure a "standstill" agreement with creditors other than the New York banks. These creditors are the holders of National Electric Power notes and the claimants on bills receivable. The receivers state that they expect no difficulty in securing the "standstill" agreement.

The real implications behind the program of the receivers and the possibilities in the program for Middle West stockholders were explained by a man who has been close to the situation ever since Middle West was placed in receivership last April.

"The key to the situation," he explained, "is in the collateral held by the New York banks on the $21,000,000 loans. This collateral represents in some cases the entire common stock and in all cases the controlling stock of the operating companies of National Electric Power. All these operating companies are sound and most of them are paying dividends."

National Electric Receivers.

"When Hurley and McCulloch were appointed receivers for Middle West, they, of course, became receivers also for the subsidiary National Electric Power," he went on. "Since Middle West had a $40,000,000 stake in National Electric Power, the receivers expected to secure control of the management of the eastern subsidiary. Going into the offices of the eastern company in New York, they discovered insufficient cash on hand and insufficient income to carry on the management.

"Then the receivers applied to the Irving Trust company, as ancillary receiver, for a management fee to enable them to continue the management. That request was refused, and the receivers then decided there was nothing to do but step out of the picture and permit National Electric Power to go into bankruptcy."

Here the commentator related a little of the history of the New York and Chicago federal court procedures in the case to explain the position in which Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch were placed.

"Immediately upon granting of the bankruptcy petition," he said, "the New York banks prepared to auction the collateral they held. The evident plan was to sell it to their own nominees, thus getting control of the valuable operating companies themselves.

Enjoined by Lindley.

"They were forestalled in this plan when Federal Judge Lindley enjoined them from selling the collateral, but immediately they carried an appeal to the federal appellate court where, in the opinion of most lawyers, the injunction in all probability will be dissolved. Unless the loan is granted before this happens, control of the eastern operating companies will pass irrevocably out of the hands of Middle West."

"An indication of the benefits the banks stand to reap is shown in the appraisal by an independent engineering company revealing that the collateral, held for a 21 million dollar loan, was worth at least 36 million dollars as of July 15, the lowest point in the depression."

Subsequently, the commentator explained, Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch returned to Chicago and discovered by studying the position of the central and southwestern companies that the position of Middle West was not so desperate as they had first supposed and that operating economies could be achieved to improve vastly the position of the holding company.

"They found evidence of gross mismanagement in spots," he said, "but the possibilities of improvement were so attractive that they felt a strong chance was offered of preserving the holding company intact. They set to work to achieve economies. They reduced the space and cut the rent payment in the Civic Opera building from $145,000 to $80,000 a year.

Discharge Executives.

"The office staff in headquarters was cut 50 per cent and the field staff 20 per cent. High priced executives, who had been drawing big salaries to send out publicity and to speculate in the stock market, were discharged. As a result the cash position of the operating companies was improved nearly $3,000,000, and the floating debt was reduced nearly $4,500,000."

What they have done for the operating companies in the central and southwest group is also possible in the eastern group, the commentator said. While neither Mr. Hurley nor Mr. McCulloch would be quoted, executives of the eastern operating companies are said to believe that the Middle West executive staff, whatever its weakness under the Insull régime, would be able to manage the operating companies far more efficiently than the New York banks, and in the better interest of the Middle West investors.

Control Now Divided.

Since the bankruptcy of National Electric Power the New York banks have divided control of the respective operating companies among themselves, each managing the company whose collateral they hold. Among these companies are New England Public Service, Virginia Public Service, Eastern Shore Public Service, and Florida Power corporation.

Messrs. Hurley and McCulloch expect to leave Saturday on a 3,500 mile inspection tour of the central and southwest properties of Middle West in Louisiana, Texas and Oklahoma. They expect to be away ten days. Their only comment on the plans for the R. F. C. loan was as follows:

"If this plan can be consummated the Reconstruction Finance corporation will have made a material, constructive contribution in the aid of general business and will have thereby protected the rights and property of over 400,000 American citizens who are interested in properties located in thirty-two states."

APPOINTS RECEIVERS FOR PROPERTY TRUST FORMED BY INSULL

Federal Judge George A. Carpenter yesterday granted a bankruptcy petition brought against the Consolidated Property Trust, Inc., by nominees for the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company and the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, to whom the trust owes approximately $5,000,000. The court appointed Russell Tyson and James G. Alexander receivers and referred the matter to Referee Garfield Charles for a hearing.

Consolidated Property Trust was organized by Samuel Insull in 1931. In the trust were a number of real estate properties owned by Insull personally and others owned by himself and business associates jointly. The properties, which had an appraised value of $14,000,000 at that time, are said to be worth no more than $3,500,000 in the present market.

200 HUNT SUSPECT WANTED IN SLAYING OF INDIANA SHERIFF

Shelbyville, Ind., Oct. 5.—(AP)—More than 300 men hunted James W. Webster, sought as the slayer of Sheriff Ray Compton of Rush county, near here tonight following the discovery of footprints said by officers to measure the same as those left by the fugitive when he jumped from the second story of his home and escaped.

Dave Jones, farmer, led officers into a corn field on his farm, two miles northeast of here, and pointed out a spot where he said he had seen a man who answered the description of Webster. Footprints found, officers said were traced across the corn field toward Shelbyville, finally to be lost in a meadow.

Volunteer possemen from both Shelby county and Rush county, which are adjoining, soon assembled to be led by local officers and eight state policemen in the man hunt. Tonight, officers estimated, there were between 200 and 300 men at the scene.

All were instructed to act with extreme caution. Jones reported that the man he saw carried a revolver in each hip pocket of his blue overalls trousers.

The man he saw, Jones said, answered the description of Webster, appeared bedraggled, and was heavily bearded. Webster has been a fugitive since Monday, when the sheriff was killed.

HALSEY-STUART HEAD ARRESTED ON U. S. CHARGE

3 Officials of Company Face Fraud Trial.

Harold L. Stuart, president of Halsey, Stuart & Co., nationally known investment banking concern that has rivaled the house of Morgan in the underwriting of bonds, yesterday surrendered at the federal building and was served with a warrant charging use of the mails to defraud.

Stuart and two other Chicago officials of the company, E. Hill Leith and Daniel Upp, posted bail of $5,000 each in United States "baby bonds" for appearance at the present term of federal court at Milwaukee, where the indictment was voted. The defendants waived removal hearing before United States Commissioner Edwin K. Walker.

Hides Face with His Hat.

The defendants comported themselves with dignity upon calling at the United States attorney's office and filing into the commissioner's court, but Stuart emerged with his hat before his face to thwart the photographers.

Deputy Marshall Robert Dukelow took the defendants into the marshal's back room, where a ceremony was made of taking the fingerprints of Stuart. His impeccable brown ensemble, set off by a fresh gardenia, was something rarely seen there among the colored dope peddlers and Sicilian alky cookers. Until recently fingerprints were not taken until defendants were convicted, but a new regulation requires this procedure upon indictment and arrest. Mr. Stuart did not protest against the ordeal.

Sold Gold Debentures.

The Chicago defendants, together with three other New York officers of the company, are charged with selling a $2,500,000 issue of gold debentures of the Wardman Realty and Construction company, Washington, D. C., a large portion of which were purchased in Milwaukee. The indictment charges that the debentures were secured by the capital common stock and $2,500,000 in general mortgage bonds of the Wardman Real Estate Properties, Inc., a subsidiary of the other Wardman concern.

Purchasers of the securities, according to the indictment, were led to believe by pamphlets and circulars and by statements of salesmen that the earnings of thirteen hotel and office buildings in the District of Columbia would pay the operating expenses, the 6¼ per cent interest on the debentures, and leave "a substantial profit."

Security of Debentures.

It was represented that the general mortgage bonds were secured by mortgages and trust deeds on these properties, but the indictment charges that these mortgages were subject to prior liens totaling more than 16 million dollars. The common stock, according to the indictment, was "of little value."

"Said defendants," the indictment states, "well knew that the Wardman Realty and Construction company was, and had been from its beginning, a losing venture and would produce no bona fide profits sufficient to pay . . . the underlying incumbrances nor to pay anything on the common stock."

Davis Issues Statement.

Questioned by reporters yesterday Mr. Stuart referred them to a formal statement issued by his counsel, John W. Davis, Democratic nominee for President in 1924.

The statement says the report of a senate committee on real estate financing, of which Senator Blaine [Rep., Wis.] was chairman, was the forerunner of the proceeding against Halsey, Stuart & Co., and characterizes the Wisconsin venue as "strange."

"The government's representatives apparently contend that the bonds secured on these properties are virtually worthless," says the statement. "Yet taxes on the mortgaged properties are being collected by the government on the basis of its own assessed valuation of approximately 15 million dollars. They [the charges] could have been founded only upon a wholly prejudiced misconception of what actually occurred."

The indictments, which were voted last week, contain eight counts, on each of which the defendants could be sentenced to a maximum of five years in the penitentiary and a fine of $1,000 if convicted. There are also eight counts against the company. The date of arraignment of the three defendants has not been set.

Close Friend of Insull.

Harold Stuart was a close friend and business associate of Samuel Insull who was indicted Tuesday by the Cook county grand jury on charges of larceny and larceny by bailee. Stuart sat with Insull on the finance and executive committees of the defunct Insull Utility Investments company, and most of the financing of the two billion dollar Insull utility empire was done by Halsey, Stuart & Co.

The bond house also sold bonds and debentures for certain Chicago newspapers, and Ald. Arthur F. Albert, on the floor of the city council in July, 1930, advocated a federal inquiry to determine whether the newspapers were being influenced by the Insull interests.

SAM INSULL AND SON VANISH FROM HOTEL IN PARIS

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Copyright: 1932: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Between the hours when citizens put out their ash cans in this town and when law-abiding people call for their breakfasts Samuel Insull and his son, Samuel Jr., vanished off the face of this world—as far as all newspaper men in Paris were concerned.

Whether the two fugitives have laid hidden all day in the room of their hotel, held at bay by the pack of news hounds below, or whether, as hotel employés declare, they walked out into the early hours of the dawn unnoticed by any one except the scrubwomen, only time will tell.

Mrs. Insull Still at Hotel.

At the present moment, 11 p. m., there is every reason to believe that the latter version is correct. The frantic efforts of Mrs. Insull to slip through the ring of reporters thrown around the hotel suggests that she is trying to communicate with her husband.

The last seen of Insull and son, according to the hotel manager and employés, was when they went to bed at an early hour last night. When a chamber maid knocked on young Insull's door this morning she found the room empty and the small suite occupied by the elder Insull and his wife occupied only by the latter. That, at least, is the official version at the hotel and there seems every reason for believing that it is true.

Baggage Also Disappears.

There was no baggage or message in either room. No employé of the hotel saw Insull go out or has seen him around the hotel all day. It is presumed that he slipped out unnoticed before the concierge arrived and while the cleaners were at work, the front door being open.

Mrs. Insull, as far as the hotel management is able or willing to divulge, did not give any explanation of her husband's disappearance other than to say that he is out.

For newspaper men the mystery did not develop until well into the afternoon. Early arrivals were informed that Mr. Insull was out, but that he was expected back some time before noon. Although some surprise was manifested over the fact that the Insulls had left the hotel so early, this did not seem incompatible with the half promise given newspaper men by the younger Insull the night before that he would have something to tell them this morning.

Mrs. Insull Tries to Escape.

The afternoon wore on, but still no sign of him. THE TRIBUNE correspondent called Mrs. Insull on the phone. "I know nothing of my husband's movements," she declared in a voice that cracked with hysteria. "Please leave me alone. You have no idea of the state I'm in."

More waiting. Along toward 5 o'clock came a dramatic interruption. Mrs. Insull, wearing a dark suit and black hat, and looking completely recovered from her recent illness, walked quietly out. Shadowed by newspaper men, she failed in an effort to disappear in the crowded streets and returned to the hotel. As she walked in she turned and burst out angrily:

"Why can't you leave me alone? Why do you keep shadowing me? I tell you I know nothing of my husband's affairs. I want to be left in peace."

Fails in Second Attempt.

About half an hour later Mrs. Insull came down from her room again and made a dash for the street, apparently hoping to find a taxi into which she could jump. There was no taxi in sight. There were tears in her eyes and an unmistakable panic in her manner as she reëntered the hotel, stopping to give her tormentors another tongue lashing.

According to the manager of the hotel, Insull's bill was paid up well in advance.

The search for Insull around the town has been unavailing. The American embassy declares it has not yet been informed of any extradition proceedings. Nor has it been asked to request the French police to hold Insull. Three French police branches—the Paris prefecture, the police judiciare, and the surete generale—officially know nothing of Insull's whereabouts in Paris. There is no record of his having left town. A canvass of lawyers' offices so far fails to reveal one that claims him as a client.

LILYAN TASHMAN IS OPERATED ON FOR APPENDICITIS

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Lilyan Tashman, motion picture actress and the wife of Edmund Lowe, screen star, was hurriedly operated upon this afternoon in Harbor sanitarium for an acute attack of appendicitis. At a late hour tonight her condition was said to be "satisfactory."

The actress was taken ill suddenly on Tuesday shortly before she was scheduled to go on the stage of Loew's Metropolitan theater in Brooklyn where she was appearing for a week's engagement. She returned to her apartment at the Waldorf and this morning was taken to the hospital, where physicians decided to operate immediately.

Husband in California.

Dr. Wilbur Ward, Miss Tashman's physician, performed the operation. It was found necessary to administer oxygen to revive the actress from the effects of the anesthetic, and at the hospital it was said that no one would be allowed to visit her for several days.

Friends of the actress said she had been ill for several days.

Mr. Lowe, who is in California working on a new picture, was in touch with the hospital by telephone during the day and was informed of his wife's condition immediately after the operation.

Best Dressed Woman in Films.

Miss Tashman during the last few years has been publicized as "the best dressed woman in the movies." Her theatrical career began when she appeared in the Ziegfeld "Follies of 1917." She later appeared on the legitimate stage both in New York and in stock companies in "The Gold-Diggers," a play by Avery Hopwood, and in Leon Gordon's "The Garden of Weeds." The latter play was made into a film and was the first vehicle of Miss Tashman's screen career.

Miss Tashman played opposite Mr. Lowe in a picture called "Ports of Call" and following its release in 1925 they were married and have since made their home in Hollywood.

ITALY SPRINGS TO AID OF JAPAN ON MANCHURIA

Frowns on League Report as Great Ambiguity.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 5.—The report on Manchuria by Lord Lytton's league of nations commission is meeting disfavor in Italy, according to the first reactions of the press, which are unofficial but indicative. The Italian point of view thus far appears to disagree entirely with that of Secretary of State Stimson.

It maintains that China does not deserve the sympathy of the rest of the world because of its anarchic condition and that Japan's action in taking Manchuria was forced because of an American boycott on Japanese silk and a Chinese boycott on Japanese cotton.

Charges Underemphasis.

Luigi Barzini, editor of the Naples Mattino, which is usually well informed on official views, today charged that the Lytton committee deliberately underemphasized the chaotic conditions and brigandage in China. He termed the report a masterpiece of ambiguity.

"The report does not admit Manchuria's independence but neither does it admit Manchuria's return to the Chinese," Barzini stated. "The trouble is the commitee did not go to China to investigate the oriental situation but to find a way out for the poor league of nations which destiny has called upon to arbitrate an unarbitratable question."

Picturing Japan as menaced with economic destruction and as unable to provide for her population, the Mattino admitted that the Japanese may have been legally wrong but asked, "Up to what point can a strong and civilized country allow itself to be destroyed so as not to embarrass the league of nations? The league's function was to curb strong nations. The Manchurian affair has developed into an effort to maintain a preponderance of weak nations, which is infinitely worse."

Chinese Urge Action.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, Oct. 5.—Suspecting the Lytton commission's report on Manchuria as a prelude to making an "international" state, a group of Chinese business men, students and social workers today sent protests to the national government at Nanking. They urged independent Chinese action to recover the territory, though seeking the friendly relations of soviet Russia, Great Britain, and the United States. They charged that at present the national government has no definite foreign policy.

Tso Yu-liang, wealthy hunchback of Hwanghsien, Shantung, today offered the government about $6,500,000 to launch a campaign against the Japanese in Manchuria and for poor relief.

U. S. Officials Keep Mum.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—The state department will have no comment to make on the Lytton commission's report on the Manchurian situation at present, it was stated in administration circles today. Secretary of State Stimson has persistently answered inquiries to the effect that he has nothing to say. It is apparent, however, that the state department is highly pleased with the findings of the league of nations commission.

British Proposal for 4-Power Disarmament Parley Fails

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The British proposal to hold a four power conference in London in an effort to end the disarmament deadlock over Germany's demand for arms equality has failed. British official circles tonight entertain no hope of reconciling the conflicting French and German standpoints.

It has been suggested that as an alternative to a four power conference, the Geneva disarmament conference might be able to induce Germany to return to the fold by promising drastic cuts in armaments, but France will not agree to such a course without obtaining additional guarantees of security, which neither America nor Britain can offer.

Germany Insists on Equality.

Germany maintains the attitude that she will not attend the proposed London conference unless informed beforehand of the acceptance of her claim to at least theoretical equality.

In these circumstances, British official circles do not see at the moment what further steps could be taken to induce Germany to attend the Geneva conference. Consequently, in some quarters there is a tendency to let things drift for the present in order to allow the various technical committees of the conference to continue their labors without German coöperation.

Intervention by the United States after the presidential election is regarded here as conceivable and it is suggested that America might seek to infuse fresh vigor into the disarmament conferences by some bold initiative and a powerful form of pressure.

Germany Sets Two Conditions.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—Germany will participate in the proposed four power parley on disarmament in London under two conditions.

The talks must be as among equals, unhampered by the abortive Geneva disarmament talks. The powers must agree to endeavor to draw up a schedule of armament applicable to all nations without special and extra legislation humiliating to Germany.

Within this schedule, to be adopted by all nations involved in the disarmament conference, Germany is willing to make big concessions to soothe France, a high official said.

Germany is ready to be satisfied with a very small military force, compared to that of France, provided she is allowed to use the same military methods used by her neighbors and provided that she is not subjected to special laws directed against her only.

Italy Accepts Invitation.

ROME, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Italian government informed Great Britain today of its willingness to attend the proposed conference for consideration of Germany's right to equality in arms.

CROSS-BILL FOR DIVORCE FILED BY S. F. COONS

Sanford F. Coons, retired cosmetics manufacturer who was arrested two weeks ago after he had shot a private detective employed by his wife, filed a cross-bill for divorce yesterday in the Superior court against Mrs. Lillian M. Coons.

He also filed an answer to the bill for separate maintenance which Mrs. Coons filed shortly before the shooting. She hired the detective, Humphrey W. Falls, to protect her home at 9813 South Winchester avenue, and Coons shot him when he was denied admittance to the house. A charge of assault with a deadly weapon placed against Coons after the shooting was continued to Oct. 13 yesterday because Falls still is in a hospital.

In his cross-bill Coons charges his wife with drunkenness and cruelty. He charges that twice before divorce proceedings were withdrawn by him at her request.

STATURE LIMIT DEPRIVES CITY OF A GOOD COP

The lack of two inches in stature, according to city records, is keeping Walter Wallinski, a butcher in his father's market at 5058 Fullerton avenue, from realizing his ambition to become a policeman. The required height is 5 feet 9 inches.

Last year Walter told his ambition to join the force to Police Commissioner Allman after he had captured two robbers single handed. Since then he has twice demonstrated that he would make a good policeman with the recovery of a stolen car, and on Tuesday with the capture of an automobile thief.

Despite Walter's prowess in actual police duties, city officials said they cannot overlook his deficiency in height.

'THE BAWTH' FINDS MR. GAW'S SONG CREAKS IN SPOTS

BY VIRGINIA GARDNER.

No doubt exists in the mind of John [Bathhouse] Coughlin, alderman of the First ward, himself a former unofficial poet laureate of the city council and an authority on lyrics and librettos, that City Greeter George D. Gaw is the true originator of "Greetings: Chicago Welcomes You."

Examining the words of "The Windy City," which Mrs. Margaret McHale Wright, 4806 West Congress street, its co-author, claims inspired the greeter's song, Ald. Coughlin leaned forward in his swivel chair in his insurance office at 118 North La Salle street, and said:

A Couple of Yo! Hos!

"Why, she's plagiarizing herself in that there first line! She says, 'Yo! ho! hear the wind blow.' Now that 'Yo! ho!' is taken directly out of an old song that goes like this:

Ald. Coughlin, after dispensing with the question of alleged plagiarism, then criticized the Gaw song purely on its merits as a composition.

"That bit about 'in eighteen-thirty-three' is nice, yes, very appropriate," said Ald. Coughlin. "That's a wonderful first stanza. I remember how well it was rendered before the council. I wonder if Mrs. Wright had anything to do with the council's not accepting the song as the official song of Chicago right off the bat."

That Chorus.

Silently Ald. Coughlin perused the chorus of the Gaw song, which begins with the line, "O, Chicago's proud to be that city of destiny." He shook his head with regret, then say gently:

"I don't like to be too harsh a critic. That 'destiny' is a good word all right. But what about the rhyme? Is the rhyme all it should be? No, it isn't. Here's a little suggestion of my own—that after that first line, there be another, on this order: 'Where there will be no calamity.' See, 'destiny' rhymes with 'calamity.' That would improve it."

He was silent again, until the Gaw verse prompted an ejaculation of admiration.

"Now there's a real line for you," he said, "'You'll feel our welcome sign all over our skyline.' That's original. And that phrase 'when you arrive by land and air'—that's new. Haven't been arriving by air until the last five years. I never got that in any of my verses.

Something Different.

"I see he brings 'handclasp' in here," he continued. "That's good. Something different. But I don't like this last part of the second verse very well. It's good, but just a little bit rough, and the rhyme isn't perfect. He has it like this:

"'Our hotels and industries, our great facilities,
'Will serve you with a friendship that is true;
'Our Century of Progress will your world's fair be,
'So this is why we sing to you.'

"Now, if he had said: '——will your world's fair be, so this is why we sing to thee,' it would go better. Or why not make it like this:

"'Our Century of Progress will be your world's fair
'When on your visit here we'll share . . .'

"At any rate, it's a wonderful song, and I like the sentiment. It reminds me of one I wrote when Carter Harrison II. was mayor. It began:

"'Take up the shout of Harrison
'For he's the people's friend.'

"I used to write lots of songs, including 'Dear Midnight of Love' and others. I haven't time now, but I still appreciate good music and good verse when I hear it. And while I don't consider Col. Gaw's song perfect, it's superior to the lady's song."

LAWYERS RAZZ JUDGES, CLERKS IN STAGE SKIT

Receiverships Are Lampooned.

A riotous sketch satirizing the appointment of receivers in Chicago's courts was presented last night by youthful members of the Chicago Bar association. Judges, clerks, masters in chancery, and lawyers were lampooned in a musical comedy entitled "Alice Bond in Foreclosureland."

More than 500 jurists and attorneys packed the rooms of the association in the Burnham building at La Salle and Randolph streets to witness the sketch. Judges of the Circuit and Superior courts guffawed as their judgments in receivership cases were presented in an ironical light.

Opens in a Speakeasy.

The play opened in a speakeasy located "just across from the courthouse." Alice Bond, portrayed by Miss Kathryn Barasa, daughter of former Judge B. P. Barasa, appeared as a rapidly ailing customer. Her temperature was sinking from a par of 100 to a disastrous 60.

It was apparent, according to the play, that Miss Bond was nearing Foreclosureland. The second scene showed lawyers lined up, armed with chisels, ready to race to capture Miss Bond as soon as a foreclosure was declared. Official bondholders' committees waited in the wings.

Court Clerks' Offices.

The scene next shifted to the offices of the Superior and Circuit court clerks' offices. The attorneys in the audience applauded mightily as the players sang a song entitled "For Clerking's a Grand Old Racket." The court clerks on the stage sang a song which ended:

Perhaps you'd like a case to go
Before a judge you slightly know.
Arrangements can be made for dough,
For clerking's a grand old racket.

A courtroom scene in which the judge auctioned off appointments to receiverships was another hit of the comedy. An attorney who promised that he would see the judge was kept on the bench for another term was declared the high bidder.

CANADA APPOINTS BOARD OF THREE TO CONTROL RADIO

OTTAWA, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The new Canadian radio broadcasting commission will be headed by Hector Charlesworth, Toronto editor. Thomas Maher, Quebec journalist, will be vice chairman. Lieut. Col. W. A. Steel, Ottawa, director of radio research for the national research council, will be the third member.

Official announcement of the personnel of the commission was made this evening. The chairman will receive a salary of $10,000 a year. Vice Chairman Maher and Commissioner Steel will each receive an annual salary of $8,000.

Establishment of the commission was authorized by the last parliament. The commission is empowered to carry on the business of broadcasting in Canada and regulate and control broadcasting by other agencies.

DYNAMITE PETE TELLS POLICE OF BOMBING CAREER

A bomber told police about his racket last night, boasted that he had placed more than 200 bombs in his career, and then pointed out that he didn't mind talking because the statute of limitations had expired on all his crimes. He is Peter Cunniff, 53 years old, known as "Dynamite Pete." He has never been convicted.

Cunniff was arrested yesterday by Sergts. William Hennessy and Timothy Donovan of Lieut. John Treacy's bomb squad for questioning in the recent bombing of Judge John P. McGoorty's home which blinded a youth and injured a girl. He denied any knowledge of that outrage, but ventured the opinion that the bombing was not meant for the judge. Then he went on to tell of his own exploits.

"I came to Chicago in 1904 from the southern Illinois mining camps, where I learned to handle dynamite," said Cunniff. "I became a labor organizer. I got $75 a week and $100 a month expenses. Of course, I set some bombs, more than 200 from 1904 to 1914. In 1914 I placed my last one. I never threw a bomb in my life. I always laid them. No one was ever hurt because I used my head and was always sober."

RECEIVER NAMED FOR ATTORNEY IN $500,000 FRAUD

Criminal Charges Against C. F. Glaeser Delayed.

Edwin D. Buell was appointed yesterday as receiver for the affairs of Attorney Charles F. Glaeser, who made a voluntary confession Monday that he had defrauded clients of $500,000 in fraudulent mortgage deals. The action was taken by Federal Judge George A. Carpenter on the petition for involuntary bankruptcy filed in behalf of Mrs. Anna Gart, who invested $18,000 with the attorney.

The petition filed by Attorney Lewis E. Pennish fixed the assets of Glaeser at $100,000 and his liabilities at $600,000. The figures were based on an incomplete investigation, the attorney said. He estimated that the losses of investors would reach $1,000,000. Fifty of the fraudulent mortgages brought to light in the preliminary investigation bore the name of "John Smith," Attorney Pennish said. Attorney Allen W. Cook, representing Glaeser, agreed to the receivership.

Fifteen Victims Quizzed.

Placing of criminal charges against Glaeser was delayed yesterday while fifteen victims were questioned in the office of the state's attorney. Glaeser will be charged with embezzlement and forgery in the Felony court, probably tomorrow, according to Assistant State's Attorney Henry Ayers.

The largest loser listed during the day's investigation was Dr. Thomas S. Noble, 1430 Leland avenue, a dentist, who told the prosecutor that he had lost $150,000 intrusted to Glaeser. Alfred P. Lehner, 874 North Clark street, also filed a statement claiming a loss of $37,000. Mrs. Marie Heinrich, 2607 Blaine place, said that Glaeser had taken her life savings of $30,000.

Knew Glaeser from Boyhood.

"I knew Glaeser ever since he was a boy," she said. "We were raised together. I trusted him like a member of my family. And now my life savings are gone."

Prosecutor Ayers said that he would not be able to set a definite figure on the amount of money taken by Glaeser until the investigation is completed. He will ask a continuance in the Felony court in order to complete the investigation, he said.

HOUSE DEFEATS EXTRA SESSION RELIEF PLANS

Illinois Action Will Await Election.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Slaughter of the three main bills intended for the relief of the unemployed marked today's meeting of the fourth special session of the Illinois general assembly.

As the day closed, with an impressive appeal by Speaker Shanahan of the house that his associates respond if there is an urgent call in the meantime, the lawmakers practically concluded their efforts until after the election Nov. 8.

There will be a "ghost session" continued from week to week in order to retain legal existence that may be necessary if a desperate crisis arises, but tomorrow's meeting of the two chambers is considered of the "perfunctory" sort that accomplishes nothing.

Senate Defeats Sales Tax.

The three bills killed today went down to defeat in the house of representatives—none of them coming near the two-thirds vote of 102 required for immediate effectiveness—and the senate also voted down for the second time one of the same measures, the bill for an optional county sales tax.

The two major relief measures which officials of the Reconstruction Finance corporation were told would be pressed were this county sales tax bill—on a state-wide basis—and a bill permitting the counties to divert directly to relief work their one cent share of the three cent gasoline tax. The senate last week gave only 29 votes, instead of the required 34, for the sales tax bill after it was amended to limit its operation to Cook county. Today the senate produced only 20 votes for the same limited measure.

House Defeats Same Bill.

In the house, however, the defeat of an identical bill was even more decisive. It lost by a vote of 80 for to 43 against. That left it 22 votes short of the necessary two-thirds. On the heels of this action the house also beat the Meents bill for the issuance of county bonds for relief purposes, the vote being 78 for to 21 against.

Even earlier the house beat the gasoline tax diversion bill by a vote of 93 for to 23 against—102 votes being required for passage with the emergency clause included.

Then the senate by a vote of 35 to 1 passed a gas tax diversion bill which then was transmitted to the house, which had decisively beaten an identical measure. It was placed on the calendar of the lower chamber.

Meets Again Oct. 13.

The three relief bills, however, are on the house calendar for the next meeting Thursday, Oct. 13. Registration day in Chicago makes Tuesday, Oct. 11, a holiday; the following day is Columbus day.

The house appointed a committee of ten, headed by Floor Leader Roger F. Little [Rep., Champaign], to confer with a similar committee of the senate on a program of procedure for next week. While the senate voted to take a recess only until next Tuesday, that departure from the house schedule probably will be changed tomorrow.

The warmest debate of the day occurred in the senate on the second effort to pass the county sales tax bill. Thomas J. Courtney [Dem., Chicago], sought to erase last week's amendment limiting the bill to Cook county, but he was defeated by a vote of 18 to 10.

Then, over protests on constitutional grounds, the bill was sent up to third or final reading and there it lost by a vote of 20 for to 14 against—34 yeas being required for passage with the emergency clause.

On these roll calls there was the expected split between downstate and Cook county. Chicagoans charged that it was unfair to "put them on the spot" by forcing them to stand alone in voting to open the way for new taxation. Most of them voted against the bill rather than take the political consequences. All the negative votes, except three, came from Cook county senators—eleven of them.

Oppose "Gas" Tax Diversion.

In the house votes Cook county members failed to support the gasoline tax diversion bill. That failed by nine votes, and there were exactly nine Cook county members who voted against it, while another dozen from Chicago either were absent or failed to vote. A movement to prevent any cessation of road building was regarded as being reflected in the roll call on that bill.

Similar failure of Cook county members to support the relief program was obvious in connection with the Tice bill for the optional county sales tax on a state-wide basis.

School Board Is Helped.

Attorney Ralph Condee of the Chicago board of education was the only man who found a smile in the day's proceedings. On a second effort the Roderick bill permitting the board to issue tax warrants to meet the interest and principal on bond issues was passed by a vote of 107 to 0.

The Graham bill to permit the Chicago sanitary district and other municipalities of the state to pledge their bonds and tax warrants as security for loans from the Reconstruction Finance corporation was also passed by the house by a vote of 106 to 0. Those two measures now go to the governor's office. Gov. Emmerson, still in ill health, has gone to Wisconsin for a few days' fishing and from there may go to Biloxi, Miss., for further rest.

HURT IN FALL

MAJ. GEN. SMEDLEY BUTLER.

Newtown Square, Pa., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, retired, was confined to his bed today with a back injury sustained yesterday when he fell down a ladder in a well.

CHARITIES LACK MONEY FOR RENT, LANDLORDS TOLD

Barely Enough Available to Feed Jobless.

Joel Hunter, head of the United Charities, yesterday explained to landlords why the relief agencies are unable to pay rent for families on their rolls. There are approximately 700,000 unemployed in Cook county, whose daily salaries in normal times amount to about $2,000,000, he said, while relief agencies are spending daily for their food about $150,000.

JOEL D. HUNTER.

The difference between the $2,000,000 of lost wages and the $150,000 of relief money available for each day represents not only rent but many other necessities of life, Mr. Hunter said. The relief agencies believe, however, that if the minimum food requirements of the unemployed are met they may be able, through odd jobs and working for their landlords, to satisfy the other basic necessities.

Jobs Only Real Remedy.

"It is not that we don't want to pay for rent, but there is not enough money in relief funds to permit it," he said. "Relief activities cannot solve an industrial depression; it can only tide the unemployed through. Only work will enable them to get back on their feet. With a decrease in allocations for this month, due to lack of funds, we must reduce relief rather than add to it.

"In none of the other large cities are relief funds being used to pay rent for the unemployed. We may all be wrong, but our idea is that we must feed them first. Some private agencies dealing with families that have complications in addition to unemployment may be paying for more rent than we do, but that is a different situation.

"If some of the families give their new landlords the impression that the relief agency is to pay for their rent you can hardly blame them, because they are desperate and will do anything to get shelter. We do not, in any manner, aid or abet unemployed families in deluding their landlords in this manner, nor do we ever state that we will pay for rent beyond the first month."

Pay Only First Month's Rent.

Mr. Hunter was interviewed after a number of landlords protested that they were being imposed upon by tenants who are on relief rolls. The tenants told them their rent would be paid by the relief agencies, the landlords said, and the first month's rent was paid. Then after the rent is in arrears for several months the tenants refuse to move until they are evicted, a process that is costly to the landlord.

Arthur Kruggel, chairman of the board of governors of the renting and management division of the Chicago Real Estate board, declared that most of the landlords have taken the situation in their own hands and are investigating each applicant for tenancy to determine if they are on the relief rolls. If they are, the landlord knows he can expect no rent after the first month.

LOCAL COMMITTIES MUST PROVIDE OWN RELIEF IN MONTH

Galesburg, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Relief funds supervised by the Illinois emergency relief commission will be gone by the end of this month, and local communities must make plans to provide their own aid after that time, Charles E. Miner of the state commission declared here today before a regional meeting of the Illinois conference on social welfare.

Mr. Miner said that in one Illinois county a third of the population had been receiving aid through the state fund. He praised the Knox county relief commission for its refusal to aid as a group striking miners, saying relief is to be administered on a family and not group basis. Pickets here asked for a commissary to feed the strikers and their families.

Passage of the 20 million dollar bond issue, on penalty of doubling present property taxes if it fails, was urged.

Il Duce Puts Lawyers Over Poets and Philosophers

ROME, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Premier Mussolini paid a compliment to the Italian lawyers today at their national convention by ascribing to them a place higher than the poets and philosophers who produced the renaissance. The honor, he said, was due the lawyers because they revived the Roman law. Rome, he added, would have been less great if it had not been for its law.

BRITAIN AGREES ON NEGOTIATIONS OVER IRISH ROW

Parley on Economic War to Begin Oct. 14.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Oct. 5.—A long step toward settlement of the Anglo-Irish economic war which started over the withholding of land annuities due the British government under an agreement made by the late Irish government of William T. Cosgrave was accomplished today when President Eamon de Valera of the Free State, who is on his way home from the league of nations meeting at Geneva, met British cabinet ministers at the dominions office.

After a three hours' talk it was agreed that the matter should be taken up by direct negotiation between the governments and that discussions should begin in London on Oct. 14.

Triumph for Ireland.

This is a triumph for the Free State point of view. The British have been insisting from the beginning that the dispute be submitted to a tribunal composed of states of the British commonwealth, while De Valera demanded that foreigners be eligible to sit on the tribunal or that the matter be referred to The Hague or some other international court.

During the discussions at the imperial conference at Ottawa between J. H. Thomas, British secretary for dominions, and Sean O'Kelly, Irish vice president, O'Kelly suggested that the best way would be by direct negotiation between the two governments at which the whole question of financial relations between England and Ireland could be reviewed.

Terms of Parley Uncertain.

Whether the entire financial question will be discussed under the terms of today's agreement is not clear. Both sides refused to amplify the agreed statement, but since the original quarrel over the land annuities, which amount to £3,000,000 [$15,000,000 at par] annually, De Valera has withheld other sums—for pensions—making a total amount of about £5,000,000 [$25,000,000 at par] annually.

De Valera was accompanied at today's meeting by Connor McGuire, Irish attorney general. The British representatives were Thomas, Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon, War Secretary Viscount Hailsham, and Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain. De Valera returned to Ireland this afternoon.

The question of removal of James McNeill as governor general of the Free State and the appointment of his successor was not mentioned officially at today's meeting. This is due to the fact that the British ministers have nothing to do with the appointment of a governor general, who, under the constitution and the statute of Westminster, is appointed by the king on the advice of the Irish cabinet.

It is reported that De Valera intends to fill the post by a man of his own selection. Most prominently mentioned is Senator Tom Johnson, former leader of the Irish Labor party. Johnson is an Englishman. He was formerly leader of the Irish railroad union. Another name mentioned is that of Dr. Oliver St. John Gogarty, famous Dublin surgeon and oculist. Gogarty has been an Irish Nationalist for many years, but he has not been closely identified with either party since the founding of the Free State.

POLICE ARREST 6 IN HIGH PRESSURE STOCK BOOSTING

Six easterners were arrested yesterday in a five room suite in the Morrison hotel from which they were conducting a high pressure telephone campaign to get possession of shares of a television company or—the object of the promoters was not definitely established—to sell more of these shares.

Before leaving the hotel in police custody the men paid a telephone bill of $942, said to represent calls put in on Tuesday.

A seventh man, who had been with the others, was heard, on a tapped wire, according to the police, to warn a man named Harvey in New York to "get rid of all the records; the cops are here."

Six Men Are Arrested.

Those arrested are Nate Schwartz, 11 Stone street, New York; Jacob Kleinberg, 1124 North 64th street, Philadelphia; William Goldman, 1601 Overdahl building, New York; Samuel Halpert, 1121 7th avenue, Brooklyn; William Perles, 812 Lafayette avenue, Brooklyn; and Jerry Kozman Marseilles hotel, New York.

Shortly after they were taken to the detective bureau a writ of habeas corpus was requested in their behalf. A hearing on the application will be held before Judge John Prystalski this morning.

The story of the operations of the men, as told by the police, was as follows:

On Saturday they engaged the Morrison suite. They had with them a list of several thousand names, all of persons owning stock in the Short Wave Television corporation, which is listed on the New York Produce exchange and commands a price of about $1.12 a share. This list has been seized by the police.

Urged to Send Stock In.

Calling the names on this roster, the men in the hotel suite are said to have informed the stock owners that a merger of the company and another is imminent and that the stock will advance sharply and sell at 15 by Oct. 15. The stockholders were then urged, it was said, to send their stock certificates to the office of S. E. Price, broker at 11 Stone street, New York, for transfer to shares of the new corporation. If the hearer agreed to do this he was then urged to buy several hundred more shares.

Telegrams in the suite, purporting to come from Price, carried the same statements about the prospective rise of the shares.

No complainants, the police said, had appeared to press any action against the men. How the arrests came to be made was kept something of a mystery. The police said that Sam Scolnik, who was arrested Tuesday when he asked at the Palmer house for a letter addressed to Frank Bowman, gave the information which resulted in the listening in on the promoters' lines. The letter, which has not yet been opened, is believed by the police to contain a check.

Investigation in New York brought the information that the Price concern has an office in Stone street, but none of the managers could be found last night.

The students, he said, refused to attend the military training course which is compulsory during the first two years.

MYERS DEFENDS BANKERS FROM TEACHERS' FIRE

Blames Unpaid Taxes for Refusal of Pay Loans.

Replying to a query by the Men Teachers' union as to why school board warrants have so long gone begging, Lewis E. Myers, president of the board, said yesterday that he thought the bankers had a "very good defense" for refusing to buy the warrants in the face of uncertain tax collections.

In his letter to the union, Mr. Myers said he could not speak for the citizens' committee on public expenditures, which the union had accused of breaking a promise to aid the sale of warrants once it had won a 15 million dollar reduction in the school budget. He suggested that the committee members might answer for themselves.

Points to Unpaid Taxes.

Nonpayment of taxes was Mr. Myers' general answer to the union's request for an explanation of "exactly why the banks will not buy the board's tax anticipation warrants, and what further conditions they now demand."

"The only demand made by the banks, of which I have knowledge," said Mr. Myers' letter, "is that taxes shall be paid. In view of the fact that the 1931 tax roll has not yet been completed [although the taxes were payable in May, 1931,] and that there is much doubt as to when and what amount of taxes will be paid on the 1931 roll, I think the banks have a very good defense in refusing to advance their depositors' money in the face of such uncertainties. I have no interest in any bank and am not attempting to defend them; I am simply giving you the facts as I see them."

"I would like to emphasize that figures made available to me disclose that there are approximately $240,000,000 of uncollected taxes for 1928, 1929 and 1930, of which the city schools' portion for 1930 alone is approximately $48,000,000.

"Another factor which I think is contributing to the present situation is that there are something over $40,000,000 of tax warrants of various years, issued by the city and school board, to teachers and others, which are now being bought at a discount and used to pay taxes. This of course, brings no usable revenue either to the schools or the city treasury."

Predicts Autos Driven by Dialing in Five Years

TORONTO, Oct. 5.—(AP)—R. S. Burnett, New York, manager of the standards department of the Society of Automobile Engineers, in session here, told the gathering today that perhaps the next five years would bring about the operation of an automobile by one small dial on the steering wheel. Braking, acceleration, choking, and gear changing would all be controlled by the dial, he predicted.

LOOK FOR SMITH TO SWING MILLION TO ROOSEVELT

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Joy reigned in the governor's mansion today as Franklin D. Roosevelt measured the effects of the drubbing he had given Tammany Hall and of the handshake he had joined in with Al Smith.

That handshake, taking place last night before 10,000 hysterical onlookers at the Democratic state convention in this city, is reckoned by the Roosevelt managers to be worth more than a million votes to the governor.

Pictures of the event, going in the movies and in newspapers all over the country, are expected to warm the hearts of the friends of Al Smith fans toward Roosevelt—the same hearts that before the handshake may have been cool because their idol had refrained from making any personal plea for Gov. Roosevelt.

The Roosevelt-Smith victory over Tammany, which last night resulted in the nomination of Lieut. Gov. Herbert H. Lehman for governor of New York and the reunion of Smith and Roosevelt, leaves but one cloud in the New York political skies, as they are seen in the Roosevelt camp.

Even that cloud may be blown away, it is said. It is the possibility that Jimmy Walker, resigned mayor of New York, may be renominated for that office in his campaign for "vindication."

The New York county convention meets tomorrow to name Democracy's candidate for mayor. In view of the defeat suffered in the state convention by John F. Curry, the Tammany chief, there are now many political prognosticators who declare that Curry will be unable to deliver the county convention to Walker; and some reports are that Curry, recognizing his perilous position and the danger that Tammany will remove him as leader, may abandon the hope of nominating Walker.

Roosevet Renews Routine.

Gov. Roosevelt plunged today into the duties of the governorship of New York. He consulted with Mark Graves, director of the budget, on the progress being made in slicing 60 million dollars from the state expenses. The governor expects during the next two weeks to devote almost his entire time in affairs of state.

On Oct. 17, according to his present plans, he will leave on his second campaign tour, this one taking him to the border states of the southland, where he will show that in his plans for rehabilitation of the nation he has not forgotten the south. This tour will wind up in St. Louis.

Want Smith for Mayor.

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith, whose reconciliation with Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt was a feature of the Democratic state convention in Albany last night, is seriously being considered by certain Tammany district leaders as the organization's candidate for mayor in the event of a special election.

The Democratic organization here must decide tomorrow night in Madison Square Garden on a nomination, which, however it goes, is certain to cause John F. Curry, Tammany leader, further embarrassment.

Mr. Curry, his political power considerably weakened at Albany, was in New York City early this morning preparing for the city-wide convention.

The Roosevelt people are spreading the word that if James J. Walker should be nominated the governor would openly oppose his election.

Acting Mayor Joseph V. McKee is certain to run as an independent candidate, and very possibly with the indorsement of the Republican organization.

Would Please Roosevelt.

A close associate of Gov. Roosevelt declared today that the governor had not contracted any bargains to remove himself from the city mayoralty situation in return for Mr. Lehman's nomination.

It is believed the governor would be pleased if Mr. Smith should by any chance receive a mayoralty nomination tomorrow night.

Mr. Smith returned from Albany today and said that all the comment about the Democratic convention was "in the newspapers."

Asked if he expected to attend the city convention of county committeemen, he replied: "I have nothing to say."

Political Junket Arouses Congressman.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The recent political junket in which a government barge was towed along the Illinois waterways for the edification of the populace and the benefit of Len Small's campaign for governor, is going to receive a thorough airing when officials of the Inland Waterway corporation come to congress to get next year's appropriation.

REP. JOSEPH W. BYRNES. [A. P. Photo.]

This promise was made today by Representative Joseph W. Byrns (Dem., Tenn.), chairman of the house appropriations committee.

"The case is one of the most outrageous of which I have heard," he declared. "Here we have the spectacle of a federal agency furnishing federal property to be used for partisan purposes, and I do not speak as a partisan when I say that. It is such cases of the misuse of federal property that have caused the taxpayers to demand that the government cut out nonessentials and economize.

Future Political Trips Barred.

"It does not matter whether a check, in the nature of an afterthought, was sent to pay for the barge's use. The people's money was invested in the Inland Waterways corporation in order to rebuild our waterway commerce and not for the purpose of providing a floating dance hall for a political speech."

At the same time that the barge expedition was creating this repercussion in Chairman Byrns' office word went out from the office of Secretary of War Hurley that instructions had been issued that in the future no government property is to be loaned, rented, or in any way provided for anybody's political excursions.

This order, it was assumed, would supersede the stand taken by Maj. Gen. T. Q. Ashburn, head of the waterways corporation, who, when asked about the barge case, replied that the case was closed, but that he would be glad to rent more barges for $20 a day. Congressman William E. Hull, Republican, Lame duck of Peoria, who obtained the loan of the barge by asserting it was for a waterway celebration, later, after the protests had begun to pour in, sent the waterways corporation a check for $200 for ten days' rental.

Inquiry Finds Nothing.

Complaints concerning the loan of the barge reached Washington the day before Secretary Hurley left for the recent American Legion convention. He left instructions with Gen. Ashburn and Assistant Secretary of War Payne that if inquiry showed that the waterway trip was to be political the loan of the barge was to be canceled.

The inquiry, it appeared in the days that followed, consisted principally of communicating with Congressman Hull and having him issue reassurances that the junket was not political. Though faced with protesting telegrams and illuminating newspaper articles from Illinois all showing the political nature of the Len Small trip the investigators professed themselves to be satisfied with what Congressman Hull had told them.

Secretary Hurley returned to Washington to find the "political barge case" grown notorious. The secretary then, officials said today, ordered that Mr. Hull should be sent a bill for the barge just as if it had been hauling pumpkins instead of politicians.

In promising an airing of the barge affair today Representative Byrns revealed that Gen. Ashburn is not the only government official scheduled for an explanation concerning the use of government watercraft.

"An investigation is already under way," he said, "concerning the use of launches or yachts, or whatever you choose to call them, by war department engineers. A typical case which has come to our attention is one of a district engineer for whom a forty foot launch was purchased. The result is that he takes parties of men and women joy riding.

"This man and the others who could accomplish their work just as well in a rowboat with an outboard motor represent the federal agency which has just received 25 million dollars of taxpayers' money to be used in rivers and harbors construction for unemployment relief purposes.

"No wonder the people are angry when they see the money which spells crushing taxes to them spent on barges to be used for political junkets and launches on which army engineers can take their friends on jolly picnics."

GARNER REPLIES TO HOOVER ATTACK ON HIS RELIEF MEASURE

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Answering the charges made against him in President Hoover's Des Moines speech, Speaker John N. Garner, Democratic vice presidential nominee, today defended the Garner relief and construction bill which President Hoover vetoed with the announcement that it was a "pork barrel measure" and one putting the government into the pawn brokerage business. Mr. Garner insisted that it was unfair for the Reconstruction Finance corporation to limit its loans to banks, insurance companies, and other "select" institutions. Farmers and home owners with acceptable collateral, he said, should be equally entitled to federal loans.

As for the "pork barrel" features of the emergency construction bill which the speaker drew up and pushed through the house at the last session, he declared Mr. Hoover was now taking credit for all construction projects at present being initiated.

Mr. Garner again assailed the President on the tariff, and concerning Mr. Hoover's promises of future action the Democratic vice presidential nominee said: "Offering no apologies, I say with all the emphasis at my command that if we judge the promises he now makes in the light of those he has made and failed to fulfill, either his sincerity or his ability to make good his latest pledges is seriously open to question."

FEDERAL COURT'S ACT UPSETS LATEST DRY LAW TRAP IN EAST

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The government's latest attempt to simplify the padlocking of speakeasies failed today. Federal Judge Woolsey ruled that service of the landlord is not sufficient. He granted motions on behalf of nineteen landlords, but about 1,000 cases, pending and prepared, are affected.

On July 21, the Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that service of bartenders or other employés is not sufficient, and the government then began to serve landlords. Hoping, as United States Attorney Medalie said, that they would file cross complaints naming the actual tenants, who thus would be "smoked out."

Judge Woolsey held that as landlords are not in personal occupancy of the premises complained of they are not the proper persons to serve.

APPEALS TO HIGH COURT IN FREEING OF 'FUR' SAMMONS

A petition for a mandamus to force Judge Edward Shurtleff of Woodstock to revoke the order that freed James (Fur) Sammons, public enemy and killer, was sent to the state Supreme court yesterday by State's Attorney Swanson. The petition holds that Judge Shurtleff exceeded his jurisdiction when he granted the gangster freedom from Joliet penitentiary on July 16.

Sammons was sentenced to death for the murder of Patrick Barrett, a saloonkeeper, in 1904, and at the same time given a term of one year to life for robbery with a gun. The death sentance was commuted to life imprisonment, then reduced to fifty years by Gov. Len Small in 1922, and a month later Sammons was paroled.

Sammons was sent back to Joliet in 1930 when Judge John P. McGoorty ruled that the parole act did not apply to commutations. He was upheld by the state Supreme court. Sammons gained his freedom in a habeas corpus proceeding before Judge Shurtleff, in which the gangster held he had been jailed without due process of law.

WITH CLIVE IN INDIA

"Nature in the Raw"—as portrayed by the noted artist, Karl Godwin... inspired by the fierce and brilliant assault by Clive and a handful of followers, outnumbered 20 to 1 by savage hordes of bloodthirsty natives, at the Battle of Plassey—the birth of the British Indian Empire—as described in the famous Henty book, "With Clive in India."

—and raw tobaccos have no place in cigarettes

They are not present in Luckies ... the mildest cigarette you ever smoked

WE buy the finest, the very finest tobaccos in all the world—but that does not explain why folks everywhere regard Lucky Strike as the mildest cigarette. The fact is, we never overlook the truth that "Nature in the Raw is Seldom Mild"—so these fine tobaccos, after proper aging and mellowing, are then given the benefit of that Lucky Strike purifying process, described by the words—"It's toasted". That's why folks in every city, town and hamlet say that Luckies are such mild cigarettes.

"It's toasted"

That package of mild Luckies

"If a man write a better book, preach a better sermon, or make a better mouse-trap than his neighbor, tho he build his house in the woods, the world will make a beaten path to his door."—RALPH WALDO EMERSON.

Does not this explain the world-wide acceptance and approval of Lucky Strike?

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—A list of 227 public building projects, all but five of which are for postoffices, was announced by the treasury and postoffice departments today.

The construction is to be carried out under the terms of the relief act which allocated 100 million dollars of the 322 million appropriated for public works to the treasury department for public buildings. The amount to be expended was later cut to 85 millions by a ruling made under the economy act.

With the 41 projects announced on Sept. 10, today's list brings the total number of buildings to be constructed by the treasury under the relief act to 268. All except 12 are postoffices.

New List Yet to Be Approved.

With few exceptions the building projects announced today are limited in cost to $100,000 each. The earlier list contained buildings to cost about $300,000 each.

A number of smaller projects, it was announced, still remain to be passed upon.

Out of the 227 projects announced today 150 will go to towns and cities where the postoffice is housed in rented quarters the lease of which expires prior to July 1, 1934. The relief act required that preference be given to such cases.

Six Postoffices for Illinois.

Six of the proposed postoffices will be built in Illinois at Fairfield, Jacksonville, Libertyville, Monticello, St. Charles and Urbana. Six will go to Indiana at Angola, Crown Point, Hartford City, Lawrenceburg, Union City and Sullivan; nine to Michigan at Allegan, Fremont, Gladstone, Hancock, Monroe, Negaunee, Plymouth, St. Johns and Zeeland; five to Iowa at Clinton, Hampton, Osage, Sac City and Storm Lake, and eight to Wisconsin at Berlin, Cudahy, Eau Claire, Jefferson, Kaukauna, Rice Lake, Richland Center and White Water.

New York, with 24 projects assigned to it, and Pennsylvania, with 23, are to draw the largest number of buildings. California is assigned 17 projects. New Jersey and Ohio are to get 14 each, and Massachusetts receives 13.

Projects Allotted to Other States.

The number of projects allotted other states in today's list are as follows: Texas, 9; Minnesota and Missouri, 6; Florida, Kansas and New Hampshire, 5; North Carolina, 4; Maine, Maryland, Nebraska, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Washington, 3; Connecticut, Georgia, Idaho, Kentucky, Louisiana, Oregon, South Dakota, Virginia and West Virginia, 2; Arizona, Delaware, Mississippi, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Rhode Island, South Carolina, Utah, Vermont, Wyoming and Alaska, 1.

COAL DEALER'S CHARGES START NEW RACKET QUIZ

Assistant State's Attorney Edwin Dufficy started an investigation yesterday of charges that racketeers are again at work in the coal industry. J. C. Hoskins, owner of the Chicago Coal Sales company, reported a strike had been called in his coal yard because he refused to join a racketeering organization.

Hoskins demanded grand jury action against the officers of the coal teamsters' union who he said are affiliated with the racket organization. This, he said, is called the Trucking and Transportation association, which controls prices at which members may sell coal. He said he is ready to bring twenty-five witnesses before the grand jury to prove his charges. Prosecutor Dufficy said he would bring the union officials into his office for questioning today.

Actress Reported in Bankruptcy

HELEN MENKEN.

Has $20,000 Debts

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The News says Helen Menken, the actress, filed a bankruptcy petition today under the name of Helen M. Smith, listing debts of approximately $20,000, mostly for clothes.

Her attorney is quoted as saying that "she will soon be in a position where she will pay back every cent and is so advising her creditors, many of whom have known her for years, but she needs peace of mind and immediate freedom from financial worry so that she can continue her career."

HOMER J. BYRD PLANT BUILDING OVERSEAS PLANE

It was learned yesterday that construction of an all metal, low wing amphibian plane, to be flown from Chicago to Europe, Africa and South America by County Commissioner Homer J. Byrd, is under way at the Byrd Wendt Aircraft company plant at 548 Jackson boulevard. The plane will be completed in six weeks and will be tested on the lake front, according to Johannes Wendt, the designer, a pilot in the German naval air service during the war.

The amphibian will have places for seven persons, including the pilot, and its estimated top speed is 150 miles an hour and a cruising speed of 130 miles an hour. It is to be powered by two inverted, in-line air cooled Menasco motors of 160 horsepower each, mounted above the wing on each side. Ten men have been at work on the plane for three months. It is designed for commercial use and will sell for about $15,000, Wendt said.

Bandits Hold Up Telegraph Office for the Third Time

Miss Loretta Blake, 1823 Fletcher street, was robbed of $40 last evening in the Western Union Telegraph company office at 668 Milwaukee avenue, where she is employed as a clerk. Three men with pistols, believed to have been the same who robbed the office twice previously, forced her to open the safe.

DRY LAW STRIKES FARMS HARDEST, HORNER CHARGES

Cuts Grain Market and Piles Up Taxes.

BY PERCY WOOD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Judge Henry Horner campaigned for governor on the most liberal sort of anti-prohibition platform today in this former distillery capital of middle America.

In the old days Peoria paid the largest whisky tax the government received from any municipality. One year it reached thirty millions. The Democratic candidate recalled that fact tonight to a large audience.

"The government which does not respond to the will of the majority is guilty of tyranny," Judge Horner declared. "You want repeal of the dry laws and you should have it. I advocate the immediate repeal of the Illinois search and seizure act and I will, as governor, sign the repealer the instant it reaches my desk.

The judge discussed the effects of prohibition under three headings—the loss of revenue, the farmer, and repeal as a stimulus to business.

"The net cost of enforcing prohibition alone from 1920 to 1931—if you can call it enforcement—was three hundred and ten million dollars, even after the sixty millions collected as fines were deducted.

Half Billion Taxes Lost.

"The government was deprived of taxes of half a billion dollars annually by prohibition; in 1919 the excise tax collected totaled $483,000,000. We took away this income at a time when it was so important—income which has been the greatest fiscal resource of practically every country of the world.

"The results of attempting national prohibition have been the very worst enemy that true temperance has ever known."

Becoming specific on the subject of prohibition and the farmer, Judge Horner declared that in 1917 the brewing industry used three billion, nine hundred million pounds of grain. In 1929, he said, the near beer plants used less than two hundred million pounds of grain. The market lost to the farmer was one for three billion, seven hundred million pounds of products.

"There has been a continuous decline in prices of farm products since prohibition," he added.

Jobs Wait at Breweries.

As to employment, the Democratic candidate stated that it had been estimated that 1,125,000 persons would be employed in brewing and other industries entirely dependent upon it if prohibition was abolished. The coal industry also would benefit, he added, for in 1918 breweries consumed 3,220,000 tons of coal and 180,000 freight cars were used to baul it.

"It is thus easy to realize," he concluded, "how the end of national prohibition would stimulate employment, agriculture, the coal industry and the railroads. I favor repeal, I have never believed in prohibition, although I stand against the return of the saloon and shall recommend to the Illinois legislature that when it wipes our dry laws from the statutes, it replace them with regulations to prevent return of the saloon."

G. O. P. NEWSPAPER IN BLOOMINGTON IS SUPPORTING HORNER

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The Bloomington Daily Pantagraph, one of the state's leading Republican newspapers, has announced its support of Judge Henry Horner, Democratic candidate for governor. An editorial in the newspaper says:

"On consideration of personal qualifications, native ability and public record of probity and honor, we believe that Judge Horner recommends himself to the more favorable consideration of the voters of Illinois in electing their governor. And perhaps a thorough house cleaning in the statehouse is another consideration which should lead the voters of the state to prefer the election of Judge Horner to that of Len Small."

The newspaper comments on the "personal character" of the opposing candidates. Regarding Small, it recalls the interest scandal, "inflated pay rolls under Small's regime, the strange leniency of the governor's office toward notorious convicts," and the doubling of the tax rate through the boosting of the cost of state government from $26,263,000 in the last year of Gov. Lowden's term to $93,346,000 in the last year of Small's term.

Regarding Judge Horner, the newspaper says he is best known for his work as Probate judge in Cook county where he handled 40,000 estates involving 200 million dollars a year without a widow, orphan or minor ever having lost a dollar through administration of their property in Horner's court.

"Never a breath of scandal or important criticism has been vented against Horner's record," the editorial concludes.

President Makes Reply to Democrats.

using every possible agency of democracy that would bring aid, without putting aside personal ambition and humbling his pride of opinion, if that would serve—then I say to you that such statements are deliberate, intolerable falsehoods."

Greeted by Thousands.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—On the trip eastward from Fort Wayne until President Hoover retired here he received greetings from a total of more than 50,000 people.

At Van Wert, Lima, Marysville, Crestline, Mansfield, Wooster, Massillon, Canton, and Alliance in Ohio and Greensburg and Johnstown in Pennsylvania and a number of smaller towns the people were gathered to greet the nominee.

At each stop the President acknowledged the welcome as most encouraging to him and more eloquent than any speech he could make. He referred occasionally to the particular problems of specific communities, telling the people at Crestline, O., a railroad town, that the Reconstruction Finance corporation had only recently granted a loan to the Pennsylvania railroad for equipment and repairs to foster employment.

At Mansfield, O., 2,000 persons met the train, shouting greetings and inviting the President and Mrs. Hoover to detrain and view their expedition.

SPEECH BRINGS PRAISE

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The broadside fired at the Democrats by President Hoover in his speech at Des Moines, Ia., today brought an enthusiastic response from the Republicans, but only jeers from Democratic ranks.

While the Republicans rushed forth with claims that the President had greatly improved his chances for reelection with his farm program, Democratic spokesmen asserted that any gains made by Mr. Hoover had been far offset by the news from Albany that Al Smith and Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt had ended their political feud.

President Hoover, who returns tomorrow, is expected to follow his address in the corn belt with another speech in the east within the next week or two, probably in Ohio.

Among the congratulatory messages for President Hoover were telegrams from Sherman Lowell, former master of the national grange; Frank N. Riley of Sennett, N. Y., former secretary of the New York state grange; Senator Arthur Capper [Rep., Kas.], Silas H. Strawn, F. H. Farnsworth, and Arch W. Shaw, all of Chicago, and B. E. Hutchinson of the Chrysler corporation.

Other senders of telegrams included Grant G. Hitchings, who described himself as one of the largest apple orchard owners in New York state; Thomas H. Munro, chairman of the council of agriculture and markets of New York state, and Joseph Scott of California, an attorney who nominated President Hoover at the Chicago convention.

"The farmers of this state and this nation have a hard row to hoe," telegraphed Mr. Lowell of the national grange. "With your help we will hoe it."

More Praise from Capper.

Senator Capper asserted in his message that the Des Moines speech was "a stroke of genius." "No political utterance this year," he added, "has been received with such emphatic approval by the people of Kansas as this one."

"Enthusiastic congratulations," wired Mr. Hutchinson from Detroit. "It has evoked most satisfactory responses in many quarters here in Detroit this morning."

Mr. Shaw said: "The speech was a glorious success."

Word from the President's special train said that many telegrams had been received en route and among them was this from Col. Charles A. Lindbergh:

"Will you please accept my best wishes for the success of the campaign for your reelection. Your single purpose of devotion to the service of the American people deserves every support. Your experience, your courage and vision are, in my opinion, needed to pilot us safely out of the world-wide depression from which we are emerging."

Democrats Give Views.

Senators Claude A. Swanson [Dem., Va.] and Pat Harrison [Dem., Miss.] led the attack on Hoover's twelve point program uttered at Des Moines. Representative Joseph W. Byrns [Dem., Tenn.] also agreed that the speech would have no material effect.

"President Hoover's speech is overshadowed by the harmony of the Albany convention," said Senator Swanson, "and the reunion of Gov. Roosevelt and former Gov. Smith."

"It was highly partisan," he added. "A contortion of facts and weasel promises. His reference to Republican loyalty in the face of his own waverity republicanism until his ambition reached for a political plum was amusing. The farmers of the west know that President Hoover's administration has not been friendly to them."

Press Praises and Censures Hoover Program as Revealed at Des Moines

The following comment of newspapers of all parts of the country on the President's Des Moines speech has been received by The Tribune:

ARKANSAS GAZETTE, Little Rock [Ind. Dem.]—Mr. Hoover can talk with deepest earnestness and arouse the applause of a friendly audience. He can summon the past and pledge the future. But he cannot change the present or materialize that lost illusion that the Republican party has power to banish evil economic spirits and make the nation prosperous and and contented.

BOSTON HERALD [Rep.]—Fresh faith and renewed pride in their President and a firmer determination to preserve all that he has safeguarded must have come to millions who heard the Des Moines address. To replace this captain, for whom the bold facts speak so eloquently, with an untried skipper, a wild mate and a motley crew who mutinied when the ship was laboring in the storm is not the traditional American practice.

CEDAR RAPIDS GAZETTE [Ind. Rep.]—The President did give the midwestern farmer something into which he can sink his teeth. The promise of more sympathetic coöperation from the joint stock land banks is something concrete in the way of "a new deal."

DAVENPORT TIMES [Rep.]—It was a fighting Hoover who addressed himself to the people of Iowa and the nation at Des Moines. His proposal that there be an enlarged market for farm products is the most constructive proposal yet offered for the further relief of agriculture.

DES MOINES TRIBUNE [Ind. Rep.]—The new things in the President's Des Moines declarations on agriculture were the promise to seek legislation enabling the federal land banks to refinance farm mortgages with considerable freedom and the promise to trade off for farm markets part of the foreign war debts. Inevitably these newer things will catch the eye.

DUBUQUE TELEGRAPH-HERALD [Iowa]—One must see eye to eye with Hoover on the economic and political questions of the day to accept his reassuring statements on the farm situation, the tariff, and the administration's reconstruction program, and his pungent criticism of Gov. Roosevelt's recent tariff pronouncement.

FARGO, N. D., FORUM [Ind.]—It is too early to say that President Hoover has retrieved the west to the Republican party. It is not too early to say that the President has inspired the people as they have not been inspired at any point in this campaign.

KANSAS CITY STAR [Ind.]—President Hoover's suggestion of concessions on interest payments on foreign debts in return for expanded markets for American agricultural products carries reasonable hope for immediate farm relief.

LINCOLN, NEB., JOURNAL [Rep.]—Not since his speech of acceptance has anything political uttered in the east or west approached this straight forward story. There was no attempt to glorify what he has attempted and what he has done, and yet after this chapter of recent history has been scanned credit cannot be misplaced.

MINNEAPOLIS JOURNAL [Ind. Rep.]—Mr. Hoover's frank confession that experience has shown the error of the stabilization feature of the farm board's charter and that it should be repealed is characteristic of the man.

NEW YORK TIMES [Ind. Dem.]—The farm board has spent only a small fraction of the several hundred million dollars lost in a futile effort to "peg" prices. Since the President now favors repeal of those sections of the law and since the Democratic party is already in favor of repeal it ought to be possible to ring down the curtain finally on "stabilization" soon after congress reconvenes.

NEW YORK HERALD TRIBUNE [Rep.]—Herbert Hover did more at Des Moines than deliver an exceptionally able and effective speech that made his opponent sound like a school boy. By breaking through his habitual reserve of shyness he came closer to the American people than he had ever been before. His heart was in his words and voice. Here, plainly was no rambis master mind, but a rugged human being warmed by every human sympathy and hitting out with unrelenting courage. It is not too much to say that he seems singlehanded to have turned the tide of battle in the campaign.

NEW YORK SUN [Rep.]—President Hoover's Des Moines speech comes close to being the most statesmanlike utterance of his career; it certainly is the most dramatic. In one passage of reasoning, lighted by emotion, it has enabled him to take the offensive in the campaign. What American is there who can remain unmoved by his disclosures about those terrifying two weeks when the financial structure of the United States seemed about to crumble into an abyss dragging the welfare of civilization with it in its imminent fall?

NEW YORK POST [Rep.]—The President may have done it yesterday. Certainly he came so near to it as to justify his transference from Washington to the stump. As we have said, the Democrats are merely riding the wave of a national emotion—the vengeful desire for a change. In our opinion it is necessary to meet that with something equally primitive. What is needed, we believe, is the meeting of emotion with motion.

NEW YORK WORLD-TELEGRAM [Ind.]—The President's defense aroused more sympathy than conviction. He was trying the difficult task of defending a record of failure. He and his party took credit for prosperity. Now they are given credit for the crash. He still wants to pour in relief from the top, expecting it all to trickle down to the bottom—from the banker down to the breadline.

OMAHA WORLD-HERALD [Ind.]—To the farmers he offers the tariff. They have it now, in full flower. They know what it has done for them. He offers them, with apologies, the farm board half size. They know what "relief" the full size has offered. Mr. Hoover has nothing definite and mighty little that is indefinite.

OKLAHOMA CITY OKLAHOMAN [Ind. Dem.]—It is forthright folly to promise the use of Reconstruction Finance corporation funds in obtaining new foreign markets for agricultural products while demanding the retention or elevation of the tariff barriers which have destroyed those foreign markets.

ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS [Ind.]—The President makes an impressive defense of the farm tariffs. It should serve to bring home to Gov. Roosevelt that there are large and important fields of farm production where tariffs are protective and that farm opinion is genuinely fearful of losing these benefits under his policy of reducing rates to a "competitive" basis.

SIOUX FALLS, S. D., ARGUS LEADER [Ind. Rep.]—Debt leniency thought is merely a step to tide the farmers over during the readjustment period. Of greater scope is the President's suggestion that war debts be utilized to obtain an expansion of foreign markets for the products of the American farm. Here is something that is sound and basic. It is not visionary, but holds possibilities that may be realized upon in the near future.

TOLEDO TIMES [Rep.]—Our duty is clear. We cannot afford at this hour to experiment. We cannot afford to supplant experience with theory. President Hoover has been the one constant beacon in a sea of doubt and anxiety.

TOPEKA, KAS., CAPITAL [Rep.]—The farmer is strongly antagonistic to curtailment of acreage and production as a solution of agricultural depression. In the west it has been the farm practice to invest savings and profits in land. Any proposal that agricultural recovery is to be sought in withholding land from use is contrary to all his traditions and aspirations. So when Mr. Hoover proposes to enlarge his markets the farmer will respond to that point of view.

TULSA, OKLA., WORLD [Ind.]—The President built up the economic status of farm relief by worrying about what might have happened to the farmers if the United States had become forced off the gold standard. He saved the farmers, he said. The necessary response to that assertion is: Saved the farmers from what? Was the condition which set in three or four years ago alleviated?

WICHITA EAGLE [Ind.]—Mr. Hoover is against cancellation. In his acceptance speech he favored a trade of any particular debt payment from abroad for a general expansion of a particular foreign market. Now at Des Moines President Hoover proposed that "any annual payment [from abroad] be used for the specific purpose of securing an expansion of the foreign markets for American agricultural products."

Here was the recognition of the idea which came first from Isley of Kansas, was repeated by Smith of New York, noticed by Roosevelt, and is now officially placed before a distraught debt-broken world.

THE TIME TO KILL A COLD
—is in the First Stage, While it is Yet a "Dry" Cold!

Now it is known that a cold ordinarily passes through three stages. The first is the Dry Stage, the first 24 hours. The second is the Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days. The third, the Mucous Secretion stage. Treated in the first stage, a cold is far easier to kill. As a matter of fact, when a cold passes into the second and third stages it is apt to become settled in the system and dangerous.

Nip a cold in the bud by taking Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine as soon as you feel the first symptoms. Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine doesn't merely coddle a cold—it kills it because it does the four things necessary. It opens the bowels—kills the cold germs, infection and fever in the system—relieves the headache and grippy feeling—tones the entire system and fortifies against further attack.

Effective as it is, Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is absolutely safe to take. It contains no narcotics and produces no bad after effects. Does not upset the stomach or make the head ring. For years this famous tablet has been the relief of thousands in all cases of colds and grippe. Take no chances with a cold so long as this dependable remedy is available. Get Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine at any drug store in America. Comes in convenient, pocket-size box, cellophane-wrapped. No reliable dealer will try to sell you a substitute.

HOOVER SPEECH ADDS NEW ZEST TO CAMPAIGNING

G. O. P. Corn Belt Leaders Are Heartened.

BY ARTHUR EVANS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Indications that President Hoover's Des Moines speech has made a deep impression upon Iowa farmers put a new spirit today into the political campaigning in the corn belt. Republican leaders who heretofore have been glum over the reputed disaffection among the farmers were stimulated by the Hoover "fighting speech" to plunge immediately into a fighting campaign for the national ticket.

So pronounced was the apparent reaction to the Hoover address that the Democrats prepared at once to make a counter attack. James Farley, Democratic national chairman and manager of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York, called Clyde Herring, Democratic candidate for governor, early today by long distance and said national headquarters would send its best speakers into Des Moines to answer the President.

Tonight ex-Senator James Reed of Kansas City was billed to speak in answer to Hoover in the Coliseum Monday night. His subject is "Some Comments." The meeting is billed with a line, "No troops, no tickets."

Revealed in Fighting Light.

In the street comment today by ordinary folks, who cast most of the votes, the general reaction expressed was of satisfaction that the President in his speech revealed himself in a fighting light. Discussion was general on street cars, in hotel lobbies, and barber shops. The state politicians have declared for weeks that sentiment in Iowa has not "jelled," that despite all the apparent disaffection in the agricultural regions the voters have not made up their minds on whom to vote for in November, and that the Hoover speech now gives the campaign something it has lacked—a militant leadership by the candidate himself in the expounding of the national issues.

One phase on which there was widespread comment was the applause given the President's declaration that he is not peddling any "economic patent medicine compounded for farmers." Iowa for many years, like the rest of the agricultural area, has been the stamping ground of professional friends who have put out panaceas which have failed.

Voters Tell of Reactions.

The first twenty voters accosted at random today, when asked of their reaction to Hoover speech, remarked that it was full of meat and that it placed in plain language before the voters the actual work that has been done by the administration in battling against the depression and the program which is working out economic recovery.

How the farmers out on the farms who tuned in on the radio are responding to the address will take some time to ascertain, but in Des Moines the apparent effect, judging by the common talk, is that Republican voters who were tending toward Roosevelt are now turning back toward Hoover. Iowa, of course, is so fundamentally Republican that for a Democratic presidential candidate to carry the state would be in the nature of a seismic political upheaval. It voted for Fremont, the "pathfinder," in 1856, and since then it has always gone Republican on President save in 1912, when the Bull Moose split. It gave Woodrow Wilson the state by a minority, giving him a plurality over Roosevelt, Taft running third.

Sets Farmers Talking.

One effect of the Hoover plain language has been to set farmers talking over such matters as the gold standard, considered in normal times rather dull stuff in campaigning. The President's description of the battle for the gold standard in which 40 foreign nations left the standard a year and a half ago and backed America up against the ropes until it appeared unless quick remedy were found the United States could stick to the gold standard only for two weeks longer was under discussion in a group of farmers at noon in the municipal market.

"All it did was to protect the bankers," remarked one farmer.

"You're wrong," said another. "It protected everybody with a home or with a dollar in his pocket. If the currency hadn't been protected your money would be no good to you, nothing would be worth anything, it would be destruction."

"Yes," remarked a third farmer. "They'd be running paper money off the presses so fast and it would be worth so little you'd have to carry a bale of it to buy a pound of sugar."

"Was a nice speech," said a barber. "What most of my customers talk of is what he said about the farmer and the city worker and the business man all being in the same boat, and to change would mean to throw a monkey wrench into the business recovery which now seems likely on its way."

"The speech salted me away for Hoover," said a printer. "The boys in the shop were talking of voting against Hoover, now they are talking the other way. He should have started fighting before."

Depends on Open Minds.

"It all depends on whether the farmers have open or fixed minds," said a haberdasher. "My reaction was it would be foolish to throw overboard an administration program at Washington which is our best bet for recovery from the depression. Why trade actions for promises?"

So it went up and down the street, the general tenor being that Hoover had presented, as a farmer expressed it, "a speech chock full of meat instead of some of the fine language speeches we have been listening to."

The consensus, however, was that it will still require a lot of work in Iowa for the Republicans to retain it, and as a matter of organization, the Hoover speech the leaders say has put new enthusiasm into the party workers.

Link with Hoover Now.

So far in the campaigning, it has been more or less of every man for himself. Hoover has not been given prominence in the campaign. Republican candidates, state and local, have kept aloof from bringing on the Hoover candidacy in the belief it might injure their own chances. Gov. Dan Turner has not dwelt much on Hoover, but he is expected to make his campaign now for Hoover and Turner.

On the other hand, Henry Fields, candidate for senator, the Shenandoah nursery man who beat Senator Smith W. Brookhart in the Republican primaries, has been making Hoover speeches. On his trip to Washington he declared himself "100 per cent for Hoover." Politicians have regarded this stand for the President as costing votes for Field. Many farmers who supported him in the campaign "cussed him out" when he began whooping it up for Hoover. Field, however, has a way of taking care of himself on the platform. He presents his arguments in homely farm language. He tours with a truck equipped with amplifiers. What Field has been telling them is: "If you've got a team and wagon stuck in the mud a long way from home, there's nothing to do but stick with the team and pull it out. Hoover's a good pulling horse."

Field Held Strong Factor.

Field is reported to have won back a large part of the vote which threatened to desert him, and today he was regarded as a strong factor in Hoover's chances of carrying Iowa.

In all the political talk, there is little mention of the name of Gov. Roosevelt, even among Republicans who have been yelling they will not support Hoover this time. While they have been cold on Hoover, the bulk of the farmers it appears have not been warm for Roosevelt, and the Democratic movement in Iowa to the present has been on an "anti" basis —"agin' the ins." Even some of the Democratic leaders concede this.

In addition to the Hoover address, which the Republicans already declare has pumped new life into the state party in addition to the effect it has had on the voters, the Republicans hold that Speaker John N. [Cactus Jack] Garner, Roosevelt's running mate, has now become the great load for the Democrats.

Garner Attack Impresses.

The chaos in the Democratic house, and the bills passed under the leadership of "Post Office Jack" Garner, as weighed against the constructive measures put through by the Republican administration all as described by President Hoover, made a deep impression. In fact perhaps the loudest applause last night followed the President's declaration "had the Democratic program passed it would have been the end of recovery. If it ever passes it will end hope of recovery." And that was a passage widely commented on today on the streets of Des Moines.

Miss Marion Callopy returned yesterday to her desk in the Republican national headquarters at the Palmer house after an exciting 24 hours as secretary to President Hoover. She and Miss Gertrude Samuels were drafted for service when a telegram from the presidential train as it neared Chicago on its trip to Des Moines asked for two stenographers to assist in typing the long speech which the President delivered there. Miss Callopy left the train when it came back through Chicago, but Miss Samuels remained to type copies of the President's platform speeches on the way back to Washington.

HOOVER PASSES THROUGH CITY ON WAY EAST

President Hoover passed through Chicago early yesterday on his return to Washington from Des Moines, Ia., where he opened his campaign for re-election Tuesday night. The President and his wife appeared on the observation platform as their train was switched from the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific to the Pennsylvania railroad tracks.

The train arrived at 7:30 o'clock and 50 minutes were required to switch it from one road to the other. When the train first halted in Chicago at Western and Austin avenues President Hoover reached the back platform just as the train moved off. With his wife and Gov. Harry G. Leslie of Indiana the President appeared again and waved at a small crowd gathered at the Englewood station.

MAYOR DECLARES POLITICIAN CAN'T BRING PROSPERITY

Mayor Cermak expressed doubt of the ability of politicians to solve the depression in a luncheon talk yesterday before the ways and means committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce. He is puzzled himself, he said, why there should be so much want in a country with the great natural resources and production facilities of the United States.

"Somewhere the initiative should be found to bring us a readjustment," said Mayor Cermak. "Maybe we are depending too much upon the politicians. We are looking to parties and candidates for programs which in the long run the business man alone will have to plan and carry out."

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

MR. HOOVER IN IOWA.

Mr. Hoover went to Des Moines with his first speech of the mid-campaign because Iowa is the state of his birth and boyhood and because it is in the heart of the Republican disaffection and dissent. In such a region the subject would be hard times on the farm and the candidate virtually confined himself to it.

Any one except the extreme partisan or the extreme malcontent will concede that the President handled his facts and his arguments well. He made a strong case for the command in a storm. An administration which began in the fairest of weather was hit by every elemental force which could arise out of economic disorder the world over. The blows multiplied and grew more terrific, defeating the hopes that the fury would spend itself. Mr. Hoover gave a vivid picture of the approach to national calamity in vanished revenue, wrecked currency and destroyed credit.

In the measures taken for emergency relief the government has exceeded anything known to the United States before in times of peace. The situation has been treated as one of natural calamity and of war combined and there could be no excuse for the procedure except in such an assumption. The criticism might be that too much was done hastily and unwisely, but a complaint that the government did nothing would be staggered by the treasury reports. Only an exhausting war could reproduce these figures of appropriations and expenditures and show such a record of paternalism. These are the finances of a highly socialistic state throwing all its resources against economic trends and disasters.

Mr. Hoover may have to face the criticism of conservatives now or in safer times, but he may well speak with feeling in meeting the complaints of people who assume that the government turned the cold shoulder to the misfortunes of the country. The new public debt and the impending taxes reveal portentously the course the government has taken.

The farmers may well be reminded of it. They hurried the administration into the costly mistake of the farm board and its stabilization efforts. They have had seed loans and mortgage allowances, fertilizer and stock food, and have been given farm products they had failed to raise for themselves. They have had drought relief and flood relief. Agricultural regions have had free distribution of flour. The tariff bars out farm products and secures the home market from competition, facts upon which Mr. Hoover properly insisted in speaking to the people of a great farming region which has been unfriendly to him. It was a further thought he tentatively presented that the suffering urban regions might well throw tariffs overboard and prosper with a free entry of food from countries which admitted the mass production goods of American industrialism.

It is further true, as he said, that the Democratic house of representatives, under the speakership of Mr. Garner, threatened the existing hope of recovery by proposals so mobocratic that they would have ruined the treasury without doing even an ephemeral good to the people crying for public funds without stint. Mr. Hoover's resistance which prevented the worst of these proposals from taking effect was invaluable, although, as in the matter of the bonus, his opposition had political consequences which, to date, Gov. Roosevelt has been unwilling to face.

In the issues to which Mr. Hoover confined his Iowa speech he made a strong and able stand against a flood of sentiment supposed to be set violently against him at the present moment. It is evident that he alone must turn the tide if it is to be turned. All criticism cannot be so easily met. The administration's activities in some directions have been expensive and disconcerting. It has not shown the concern against federal bureaucracy which the danger of it demands. Its expressions on foreign policy emanating from Jumpy Stimson in the state department would turn gray hair white. Its farm board has been a disaster which Mr. Hoover concedes. The prodigality to sturdy beggar sections, evidenced in Boulder dam, has been indefensible. Complaint can be maintained, but little of it in the direction taken by Mr. Hoover's radical opponents. He has done too much, not too little, for them.

The Republican party should adhere to its traditional soundness at home and abroad and leave to its opponent the rôle of peripatetic fuzybusy.

RIVETING IN WINTER HAVEN.

A good many American towns, when Brother Garner's genial proposal for the unlimited distribution of postoffices was made, notified their congressmen they would have none of it. But not Winter Haven, Fla., where the Herald newspaper reminds the citizenry that Senator Fletcher and delegation have been offered the favor. "The time to accept favors," says the Herald, "is when they are offered."

It would be nice, notes the Herald, if Winter Haven might be permitted to build a "tropical design, something rather more ornamental than the average postoffice," for "on the average, postoffice buildings are not noted for their beauty, but rather for their utilitarian factors." We ourselves can envisage Winter Haven untrammeled by utilitarian factors and designing, as it were, tropically in keeping with its zeal for government favors. But the Herald restrains its esthetic ardor and reminds the citizenry that this might entail delay and "delays are dangerous." The postoffice department has a supply of ready made plans and the Herald admonishes the Republican organization that "its cause can be unmeasurably strengthened if the sound of the riveting machine is heard when the voters gather at the polls."

Meanwhile any American taxpayer who may have been wondering why the world's richest country is one jump ahead of government bankruptcy can find his solution by taking Winter Haven and doing a little multiplying.

A MONOPOLY THAT ISN'T.

American public utility regulation began with a theory of monopoly. When it was conceded, generally as the result of experience, that competition was not good for a certain service, as, for instance, in the case of the telephone, the monopoly was recognized and its privileges were supposed to be offset by regulation. Thus the doctrine of competition was modified by what seemed to be necessity. The railroads, after a history in the hands of reckless and stupid buccaneers, came under the theory of monopolies publicly controlled, and there they are now.

In the case of some utilities the monopoly is a fact. In the case of the railroads it has become a fiction. They are controlled by the government, but are thrown into competition. The socialistic regulation of their every move has lost its color of justification. The government selects one competitor and does it to death by laws which could be justified only by a monopoly.

The case is worse than this. The government subsidizes the competitors of the railroads. The federal administration through the department of agriculture sends a hundred million a year into the states to be used for concrete roads carrying the trucks and buses which take the traffic of the rails. The roads, seeking to meet this subsidized competition, find the laws of the interstate commerce commission obstructing them. The Pennsylvania railroad undertook a door to door delivery which was stopped before it could be begun by a federal court injunction in effect requiring the company to obtain a certificate of convenience and necessity from the I. C. C. In this instance there has been a notable acceleration of government process. The injunction has been dissolved and the railroad, if nothing further intervenes, may begin its pick up and delivery service in mid-October.

Probably not more than a year has elapsed between the decision of the company to try to recover some of the business it was losing and the ascertainment of its right to do so, but the management which could stand up under such disabilities would be relying on magic.

As transportation systems have developed with government subsidy to waterways and truck roads, the rails are not in a traffic monopoly, but in a destructive competition. Their competitors are fostered and themselves repressed. The utility theory here distorted is absurd.

It may be possible for the citizens' committee appointed to study the conditions for the investors and holders of railroad securities and the good of the country at large to make the situation so clear to the country that it will be remedied. The bureaucracy takes no stock of the inconsistencies and the widespread damage done the whole national economy, involving workers, investors, banks, insurance companies, and educational institutions. State socialism prefers to die with its victim.

MAKE WAY FOR THE KING!

Not the least painful incident in connection with the world's series was the screeching of sirens as this or that distinguished citizen was being convoyed to the ball field by a police escort. The time of presidential candidates, ball players and public officials may be precious, but it is not that precious. If august personages have time to go to a ball game they have time to spend an additional five or ten minutes getting there. Needless confusion of traffic, needless noise and needless disturbance of peaceful residential neighborhoods are a high price to pay for the saving of a few minutes to a Somebody.

It is extraordinary that the politicians who authorize these maniacal demonstrations of their self-importance do not realize that every citizen who hears the sirens shriek, every motorist who is forced to the side of the road and every pedestrian who is obliged to jump for his life thereupon swears a solemn oath to vote against the administration which encourages this abuse of the police power.

The excuse is courtesy to distinguished visitors. It is a curious courtesy, indeed, which increases the discomfort of the sick, frightens little children and causes inconvenience to a thousand in order to spare a few minutes of the time of stout gentlemen comfortably seated in their limousines.

Chicago has spent tens of millions of dollars in providing its motorists with the most serviceable boulevard system possessed by any great city in the world. The invitation to visitors to use those boulevards is all the courtesy that reasonably is required of Chicago. Only in the most extraordinary circumstances—and going to a ball game is not one of them—is there any justification for the motorcycle escort.

Editorial of the Day

THE HOLIDAY CROP MENACE.

[Jefferson County (Wis.) Union.]

So far as we have seen the Farmers' Holiday association seeks to hold back farm surpluses from the market, but makes no effort to reduce those surpluses. To store up grain on the farm not only subjects it to rats, mice, gophers, and woodchucks but makes it a market menace like the farm board's big bin of wheat and wad of cotton. "Farmers' holiday" is a good slogan, but let it mean something that will not be a damage to itself. How about switching every fifth acre into pulp wood for paper? We'll wager that not a farmer in that holiday movement reads a paper made from an American tree. A big forest is cut down every day over in Canada for a single Chicago daily because farmers here won't supply the pulp. We asked Senator Smoot if a tariff would be slapped on to protect U. S. farmers if they got going with pulp wood, and he said it would. Working along the lines of Luther Burbank, Dr. McKee of Columbia "U" produced a hybrid poplar that puts the native wood in the shade in no time. Shortening grain and live stock production with tree growing does not appeal to some farmers because a 12 year wait is disheartening, but it will soon be twelve years since crop prices took a sag that makes pulp wood look good—and trees should be growing right now to bring in the money.

JOHN McCORMACK is talked of in Dublin as the next governor general of the Irish Free State. It would be a happy thing for everybody concerned. Instead of making the usual tedious speeches that governor generals always do, John could sing "Mother Machree." Only he would pull down the regular governor general's salary, which is probably far less for a year than John gets now for singing "Mother Machree" just once.

WHEN SUMMER DIES.

When Summer dies, and all the trees
Are vibrant with sad melodies;
When lovely gardens, lately gold,
Are lying prostrate in the mold,
There come, upon the swelling breeze,
From distant isles and sunny seas,
A host of fragrant memories,
And I am young—however old—
When Summer dies.

I wander widely as I please
And capture heavy argosies
Of youthful dreams; with spirit bold
I seek far lands—though winds grow cold
And sunset brings uncertainties—
And Summer dies.

ATTENTION, CLASS IN JOURNALISM! Now, children, you already have been told by your kind teacher that any woman who is a lawyer should never be referred to in that crude manner when you are writing for the public press, but always as "Portia." If you ever forget yourself and refer to a woman lawyer as a woman lawyer and not as a Portia the city editor will throw you through the nearest window, and rightly so. And now a new term has come into journalistic use. Any woman or girl found with bandits or caught in crime, even if it be naught but grabbing an all-day sucker from a small child, must invariably be referred to as "The Bandit Queen." She may resemble nothing so much as the south end of a freight train going east, but none the less if the police catch her with robbers she's a Bandit Queen. That will be all for today, children, but it is a lesson most important and should be thoroughly mastered. Class dismissed!

GREETER GAW and a lady poet are having a terrible battle on all the front pages over the authorship of the World's Fair saga, "Greetings, Chicago Welcomes You." We haven't read the details of the argument or just what it's all about, but we read part of one verse of the poem, which runs:

Our hotels and industries,
Our great facilities
Will serve you with a friendship that is true;
Our Century of Progress will your world's fair be,
So this is why we sing to you.

And after reading that much of the poem we suppose that Greeter Gaw is claiming that the lady poet wrote it and the lady poet is insisting that Greeter Gaw wrote it.

How to Keep Well By Dr. W. A. Evans

EPIDEMIC OF TRICHINOSIS.

A CORRESPONDENT writes of an epidemic that he ran across when traveling in California. Back in a rather isolated rural community he learned of an outbreak of trichinosis in which there were about sixty cases. At the time he was there one woman had died from the disease. They had all eaten home made salami sausage. He did not say what was the basis of the diagnosis of trichinosis.

At first, botulism was considered to be a form of sausage poisoning and it still is so in various countries in continental Europe. Our methods of sausage manufacture must be safer than are those followed in Europe, since, with us, sausage eaters do not develop botulism after partaking of their favorite food.

The writer of this letter states that all these people got their sausage from one maker. It is probable that he was a man with a local trade built up on the peculiar flavor of his product, and it is possible that he was foreign born, and, having learned his trade abroad, made sausage according to the way it is made in the old country.

The probability is that these were cases of trichinosis rather than botulism. They had been seen by physicians, health department inspectors, and others, and the likelihood is that the proper tests had been used and the diagnosis was right.

Salami is a term used in the trade for a group of sausages. There are German, Bohemian, and Italian salamis. Some of the summer sausages are called salamis. In the main, they are composed of about two-thirds lean pork and one-third lean beef, chopped together to various degrees of fineness, mixed with garlic, spices, sugar, salt, and saltpeter, and then dried by exposure to the air, or smoked. In no variety is there enough salt, sugar, saltpeter, garlic or spice to kill trichina, if any be present, nor will they be certainly killed by exposure to air or smoke. Since most of the meat is pork, and pork is apt to contain live trichina, and since it is not customary to cook salami before eating, it is not a safe food. The wonder is that so few epidemics of trichinosis occur among sausage eaters. Of course, this does not apply to sausage that is cooked before being eaten. It applies only to the product that is eaten raw.

Some cases of trichinosis are fatal. Most cases are treated for acute pauscular rheumatism and recover. This is not because the treatment is of value but because the disease is self-limited. No worm medicine harms the worm once it has left the digestive tract. Nevertheless, it is customary to give cases of trichinosis at least one round of worm medicine since a few worms may still remain within reach.

USUALLY UNIMPORTANT.

Miss J. M. writes: During the day I see little lines jumping up and down in front of my eyes. I wear glasses and they don't seem to help. Can it be from any internal disorders? I see well, but these lines annoy me. What can they be from?

REPLY.

The name of these spots and lines is muscæ volitantes. Ninety-nine times out of a hundred they are without significance. Most persons could see them if they tried, but they are too busy with their work to look for them. In a few instances such dancing spots and lines may be important. They may mean glaucoma, migraine, epilepsy, or something else.

VITILIGO.

S. L. writes: I have been troubled with vitiligo for some time past. I have always read with interest your comments on this disease. I have been able to effect a temporary cure three different times by the application of hot packs dipped in a solution of Epsom salts. This treatment, applied two or three times daily, for one-half hour or more at a time, required a period of two to three months to effect a cure. However, it was temporary, for in the course of two years the white spots reappeared.

NEEDS EXAMINATION.

Mrs. A. C. writes: Can an 18 month old child be perfectly normal if, while lying flat on his back, he does not turn or sit up by himself? Yet, when he is set up he sits. When he sits he does not attempt to stand up, but when he is stood up he takes a few steps. While on his back or sitting up he kicks his feet vigorously. He is very tall for his age, thin, and has eight teeth; has a round head, large at the top, which is comparatively small as it reaches the neck. He does not attempt to speak.

REPLY.

Judging by this description, the child is backward, at least. He is abnormal in some way and to some degree. He should be investigated.

MORTGAGE PAPERS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. Is it necessary for the attorney handling a foreclosure on a piece of property to retain all the mortgage papers during such procedure? 2. What guarantee for the safety of such papers should I demand from the attorney?

F. C.

1. It is not necessary for him to have them at every moment while the proceedings are pending, but it is convenient since if he does not have them at the start there may be trouble or delay in getting them when they are needed.

2. Employ an attorney whom you can trust. TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

INCOME FROM ESTATE.

Highland Park, Ill., Oct. 2.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—My mother died 15 years ago and left a small farm. A brother and my father lived on the farm seven years longer, when father died. Neither mother nor father left a will. The farm was in my mother's name. The brother has been living on this farm ever since. He pays the taxes, but no rent. We have no administrator over the property. 1. How long can this estate run without an administrator? Now my brother wants to demand wages for the years he has been home, although he has had all the income of the farm and all personal property that was left on the place. 2. Can he demand wages when the estate is settled? 3. Could this estate ever be settled without a lawyer or could it be sold without the services of a lawyer?

L. D.

1. Indefinitely.

2. Depends on the understanding. If it was agreed that he should be paid wages and the heirs should share in the profits then the mere fact that there had been no profits would not cut off his right to wages.

3. Probate proceedings would be necessary in order to procure a merchantable title and for such proceedings we advise the employment of an attorney.

BURNING GARBAGE.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—[Friend of the People.]—In spite of two protests, both accomplishing investigation, a baker located on our street continues to burn garbage in the rear of his bakery in the early morning hours, the stench from which interferes with sleep. Can you do or suggest some action to curb this unhealthy practice?

M. P. H.

Report is made that baker states he burns only paper in his furnace and that other refuse is removed by private scavenger service. Served notice to procure regulation containers and location will be kept under observation. JOSEPH J. BUTLER, Superintendent of Streets.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

OCTOBER 6, 1916.

LONDON. — The admiralty announces that the Cunard steamer Franconia, employed for transport duty, was sunk in the Mediterranean by an enemy submarine. The steamer had no troops aboard. Twelve men of the crew of 202 are missing.

SOFIA.—Sixteen Rumanian battalions [about 15,000 men] that crossed the Danube between Turtukai and Silistria into Bulgaria have been destroyed, according to an official statement. The defeat suffered by the Rumanians is the greatest since the destruction of the Rumanian army at the fortress of Turtakan, when 23,000 Rumanians were trapped and captured south of the Danube. The Rumanians were caught by an encircling movement and began to stream back across the river without offering stubborn opposition. Teutonic monitors had smashed some of the pontoon bridges over which the invaders crossed, thus interfering seriously with their retreat to the north bank. Bulgarian artillery was trained on Rumanian transports that sought to facilitate the retreat, adding to the confusion in the ranks of the enemy.

PARIS.—The allied troops on the western end of the Macedonian front continue to press back the Bulgarian forces before Monastir. The entente allied advance guards have begun to cross the Cerna, in the region of Dobroveni and Brod, and have advanced despite frost on the slopes of the Baba mountains and have reached the towns of Buf and Popli.

LONDON.—The Grand Duke Nicholas, former commander in chief of the Russian armies, has been recalled from the Caucasus to command the Russo-Rumanian drive against Bulgaria, says a Stockholm dispatch.

NEW YORK.—Conspiracy to assassinate Theodore P. Shonts, president of the Interborough Rapid Transit company, and Frank Hedley, general manager of the same corporation, will be charged against two men who are detained at police headquarters, the police announce. Several other men are being hunted.

CHICAGO.—The first of Chicago's returning border troops—the men of Col. Joseph B. Sanborn's First infantry—came home yesterday to find a grateful and a just populace. In the midst of the patriotic spectacle and the thrill of "back home" the down deep Chicago spirit manifested itself instantly. Stirred by THE TRIBUNE'S quickly organized service in behalf of the soldiers who came home to look for jobs as civilians, the whole city seemed to respond with a single impulse. Before the flags were furled in the First regiment armory at 16th street and Michigan boulevard, telephone lines from scores of factories and offices were placed on THE TRIBUNE circuit and hundreds of offers were made to provide suitable employment for every man who needs work.

ST. PAUL, Minn.—Property left by James J. Hill, railroad builder, subject to probate in Minnesota courts, is valued conservatively at more than $52,000,000 by his son, Louis W. Hill, in an inventory furnished appraisers of the estate today.

INTERESTING IF TRUE.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Your editorial, "Enemies of Society," is very much to the point and of timely value to one group that includes many of the "radically minded intelligentsia." The Rock River conference of the Methodist church convenes at Dixon, Ill., in a few days. It should carefully consider your editorial in the light of the following facts:

1. Through the propaganda of these "enemies of society" a Methodist minister succeeded in having the Chicago Methodist Preachers' association adopt a resolution several months ago demanding that the governor of Massachusetts appoint a commission to review the findings of the court in the Sacco-Vanzetti case, after their convictions had been sustained by all reviewing courts.

2. This same minister was actively instrumental in organizing the "Socialist Ministers' Protective association" recently launched here in Chicago. He is a candidate for office on the Socialist ticket at the coming election. He is one of a group of ministers who will attempt to have the Rock River conference come out for Socialism, as other conferences have recently done.

3. The Socialist party candidate for governor of Illinois is a Methodist minister employed at the Book Concern in the interests of the Epworth league. He exhibited his red card of membership to this writer.

The writer of this article is a member of the Methodist church.

MR. INSULL AND THE BANKERS.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—"Chicago bankers judge that the Insull debacle will be an economic lesson and a warning against contributing to any individual hereafter the power Insull wielded."

Such are the opening remarks of Walter Fitzmaurice in his story in today's TRIBUNE on the fall of the utility giant; and such is the source quoted that the writer, in common with others on the 8:11 this morning, simply burst out laughing.

We quite good-naturedly wonder if, let's say, the Terminal National bank subscribed to this statement, recalling that that institution, upon request, exchanged a $30,000 check of the Middle West Utilities and so apparently obscured from Jackson Brothers & Boesel the real source of this money. We wonder!

In any event, whatever the banker says has ceased to be impressive. In fact, certain names prominent in the profession [as distinct from calling these men bankers] are to be found in the Insull preferential lists. Moreover, the article itself admits that bankers, among others, in their relations with Insull "courted his favor and bowed to his whim."

What then does it matter what the banker has to say? R. CRAWFORD.

AMERICANISM VS. CAPITALISM.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Your editorial of yesterday, "Americanism versus Capitalism," reminds one of a Victorian lady brushing her skirts aside at Miss Modern Girl or, better still, of a knight in armor still trying to defend the old feudal system.

Aren't you a bit antiquated in damning the Progressives of Wisconsin? If you'll stop yapping about communism long enough you'll find time to realize how many of the old 1912 Roosevelt-La Follette planks have been absorbed into American government. Not communism at all, but good old Jefferson-Lincoln philosophy—America, a home for the poor man. [Ironically enough, it is just that at the present time].

But going back to Wisconsin, Mr. Kohler is a clever politician. He knows that the average workingman protests against present conditions by voting for the other party, regardless of any assurance of a change. Such political acting, unfortunately, succeeds only in putting the outs in and the ins out.

You will undoubtedly be fair enough to admit that conditions in Wisconsin compare favorably with those of other midwestern states, but let's give Mr. Kohler a chance to make of the state a modern Utopia. The La Follettes will have many innings more after Mr. Kohler is forgotten. C. P.

HORNSBY JUSTIFIED.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—The ignominious defeat of the Cubs has done more to vindicate Hornsby than any amount of reasoning might have done. When he said he needed a good left hand pitcher and a hard hitting outfielder he was informed that the Cubs were invincible. When he insisted on calling pitches, because he knew the limitations of his catcher, he was given the gate.

Manager Grimm tells the public that his players are big leaguers and are capable of thinking for themselves. Is that why he let Billy Herman play out of position in New York? Is that why he let Hartnett think for himself in calling pitches? After all, if a team is to be allowed to shift for itself, why have a manager? G. H. H.

ROOSEVELTIAN CANDOR.

Chicago, Oct. 3.—Mr. Franklin [not Theodore] Roosevelt, in many speeches in favor of himself as a nominee for the office of President of the United States, has told us of our troubles and promised that he would do something about it. Some say the promises are indefinite, but at last he has spoken. In Detroit he has said, as reported:

"The problem of unemployment, in the long run, can be and shall be solved by the human race."

Can more be said?

CHILD FAINTS FROM HUNGER IN SCHOOLROOM

Need of Lunch Fund Told by Two Principals.

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

A little girl fainted from hunger a few days ago at the Foster school. All she had had to eat in five days, a reporter for the Hungry School Children's fund found yesterday, was corn meal cooked with cabbage leaves picked up in the refuse of Maxwell Street market.

The child hadn't complained of being hungry at school, Principal Isabel Annan explained, and no one knew until she toppled over.

"We gave her some hot milk, but that only made her ill," Miss Annan said. "The truant officer rushed her home and found that the rations from the relief agency hadn't come for a month. We called the agency and were told that the box must have been lost."

Miss Annan took the reporter into the free lunchroom which she is maintaining herself until aid is forthcoming. It was scarcely five minutes after the hot vegetable soup, chocolate pudding, bread and butter and milk had been served, but the dishes had been scraped clean.

400 Fed Last Year.

"Last year, with the help from the Hungry School Children's fund and the teachers of this school, we were able to feed 400 children," Miss Annan said. "What we could have done without that support from THE TRIBUNE fund I don't know.

"You see here only 50 children. They are the open window children—anemic and undernourished—and I am trying to carry on until help comes."

The smallest child of the group was Ossie, 6 years old. Her spindly legs looked much too weak to carry even her small body. She hadn't had much of a chance to grow strong. Miss Annan told the story of Ossie.

"Ossie's parents deserted her and her younger sister, Flossie, last spring. They were left with their grandmother, who was supported by a daughter, Stella, the children's aunt Stella wanted to get married, but her sweetheart refused to take care of the children. Stella went away. A week later she came back. She said she couldn't bear to leave the children."

"The relief agencies are helping many more of the families this year," Miss Annan continued. "I should say that more than 70 per cent of the pupils' families receive help. But it is not enough to last them through the month. Then the parents go out to salvage what they can from the markets."

At the Seward School.

It was noon when the representatives of the Hungry School Children's fund called at the Seward school, which is in the territory known as back o' the yards. Twenty or more children—"open window" pupils—sat at empty tables in the lunchroom, each sipping from a cup of milk.

"Where is the rest of their lunch?" Principal Leo Frederick was asked.

"They don't have any," he replied. "We have no money. The open air children get their milk through a fund for that purpose provided by the board of education. They are glad to get that.

"Those you see here are a group of the 62 open air children in the school. Only 12 of them are able to afford penny lunches. The other pupils who eat here buy their lunches, but their number is quickly diminishing. They don't have pennies. Only 20 children could buy their lunch today. We can't make ends meet on the penny lunches any more."

The enrollment at Seward school is 1,300. The visiting teacher has estimated, Mr. Frederick said, that 85 per cent of the families of the pupils are getting help from relief agencies.

School Needs Help Now.

"Last year we fed 400 children regularly," he went on. "We were able to do this through a surplus fund the teachers had established and gifts of the community and business men. We didn't ask for money last year from the Hungry School Children's fund because we could get along and we didn't wish to take money that could be given to some other school. Now we need help. If the Hungry School Children's fund doesn't come to our rescue I don't know what we'll do. These undernourished children need hot lunches."

Contributions, large or small, will help to carry on the Hungry School Children's fund, which means hot nourishing meals for needy and undernourished children. The sooner these contributions reach the fund the sooner the free lunchrooms can be opened in the neediest of the schools. Last year 10,000 children were fed daily in 200 schools.

CONG. DIETERICH ASSAILS WASTE OF FARM BOARD

Congressman William H. Dieterich, Democratic nominee for United States senator, criticized the expenditures of the farm board in a speech yesterday at Yorkville. He said the farm board was responsible for a terrific waste of taxpayers' money without benefit to agriculture.

"Since the organization of the Farmers' National Grain corporation and the Stabilisation corporation prices of wheat have dropped to unprecedented low levels," he told an audience interested in the welfare of agriculture.

"The farm board appointed to administer this act has used $500,000,000 of the taxpayers' money in building up a huge bureau which has for its purpose the political control of the agricultural interest.

"The money made available under the marketing act has been dissipated in paying commissions on transactions, purchasing the purported good will of bankrupt grain companies, spreading propaganda and maintaining a pay roll that rivals any department of the federal government. The hearings before the committee on agriculture and forestry of the United States senate held in November, 1931, disclose a story of waste and extravagance unequaled by any government department."

ASKS COURT SALE OF BLACKSTONE IN FORECLOSURE

Insurance Company Files Action Against Hotel.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance company yesterday filed suit in the United States district court asking that the Blackstone hotel be sold on foreclosure to satisfy a claim of $1,659,412. The suit, growing out of a loan made by the insurance company in June, 1927, is directed against the Drake Hotel company, as operators of the Blackstone hotel, and Tracy C. Drake and Paul G. Evans, as receivers for the hotel company. Named as co-defendants are the Chicago Title and Trust company, the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company, and the Miller Supply company.

The petition, filed by Attorneys Thomas M. Hoyne and Nathaniel Rubinkam, sets forth that the Drake Hotel company borrowed $1,700,000 on June 17, 1927. A deed of trust note, signed by Tracy C. Drake and John Drake Jr., offered the Blackstone hotel as security. The agreement called for the hotel company to pay 5½ per cent interest annually until 1937, five per cent annually thereafter, and $17,000 twice yearly on the principal.

Charges Company Defaulted.

It was stipulated that the Blackstone should be kept in good repair, all taxes should be paid, and the property kept free of all liens until the note was paid off, the petition said. The hotel company defaulted on a payment due Aug. 1, 1932, leaving the company debtor to the insurance company for $1,616,000 plus interest, the suit charges.

The hotel company left unpaid $50,000 taxes in 1929 and $69,984 in 1930, the petition states. As a result of the unpaid taxes, the entire note under the terms of the trust deed is due immediately, the suit sets forth. The co-defendants have claims against the Drake company which are subservient to the insurance company claim, according to the petition.

Later Loan Cited.

The Drake company borrowed $500,000 from the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company in October, 1931, according to the suit, and offered as security the same property pledged to secure the insurance company loan.

The suit was brought in the district court because the hotel company was placed in equity receivership in the same court several months ago.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BUDAPEST, Hungary, Oct. 5.—The first cabinet in Hungarian history without counts or barons shocked the populace today by beginning its first meeting promptly at 8 o'clock this morning. The session lasted until 1 o'clock.

An army of sleepy bureaucrats, many of whom are aristocrats, who had to be on hand if expert information was wanted, protested at starting to work at such an early hour, but the energetic new premier, Julius de Goemboes, held out little hope for them.

"All my cabinet meetings are going to begin early in the morning," he said. "One's mind is clearer then and one can work harder and faster."

Budapest also gasped when the ministers arrived for the meeting in shabby taxis. Premier Goemboes ordered the expensive government cars stored until better times.

VATICAN ASSAILS MEXICO AS ENVOY IS SENT TO EXILE

Charges Nation Sought Pretext for Action.

BY DAVID DARRAH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

ROME, Oct. 5.—Expressing pain and regret at the expulsion from Mexico to the United States yesterday of the apostolic delegate, Msgr. Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, Vatican authorities today declared the responsibility for what may happen as a consequence of this, of the declaration of President Abelardo Rodriguez, and of the manifestations of the Mexican chamber of deputies to be entirely that of the Mexican government.

The Vatican refuted charges of the Mexican attorney general, Emilio Portes Gil, that the recent papal encyclical criticizing the Mexican religious laws was seditious or represented an interference with Mexican internal affairs. It was said here that by its action Mexico deliberately rejected the opportunity which Pope Pius XI. offered in the encyclical for a peaceful understanding.

Expulsion "Not Surprising."

It was said at the Vatican that the expulsion of Msgr. Ruiz y Flores was not surprising "in view of the intolerance and violence which prevails in Mexico's religious policy."

No indication was given as to what the papal delegate will be instructed to do, and no comment was forthcoming on the Mexican viewpoint that, as papal nuncio, he was serving a foreign government and hence had lost his Mexican citizenship.

Vatican circles countered with charges that last July and August attempts had been made by Mexico to devise arbitrary accusations against the apostolic delegate to furnish a juridical pretext for his expulsion.

Calls Encyclical "Serene."

It was said that the pope's encyclical was solely a documentation of Mexican violations of the agreement of 1929. Vatican circles assert that Mexican bishoprics consistently opposed some of the disturbed elements of Mexico in an effort to organize a voluntary corps to regain the church's rights and it was said that the encyclical showed a peaceful restraint when, in the last part, it admonished the clergy to accept the government's regulations that they must present requests for licenses to practice their ministry, although this was regarded as a violation of the church's rights.

The Vatican organ, Osservatore Romano, printed the news of the expulsion briefly on the front page tonight, adding a brief editorial paragraph which said the pope's encyclical was serene and an objective document which the Mexican government took as a pretext to expel the nuncio.

Arrives at Laredo.

Laredo, Tex., Oct. 6 [Thursday].—(AP)—Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores, papal delegate expelled from Mexico, arrived here on a special train at 12:15 a. m. today.

The archbishop was accompanied by two secret service men from Mexico City. His special train, which came by way of Monterey, had been delayed.

At the international bridge the churchman and the secret service operatives were met on the American side by a delegation of priests and the laity, and after a few minutes he was taken to a home for the night.

The archbishop declared he had no formal statement to make at this time.

WEATHER RELIEVES TIRED FIRE FIGHTERS IN FAR NORTHWEST

Portland, Ore., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The forest fire menace in Oregon and Washington eased today as the weather turned to the aid of weary crews battling flames that had caused property loss estimated at upward of $2,000,000 and left several hundred families homeless.

The east wind which had spread the conflagrations died out and cooling temperatures permitted a faint hope of rain.

In the timber town of Cochran only the railroad station remained of buildings which had housed 200 inhabitants and headquarters of the C. H. Wheeler Logging company. A west wind which arose during the night saved thousands of acres of forest.

In Washington county alone 100 families made homeless by the flames were cared for by Red Cross workers. In other sections of western Oregon and in southwestern Washington fires destroyed many other homes, farm crops, and buildings. Forest officials were heartened by the respite today, but said the danger was by no means over.

Show Girl Wants Court to Quiz Plant on Income

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Marguerite Finley, show girl, today applied for a Supreme court order directing Philip M. Plant, former husband of Constance Bennett, to answer questions before trial in her $400,000 breach of promise suit against him. Miss Finley said she wished to question Plant concerning his income, which she said she believed was in excess of $100,000 annually. A bill of particulars he submitted, she said, was incomplete.

FOOTBALL AT OLD STATEVILLE HAS ITS DRAWBACKS

Even Though Some Former Stars Are Back.

That old college spirit may well up in the hearts of convicts at Stateville penitentiary, but it is going to be a hard job for them to put it into words, Assistant Warden Walter Nerstheimer disclosed yesterday as fall football practice opened in the classic shades of the prison cellhouses.

The season opens Saturday, when five teams, representing cellhouses B, C, D, E, and F start play in an intramural tournament. The inmates have constructed a good gridiron and a temporary stadium, with seats enough for the 2,000 members of the student body. The prison band will play. The officials anticipate no ticket scalping troubles, because no visitors can get past the gates for the game.

The Cheer Leader Problem.

But what worries Mr. Nerstheimer is the matter of cheer leaders. There are no cheer leaders, and, even if there were, they would have no one to cheer. If it were possible to call for nine rahs for Pete the Gonof or Louie the Cannon, Stateville cheer leading might become an interesting performance.

But the players, it has been ordered, are to be known by numbers and not names. No cheering section can put much fervor into a fast Che-Hee for No. 23497. And if the games are over broadcast, Mr. Nerstheimer fears, the prison announcer will have to yield his post before the microphone to a certified public accountant.

Old Stars Return.

"Last spring, after the parole board had graduated some of our best half backs, we were afraid that this year's team might be pretty weak," said Mr. Nerstheimer. "However, the judges of the Criminal court have sent a number of our old stars back to us."

LEGION AIR RACE PROFIT IS $5,022; PLAN 1933 SHOW

The Cook county council of the American Legion voted unanimously last night to hold the American Legion National Air Races in Chicago next summer, and instructed Commander Joseph De La Cour to appoint a committee immediately to arrange the event. The motion was passed following the report of the council's air meet committee that a net profit of $5,022.69 was made at the Legion air meet held at Sky Harbor on Sept. 11.

There were 14,598 tickets sold at fifty cents each for a gross revenue of $7,299, of which $2,399.74 went directly to unemployed members of the Legion. Distribution and promotion expenses were $2,276.31. Ten trophies and prizes totaling $1,100 were donated by THE TRIBUNE, other Chicago newspapers and individuals.

There are 1,260 tickets sent to posts for advance sale that are still unaccounted for, but the accounting for them can only raise the net receipts, as all expenses are in, the committee reported. The report was audited by Lawrence Scudder & Co., certified public accountants.

He Files Suit for $2,500 and Is Awarded 50 Cents

Asheville, N. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Lyall E. Peterson sued the Western Union Telegraph company for $2,500, alleging the company's negligence prevented him obtaining a scholarship, but a Buncombe county court awarded him only 50 cents. Peterson charged he failed to secure a scholarship to Iowa State college because the telegraph company failed to relay a message sent by the college to Peterson at Minneapolis, Minn.

SOLD HIS CLOTHES TO AID DAUGHTER, IS HUSBAND'S PLEA

Joseph F. Raible, 600 Diversey parkway, told Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday that his income as a manufacturers' appraiser had dropped from $60,000 a year to practically nothing during the depression, and that recently he was forced to sell seven of his twelve suits of clothes at a few dollars each to obtain money for the support of his daughter, Elizabeth Ann. He appeared on the petition of Mrs. Adalynne Raible, 1447 Tower road, Winnetka, who is suing him for divorce on grounds of cruelty. She asks temporary allmony and support for the daughter. The hearing was continued to Oct. 14 after Attorney Frank B. Teed, representing the wife, asked time to investigate Raible's claims of poverty.

Appeals Court to Hear Factor Arguments Tuesday

The United States Circuit court of appeals yesterday set next Tuesday for arguments on the suit of the British government to extradite John "Jake the Barber" Factor to London for criminal prosecution. Attorney Allan Carter, representing Factor, yesterday petitioned the court to dismiss the extradition proceedings on the grounds that the criminal prosecution had been brought as a club to force settlement in a civil suit.

BUILDING TO BE CHEAPER, SAFER UNDER NEW CODE

O. K.'s 4-Story Flats; Experts Hail Changes.

BY AL CHASE.

Chicago's new building code on which a citizens' committee headed by Oscar W. Rosenthal has been working for more than five years will provide this city with cheaper, safer, and more sanitary structures, according to experts yesterday after a study of several sections of the proposed construction ordinance which were made public. Buildings will cost less through permission to use certain materials formerly barred; through the use of new materials discovered since the old code was enacted, and also though an increase of maximum floor loads. Sweeping changes in the use of concrete also will reduce construction costs materially.

The rat-a-tat-tat-tat-tat of the steel riveters may be silenced as a result of a provision for welding of structural steel, not now permitted. The most important changes in the field of structural steel are an increase in allowable working stresses from 16,000 pounds per square inch to 18,000 and the permission to use silicon steel with an allowable stress of 24,000 pounds per square inch.

Change Fireproofing Rules.

One revolutionary change will be the development of a new semi-fireproof type of construction, entirely of noncombustible materials but with lighter fire protection than required for full fireproof construction. This new type will be permitted in buildings only up to ninety feet in height and with limited floor areas.

With this new semi-fireproof type in use, hotels may be erected up to eight stories in height, as against five stories in the old code for types other than fireproof. Hospitals of the new semi-fireproof type may rise seven stories, as against a maximum of two in the old code for anything except fireproof.

Cheap Housing Unsolved.

On the subject of cheap housing, the committee frankly admits that the new code hasn't been able to solve the problem. "It has long been recognized that the well being of a very large part of our population demands good housing at a cost considerably under any that is now, or has at any time heretofore been possible," the report states.

"The introduction of the type of construction here designated as semi-fireproof is a step in the direction of economy of particular value to this class of occupancy, but it obviously fails to provide for extremely cheap housing, of which so much is necessary."

The new code does permit, however, the erection of tenements or apartments of ordinary construction one story higher than at present. That means that Chicago, long known in the building world as a "three story apartment city," will stretch itself skyward another story. The new code allows ordinary constructed flats to have four stories and basement, provided they are finished throughout on the inside with metal lath and plaster, or equally fire resistive materials, and meet definite requirements as to exits.

Future Flats to Be Taller.

It is predicted that when building construction again gets under way practically all of Chicago's new apartment buildings, with the exception of the tall, fireproof type, will be four stories high.

Certain types of schools will cost less and be much safer, the committee reports.

"In all places except in single dwellings the use of open stairways is rigidly restricted, as it is notorious that open stairways or inadequately inclosed stairways afford the most common means for the rapid spread of fires," the report reads.

Ald. Thomas J. O'Grady, chairman of the council committee on the new building code, has set Oct. 19 as the date for the first public hearing, which will take up the construction of school buildings.

INTERNATIONAL HOUSE HAILED AS AID TO NEW ERA

J. D. Rockefeller III. at U. of C. Ceremony.

"The knell has sounded for the old concept of political nationalism just as much as it has for economic nationalism. Sixty nations cannot span the earth with their ships and airplanes and competing systems of commerce and expect the business to run without some centralized technic of understanding and supervision."

In these words Dr. Raymond B. Fosdick, chairman of the Rockefeller Foundation's committee on extension of international houses, last night expressed the spirit in which Chicago's International house, on the Midway at the University of Chicago, was dedicated.

Rockefeller III. Acts for Father.

John D. Rockefeller III. presented the building on behalf of his father, the donor, and Charles S. Dewey accepted it on behalf of the board of governors. Students of more than twenty nationalities attended, many of them, in native costumes, acting as ushers.

Dr. Fosdick declared the world could not remain half mechanized and half free; that the jungles of Africa and the remotest highways of Asia must inevitably become dotted will billboards proclaiming the progress of science and invention. With the standardization of the machine age wiping out political and economic nationalism, he said, the hope of the world lies in the preservation of cultural diversity.

"Our task is the purification of the old concept of nationalism," he said. "It is the difficult and delicate task of letting political nationalism be diluted without destroying nationality. Nationality is primarily cultural, and only incidentally political.

Visions Sunnier World.

"What is to be gained by introducing taxicabs and quick lunch counters in Haiti? What would it profit us if the colorful and vigorous culture of Mexico be debased in exchange for a few gadgets? India, a country in this age that can produce the towering figure Gandhi, has a spiritual gift for humanity which words can only falteringly describe. It is not by standardization, but by diversity, that we shall build a sunnier world than this."

Young Rockefeller, three years out of college, told of his interest in the International house his father gave New York and said he hoped Chicago's home for the students of all nations would give expression to ideals of world peace and mutual understanding.

Prior to the dedication ceremony Mr. Rockefeller and Dr. Fosdick were entertained at dinner by President and Mrs. Robert Maynard Hutchins.

BRAZIL TO CASH $14,000,000 WORTH OF REBEL MONEY

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Col. Carvalho, republican guard commander who became acting head of the state government here after the collapse of the Sao Paulo rebellion this week, announced today that rebel currency totaling about 200,000 contos—about $14,000,000—would be redeemable at the state treasury within 90 days at its nominal value.

Distribution of emergency "war bread" was discontinued with the resumption of transportation into this city from the north. The first foreign steamer, the Japanese liner Santos Maru, entered the port of Santos which was blockaded for nearly three months.

Although Santos has been reopened to commerce no word has been received lifting the ban on coffee exports there. Exports were forbidden because of the recent New York price slump.

CLAIMS 1,150,000 ARE JOBLESS IN NEW YORK CITY

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—There are in New York today 1,150,000 persons out of work—over one-third of the working population of the city—declares William Hodson, executive director of the welfare council, in making public an estimate prepared for the executive committee of the council.

Mr. Hodson points out that an expenditure of $4,000,000 monthly for relief is insufficient to cope with the mounting tide of destitution and calls for public and private appropriations of $6,000,000 a month.

The welfare council contrasts its present unemployment figure with that of a year ago, when the total was between 300,000 and 1,000,000.

Fined $100 for Failing to Put Coins in Pay Phone

Harry Harris, 34 years old, alleged horse racing tout, was fined $100 yesterday by Judge Harold M. O'Connell for making long distance telephone calls to clients without paying for them. Harris was arrested last Monday as he emerged from a telephone booth in the Pershing hotel, 6400 Cottage Grove avenue. A key to the telephone coin box was found in his pocket. Employes of the telephone company said Harris had opened the telephone box and manipulated the apparatus in a way to convince the operator that coins had been dropped to pay for the call.

"I used to stop at 2 cups a day... now I drink 5 cups a day of DATED coffee"

SCIENTIFIC AUTHORITY

Present scientific knowledge establishes the fact that the average man or woman has a coffee "tolerance" of fully 5 cups a day. "Tolerance" means the ability of one's body to receive and utilize and enjoy without the slightest bad effect. But—that coffee must be fresh! The regular drinking of stale coffee has bad effects on the digestion.

HOW MANY TIMES have you heard people say "No, thank you. I've had two cups already."

And they bravely forego the greatest drink on earth!

Now—science politely brands as needless all that noble self-denial.

Coffee that is fresh is good for you.

The average man or woman has a "coffee tolerance" of 5 cups daily—drinks 5 cups a day healthfully—so long as it's fresh.

It is the rancid oil in stale coffee that's harmful. That often causes headaches, indigestion, nervousness, sleeplessness.

That is why Chase & Sanborn give you DATED coffee. An expiration date is stamped on every pound. So you know it's fresh.

Straight from the roasting ovens to your grocer. Rushed by swift motor trucks. None allowed to remain on the grocer's shelf after its date has expired.

Delicious! People rave about this coffee!

5 cups? If you feel like it—certainly. It's good for you. It's DATED!

If it is Chase & Sanborn's DATED Coffee, enjoy it to the full. Scientific authority says FRESH coffee is healthful—even to 5 cups a day.

SUPREME COURT O. K.'S TAX STRIKE CONTEMPT SUITS

Early Decision Sought; Mayor Backs Swanson.

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday gave State's Attorney Swanson permission to institute contempt of court proceedings by which he hopes to force dissolution of the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers, largest and most active of the groups which have been promoting the so-called tax strike in Cook county.

A petition to have the association held in contempt of court on the ground that it violates the statute prohibiting a corporation from practicing law was filed immediately by Assistant State's Attorney Grenville Beardsley, in charge of the case. Watkins, Ten Hoor & Gilbert, attorneys for the association, were given ten days in which to file a reply.

Early Ruling to Be Sought.

Mr. Beardsley said that he would ask the Supreme court for an early hearing and an immediate ruling on the case, in view of its importance to the tax collection situation in Cook county. Activities of the association have resulted in the nonpayment of taxes on 150,000 parcels of real estate in the county, he said.

The statute upon which the contempt action is based prohibits corporations from engaging in any way in the practice of law or from soliciting the right to represent any person in legal proceedings. The statute, however, excepts corporations organized not for pecuniary profit, and Perry J. Ten Hoor, one of its attorneys, said that the Association of Real Estate Taxpayers is such a corporation. He said that the association's reply will also deny that it has engaged in the practice of law in the meaning of the statute.

Display Nonprofit Claims.

The contempt petition, however, takes cognizance of the claim of the association that it is a corporation not for profit and disputes it, Mr. Beardsley stated.

The petition sets forth that John M. Pratt, executive director of the association, receives a salary of $20,000 a year, that the association pays its attorneys $1,500 a month, and that it has, by radio advertising and other means, solicited the membership of taxpayers, offering to represent them in legal proceedings designed to prevent collection of taxes on their properties.

"While it is alleged that this is a corporation not for profit," the state's attorney's petition states, "it is obviously profitable to its members and to some of its executives."

Demand Group Be Fined.

The petition asks that the Supreme court impose on the corporation the fines provided by the statute for its violation and forbid it from further engaging in the alleged practice of law.

"I am in hopes that some action will be taken to bring to an end the obstructionist tactics directed against the payment of taxes," said Mayor Cermak when told of the Supreme court's action. "If the activities of these people who advise against the payment of taxes continue there will be a collapse of local government.

"It is said that with lower tax bills more taxes will be paid. But, pending the collection of 1931 taxes, which will be reduced because of economies by the city and other local governments, the delinquent 1930 taxes must be paid if the governments are to continue to function.

Tax Penalties Piling Up.

"The Association of Real Estate Taxpayers is fooling its members. It has not rendered them any service, but, on the contrary, is doing them harm. While it has been delaying the collection of their taxes by court procedure, penalties of 12 per cent a year are rolling up on the unpaid taxes. In every case which the association has brought the courts have ruled against it and upheld the validity of the tax levies. When it has exhausted its last appeal the members will have to pay not only their original tax bills but heavy penalties in addition, plus whatever fees they have given the association."

The new county board of tax appeals held its first meeting yesterday to receive complaints of taxpayers against 1931 assessments. The complaints, numbering only about half a dozen, were against personal property assessments in some of the country towns.

The books containing the assessments for the towns of Barrington, Elk Grove, Hanover, Leyden, Northfield, Palatine, River Forest, Riverside, Schaumburg, and Wheeling were turned over to the board yesterday by Assessor J. L. Jacobs. Complaints for these towns will be received until Oct. 14, after which hearings will be held by the two board members, Fred W. Brummel and George F. Nixon.

Case Is Dismissed

Bob Parks, 744 North Dearborn street, was arrested on a charge of larceny because his dog, Spot, stole the pipe of Arthur Ristig, secretary to Capt. Charles McGinnis of the Chicago avenue police. The dog picked up the pipe while Parks was reporting that his car had been stolen. Arraigned yesterday in the court of Judge John Sbarbaro, Parks, a salesman for a pipe company, explained that the dog was trained to smoke a pipe as an advertising stunt. Parks and the dog were released and went to reclaim the automobile, which was recovered, undamaged, on the south side.

2 BIRDS ESCAPE FROM LIGHT WELL; 4 OTHERS REMAIN

Two of the six birds, four of them thrushes, which were trapped in the light well in the Continental Illinois Bank and Trust company building at 231 South La Salle street, escaped yesterday morning. The others remained there last night, pecking at the plentiful supply of food tossed to them by the building occupants.

Nicholas Becker, superintendent of the building, and virtually the only person in the building who has refused to get excited about the birds' plight explained their escape thus:

"They got out by flying out, hopping from one window sill to another, the way any bird with any sense knows how to do. Why didn't they get out before? Because they didn't want to. There was too much good food thrown to them by persons who felt sorry for them."

Newest Adams Book Confined to Bare Facts

Tells Story of America Up to Civil War.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"The March of Democracy," by James Truslow Adams. [Scribners.]

THE name of James Truslow Adams is as well known to the intelligent reading public as that of any writer on historical subjects in America. His "Epic of America," published last year, was the climax of his career in stimulating in a larger public an interest in history and an understanding of its principles. "The Epic of America" was more than a history of our country; it was a vivid interpretation of it, a searching into the philosophical foundations of all history and of the peculiar significance of the United States. It told the story of our country, but it did something much more than relate incidents.

J. T. ADAMS.

"The March of Democracy" is to be the first volume of a two volume history of the United States, and with Mr. Adams' past literary successes [from the critics' point of view] it might be supposed that something of special vitality and vigor would fill its pages. Mr. Adams explains in a preface how this two volume survey is to differ from the one volume interpretation, "The Epic of America." He says:

"In dealing with the United States in a single volume or two, one must to a great extent choose between a narrative of events and a philosophical interpretation. I have at various times in different ways tried to do what I could to interpret both our past and present. But it is impossible either to interpret for ourselves or properly to appraise the interpretations of others, unless we have a clear understanding of the course of events in general. Generalizing and philosophizing are delightful and fascinating tasks, but likely to be of little worth without a more prosaic basis of correct factual knowledge.

"In the history now offered, . . . I have therefore undertaken to lay such a foundation for the reader, and to tell as accurately and impartially as possible the story of the rise of our nation. . . The old type of history of a generation or two ago had its faults of omission. There is some danger, however, in correcting these, we may have run somewhat into another fault, that of stressing too much one or another of the factors, such as the economic one, which are rightly considered to be of great influence. . . There is no one key—economics, religion, politics or what-not—to an understanding of the whole. Here again I have tried to hold the balance even, and not to substitute for the old 'drum and trumpet' merely the voices and motives of the market place, or a picturesque account of manners and arts and thought."

Mr. Adams has thus so well stated the tenor of "The March of Democracy" that he rather draws the fangs of criticism. Fact without adornment or interpretation he offers his readers—intentionally—a first reader [for adults] in history. A first reader he certainly gives them, and facts without interpretation. "The March of Democracy" is as uninspired as the old fashioned history text books. The emphasis in it is not upon the "drum and trumpet" to be sure. It is a history of a people not merely a recitation of battle dates and the causes of war.

But the reader has little idea, when he has finished, why that people is so peculiarly itself. It is the childhood of the nation which he records in "The March of Democracy," the years of the nation's founding and its growth until 1860. But in reading it, the reader has no profound sense of why the child was father to the man of today, the United States of the present. He had such a sense in "The Epic of America." That, I suppose, is interpretive history which the author is consciously avoiding in this volume, but it seems to me that even a factual recitation in these days should stir the reader to do his own thinking.

Who am I to quarrel with a recognized historian in his presentation of facts? Merely one of the thousands of readers whom he hopes to interest and stimulate, and, not being stimulated and interested only to the extent that I recognize the usefulness of text book authenticated to date by latest historical discoveries.

"The March of Democracy" seems to me not up to Mr. Adams' standard. It would be a superb college text book, if only for its really remarkable illustrations, taken in most cases from contemporary sources and making vivid by picture and reproduction of vital documents the events recorded. To the person who knows little American history it would be a boon. But to any one who has read and admired and been stimulated intellectually by "The Epic of America" it is a disappointment.

Good Morning!

Did you see that great big, beautiful ad in our TRIBUNE extolling to the skies one movie cyclept "The Phantom President"? Well, that AD told the TRUTH!

Without doubt one of the greatest gloom chasers of recent history is right over on the United Artists' screen. This joyous burlesque on national politics (O, I thought it QUITE as good as "Of Thee I Sing") marks the triumphant talking screen debut of the stage's beloved Yankee Doodle Boy, George M. Cohan. (He made three "silents"—"Broadway Jones," "Seven Keys to Baldpate," and "Hit the Trail Holiday.")

Mr. Cohan didn't like Hollywood any to well while he was there, and wept a bit over the devious ways of picture makers. But I bet by now there's a song in his heart that's not any dirge! For he's a hit—and the movie men must surely deserve some credit for the click he makes. He handles his dual rôle of cocky quack and serious business man with ease and good taste, and few there be who will not resolve to buy a seat for his next moom pitcher.

As for Mr. Jimmie Durante—ah, there's a schnozzle for you! In this film he touches the zenith of his sure fire comedy line, accompanying his inimitable corporeal activities with volleys of rib-tickling nonsense. You could die laughing at the lunatic, first, as a medicine show barker, and, later, as campaign manager of the quack who is campaigning for the sex appeal-less presidential candidate whose double Doc Varney chances to be.

Re the rest of the cast—let's be slangy!—they're the berries! Each member was ideally chosen for the rôle portrayed. Direction by Norman Taurog—never forget he made "Skippy!"—is a work of art. This director has imagination and humor as well as great technical skill.

The screen play, adapted from a novel by George T. Worts, is, as you have probably gathered, concerned with a presidential election during which a "double" impersonates one of the candidates for reasons the film shall show you. Lyrics—they're good one's too!—are by Rodgers and Hart.

Here's a show breezy, "different," clean, full of music, wildly hilarious situations, brand new gags and patter—and clever from start to finish. You know that musical comedy "ain't got a thing if it ain't got that swing." "That swing" is what "The Phantom President" HAS—100 per cent!

See you soon.

MINUTE MYSTERY CAN YOU SOLVE IT?

BY H. A. RIDLEY

Dr. Fordney is professor of criminology at a famous university. His advice is often sought by the police of many cities when confronted with particularly baffling cases. This problem has been taken from his case book covering hundreds of criminal investigations.

Try your wits on it! It takes but ONE MINUTE to read! Every fact and every clew necessary to its solution are in the story itself—and there is only one answer. How good a detective are you?

THE ASHCROFT AFFAIR.

"My God, she's done it! She's done it!" shrieked Arnstad, proprietor of the Ashcroft, a small rooming house. Nina Presby, the housekeeper, who had just come in, ran to his side and the two stared at a stream of blood trickling from under the door into the corridor.

"What are you waiting for? . . . Hurry!" she screamed.

Entering the room they found Ellen, a maid, lying on the floor, her throat cut and a bloody razor beside her. An hour later Inspector Kelley and Prof. Fordney were questioning the proprietor.

"You talk to her, Fordney. I'll have a look at the body," suggested Kelley.

A moment later he spoke quietly to the frightened girl.

"I'm Prof. Fordney. You've had quite a shock! Can you tell me about it?"

"It was terrible. When Mr. Arnstad shrieked, 'She's done it!' I knew it was Ellen and when he unbolted the door and I saw her I fainted," she sobbed hysterically.

After quieting her Fordney joined the two men as Kelley demanded, "How did she get your razor, Arnstad?"

"Well, she cleans my rooms."

"Nina says," broke in Fordney, "you shouted, 'She done it!' How did you KNOW who it was?"

"I knew she was working in here and she's been despondent. There was no one else in the house."

The professor spoke to Kelley in an undertone and the inspector looked down at the bloody floor and hallowed, "Arnstad, you're under arrest!"

Modest Prices Feature Furs of New Season

Quality and Designs Win Praise.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

IT ISN'T often the practical minded shopper finds stunning fashions that are a solace to her shrewd shopping complex as well as desirable to her sensitive demand for beauty.

But the distinctive fur capes, with matching finger muffs, surely ought to satisfy the most canny of shoppers for fashion as well as practicality. Cape designers are doing things in a grand manner this season . . . every kind of fur and size of cape imaginable is being displayed.

Prices will cause the most excitement . . . you can buy capes and muffs separately or in a fashion-duet for prices that range from modest little sums to higher amounts that are really unbelievably low for such equisite furs and unusual creations.

Black capes are especially intriguing this year. You can sling a deep swinging Persian lamb cape over your shoulders with all the nonchalance of a swaggering Cossack, and complete the Russian effect with a dashing Russian or Cossack fur cap-hat slanted with the proper tilt over your short curled coiffure, and be as glamorously picturesque as any pre-war Russian princess.

Or you can filch the lavender coquettish atmosphere that fluttered around the shoulders of your grandmother's best Sunday-go-to-meeting cape by wearing an exact replica in moleskin in the new oxford gray shade. A tiny, very round and smug looking muff will keep your hands warm. This moleskin combine of muff and cape is a knockout, with each and every colored costume in your wardrobe . . . it covers the shoulders of a sports frock, a black wool afternoon dress or dull silk frock with equal effectiveness. Over a dull green, or wine, or gray suit or coat, it is perfect.

Black kidskin, ridiculously reasonable as to price, is designed in two charming new creations. The supple satinlike skins are used almost like a fabric. One good looking cape is made with the pelts in vertical formation which achieves a very slender effect for the owner . . . another kidskin also of black is fashioned to look like gleaming whorls you see in luxurious moire caracul skins. Fetching muff hand-warmers, made like small barrels, match the capes.

Regally beautiful mink capes are worked in circular effect . . . beautifully blended pelts with deep rich brown markings are superb in short or long capes of this always flattering fur.

Mink capes are simply divine over the new bronzeen green shades, with swanky black costumes and superlatively effective worn with gleaming white and ivory satin gowns for evening wear. The most attractive new mink capes are worn buttoned down the back and are made with a high snug rolling collar that assures a most flattering and softened frame for the face.

Undoubtedly you can wear capes of light and dark gray kidskin with more clothes than any other fur with the possible exception of black. There is a good reason for the popularity of gray . . . it is a neutral color that contrasts or appears in harmony with every color known to dress designers and fabric weavers.

Delightful gray kidskin capes, either short, medium, or the long waist swinging styles are paired with muffs also of the same gray fur.

Flat muffs of gray kidskin are decorated with simple tailored flat bows of the fur, while the round models have an upstanding ridge encircling the center of the muff.

Architects Report $7,500 Raised by Latin Quarter Fete

The executive committee of the Architects' Latin Quarter fête yesterday counted up the results of the fête which was held at the Drake hotel last Friday night. The committee reports as follows:

"In spite of the difficult times we were able to raise $7,500. We have already paid out $3,500 of this amount to the men who have been doing the work. For example, an unemployed former head draftsman, a white collar man, a graduate engineer, with a family, a wife and two children, unemployed for nine months, was thus enabled to receive a living wage.

"The Chicago Architectural Relief fun is established now for construc tive work, and ready to afford draftsmen opportunities for design and a chance to demonstrate latent talents and their interpretations of the designs of others.

"Sixty-eight draftsmen out of work were given employment under the supervision of architects still in practice. The architects' time was figured gratis."

A. N. Rebori was chairman of the executive committee and John W. Root chairman of the committee on decorations.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

If we femmes are doing all of this in never more beautiful in a man's eyes than when she is quiet. Doesn't matter what she wears so long as she isn't fussy and fussing.

Another thing. Will women never learn that men can't stand crooked seams? Is it so hard for a woman to get a seam on straight, or are they all trained in the zig zag school of women drivers? I'm speaking of stocking seams, naturally, as they're the only seams we men know a lot about!

"And still another thing, again about the lack of poise we big bruisers don't like. When a girl is dancing, why can't she learn to keep piped down? I was going to say 'keep her mouth shut.' I am going to say it, for that's what I mean. You can't keep up a running fire of conversation intercepted with hysterical laughs without getting out of rhythm. Some girls look beautiful until they get up to dance. Then their figures are like their tongues, wiggling, waggling, and out of control.

"There's more we'd like to subscribe for the ladies—but if they'll get the seams on straight and stop their jittery ways all will be forgiven!"

Canadian Church Hearings Warning on Marriage in the U. S.

HAMILTON, Ont., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The general council of the United Church of Canada today placed the church on record as discouraging the remarriage of divorced persons after a councilman had declared that the institution of marriage was "in serious disintegration" in the United States.

The speaker was Prof. W. A. Gifford, chairman of the committee which dealt with divorce, and he said: "We have 1,300 miles of border line across which marriage is in serious disintegration."

This view was seconded by Ernest C. Drury, former premier of Ontario, who declared Canada must stress the sanctity of marriage "in view of conditions to the south."

After these two addresses the council struck out a portion of its report on "the meaning and responsibilities of Christian marriage" which would have denoted a certain leniency toward the remarriage of divorced persons.

The board associated itself with the Church of England's Lambeth declaration and the stand of the United States Federal Council of Churches on birth control. It conceded the "right of every Christian to decide, in the light of all the facts and obligations involved, how far agencies to prevent reproduction shall be employed in his or her own life." The sessional committee altered the Lambeth declaration, however, by substituting "duty" for "right."

Thus offered, the assertion was unchallenged in council.

Opening Night of Play Will Benefit Olivet

'When Chicago Was Young' Starts Nov. 7.

BY JUDITH CASS.

OLIVET INSTITUTE, Chicago's first and oldest settlement house, is to benefit by the proceeds of the opening performance of "When Chicago Was Young," Alice Gerstenberg and Herma Clark's new play, which will begin a three weeks' professional engagement at the Goodman theater on Monday, Nov. 7.

Mrs. Howard Linn's interest in Olivet dates back to her debutante days when as Lucy Blair she took the elevated each day for the district called "Little Hell," to perform her charity duties. And she has a personal interest in the play, too, for Miss Clark lived with Mrs. Linn's grandmother, the late Mrs. William Blair, for forty years and it was through her association with Mrs. Blair that Miss Clark became interested and learned so much of Chicago's early days.

Miss Clark's letters with the same title as the play are a feature of THE TRIBUNE'S Sunday paper each week. For the last three years Mrs. Linn has arranged benefits for Olivet and she had planned to do something this fall but she told us yesterday that she had no idea what form the benefit would take until a week ago when she heard that "When Chicago Was Young" was going to be given and then she had the really brilliant idea of taking over the first night as the benefit. She has worked hard this past week and already she has lined up a large group of well known women and men to assist in the sale of boxes and tickets.

Mrs. Waller Borden, Mrs. Charles B. Goodspeed, and Mrs. R. Townsend McKeever are taking on the task of disposing of the boxes, Albert S. Gardner is planning the program, which is to be done in old printing with advertisements of the firms that were here "When Chicago Was Young" in it, and Walter Frazier and Ambrose C. Clark are designing the stage sets which are to be made by the same draftsmen that constructed those stunning ones for the Latin Quarter fête at the Drake last Friday night.

Will Benefit Jobless Architects.

Mrs. Linn, by the way, has arranged this to help the unemployed architects and she also is helping Mrs. Frank Hibbard's charity shop, Conveniences, by renting space in it for her office during the busy days ahead of her. In addition to being the general chairman of the benefit she is chairman of the publicity committee and also there is some talk of her having a part in the play, but that is not decided yet.

The cast, by the way, is to be composed of professionals and amateurs, a few of the latter being Mrs. Henry Field, Miss Marion McKinley, Miss Charlotte Robertson, Mrs. Stephens Bailey, and Miss Frances Oliver. The cast of 75 is far from complete, however, and rumor has it that some of the descendants of the well-known Chicagoans mentioned in the play are to take part, impersonating their own grandmothers and grandfathers.

All Chicago's old names are included in the play, perhaps not all on the first night, though, for Miss Gerstenberg tells me that different names will be used each night. The eight principal characters, however, are all fictitious with fictitious names. The prologue of the play shows Marquette and Joliet at the mouth of the Chicago river and the epilogue is in 1933 on the dining terrace of the Tavern, which is on the 25th floor of a skyscraper which stands approximately on the spot where the scene of the prologue is laid.

Historical Society Will Enjoy Preview of Building Sunday

Members of the Chicago Historical society will be permitted a preview of the society's new $1,000,000 building in Lincoln park at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

They will be received in Foyer hall, a reproduction of the lobby in Independent hall, Philadelphia, by Charles B. Pike, president of the society, and by the trustees.

The new building will be opened to the public about Nov. 5. The exact date will be announced later.

A baby girl, adopted from the Cradle, well known Evanston orphanage, found a home in Hollywood, Cal., yesterday. The home is that of Florence Eldridge, stage and screen actress, and her husband, Frederic March, film actor. Miss Eldridge arrived home with the infant yesterday. The child is four weeks old and named Penelope. Miss Eldridge and her husband appeared in Evanston a month ago, and at that time Mrs. Florence D. Walrath, superintendent of the Cradle, admitted they were planning to adopt a child.

Various Ways for Parent to WinObedience

Easy to Manage Child If You Just Know How.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Again and again comes the query, "How CAN I make my little boy—or girl—obey?"

It's really easy to manage your little son or daughter if you'll just get the key to it. Obedience is gained simply, if you only know how.

At this point you may say, "Ah, but there's the rub—if I only knew how." To be sure, you've got to know how. But if you haven't a natural talent for it you can learn.

First, a good plan is to ask yourself, "Why do we want our children to obey?" The right answer will be one great big step toward helping you to obtain obedience. What is the right answer?

We want our children to obey for their protection. Not that we can depend entirely on that. When small children are first sensing their power to walk and run and handle things, eternal vigilance is the price of their safety and their training, too. The tired mother whose legs ache at half past 4 o'clock in the afternoon and who'd sell her soul to be able to lie down for an hour instead of starting baby's supper and bath and daddy's dinner, knows this. But that vigilance is less necessary then and later if the child is taught to obey.

Another reason for obedience in little children is that it is a necessary factor in carrying out the routine of their physical care—bath, eating, dressing, etc.

Also, obedience—a reasonable, fair obedience — smoothes the day and makes for a happy relationship between children and their parents.

Obedience reduces friction and lost motion and leaves times for pleasant things. Those are a few of the reasons for it.

If we remember that obedience is mainly for the happiness and well-being of our child, and secondarily for our convenience, we are more apt to be calm and intelligent in obtaining it.

Here's another point: The kind of obedience you expect from a 2 or 3 year old is different from the kind you would expect of a 13 year old. They are, at these ages, not muscularly or mentally equipped to give the same kind of obedience.

Early obedience is built up by a tactful guidance of a child's immature but fast growing powers. This can be done by first sensing his desires and needs and, second, by satisfying them in a way that means for him, not spoiling or indulgence, but development.

Detailed advice is contained in the booklet, "How to Gain Obedience," which will be sent on receipt of a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

"Do tell me," petitioned a TRIBUNE reader recently, "a recipe for an especially festive cake to serve when company comes?"

So it is about "cake for company" that I want to talk this morning, for this reader is only one of a large family of home cooks who have in the last several months come seeking party cakes, special tricky tea cookies, and glorified pastries with which to intrigue the casual dropper-in, impress the in-laws, and leave the visiting bridge hounds green eyed with envy.

Needless to say, I'm going to offer you no revolution in caking making. I wouldn't want to if I could. I couldn't if I wanted to. For no matter what new wrinkle may mark our party cake or how unprecedented and unique it may appear to the ravished guests, after all, if it be a well brought up cake, it owes its real deliciousness to one of two family trees. Either it is an offspring of the butter cake class or a descendant of the race of sponge cakes. And so, no matter how we manipulate the dough, how we bake it, how we cut it, and when we serve it, the perfection of our most unusual party cakes will depend on how thoroughly we understand the creation of the simplest and unadorned members of these two cake family trees.

But once we have mastered the simple, then on to the complex and companified. And just in case you may have forgotten some of the companifications, cast a speedy glance over the following:

Butter cake, with a bit of juggling, of adding and substracting of ingredients, may come out of the oven as Washington pie, fruit and nut upside down cake, hickory nut, spice, silver, cocoanut layer, chocolate fudge, devil's food, peach feather, Spanish, marble, or lemon cream cake. Or it may make its appearance as a gold cake, caramel, apple sauce, burnt sugar, chocolate layer, fig, prune, ribbon, or a banana marshmallow cake. There are more—too many even to mention—with hundreds of combinations of new ingredients and frostings still to be discovered.

Angel foods when dressed up air themselves as chocolate, cocoanut, tutti-frutti, daffodil, marble, and cherry angle foods. An endless parade of frostings and icing decorations varies this array even more. Sponge cakes go to parties as jelly rolls, ice box cakes, lady fingers, sunshine cakes, and lemon, creole, and chocolate sponges.

Or, if many parties have already used up these possibilities and another festive event looms, try the following fluffy tantalizers:

CHOCOLATE APPLE SAUCE CAKE.

1 teaspoon baking powder.
1 teaspoon soda.
1 cup sugar.
3 teaspoons cornstarch.
1½ squares melted chocolate.
2-3 cup chopped nuts.
1-3 cup chopped citron or raisins.
1 egg, well beaten.
1 cup unsweetened thick apple sauce.

Sift the flour once, measure and sift with it twice the soda, salt, spices, baking powder, and cornstarch. Cream the butter and sugar together until fluffy, then add the egg, fruit, and nuts, stir in the melted chocolate. When well mixed, stir in the dry mixture alternately with the apple sauce, beating between additions. Bake in a greased pan in a moderate oven [350 degrees F.] sixty minutes. Orange butter frosting makes a luscious topping for this cake. To prepare it, combine one-third cup of orange juice, the grated rind of a small orange, and the grated rind of one-half a lemon, and let stand fifteen minutes. Meanwhile combine one beaten egg yolk with one-eighth teaspoon salt, one-fourth cup creamed butter, and three and one-third cups confectioner's sugar. Strain the orange juice and beat sufficient of it into the sugar to give a frosting of spreadable consistency. This will furnish enough for a thick, fluffy icing over the top and sides of the apple sauce cake.

Now for a few quick thoughts for dressing up our own tried recipes. For a colorful fall party cake, prepare a large gold cake, divide in half, and to one-half add two squares of melted chocolate. To the other half add one-third cup cocoanut, one-fourth cup grated orange peel, and enough yellow coloring to give a gold glow to the batter. Now drop the batters by spoonfuls into greased layer pans. There will be enough for two marble layers. Bake half an hour in a moderate over [350 degrees F.]. Let cool, then put together with a smooth fudge filling and ice with golden yellow frosting. As the final touch, dust the still moist icing with finely grated orange rind, and chocolate sprinkles.

Opening Night of Play Will Benefit Olivet

days, in 1858, is the scene of the first act; the interior of a fashionable house at Wabash avenue and 12th street a few days after the Chicago fire in 1871 is the setting for the second, and the Potter Palmer residence on Lake Shore drive in 1896, when Chicago's first royal visitor, the Princess Eulalie, was entertained there is the scene of the third. The Tremont hotel was built by a Couch and was managed by a Drake, both well known names of today in Chicago.

Miss Marie Agnes Foley, who is directing the play, is in need of a tandem bicycle and a high one with a huge wheel in front and a small one in back—an elderly man was riding one of those out West Washington street the other day, to the astonishment and interest of the passing motorists—so any one who has one of these and wishes to lend it to be used in the production can communicate with her at the theater. She also could use an old-fashioned perambulator and costumes of bygone days.

Mrs. Garrett Delays Visit.

Mrs. John W. Garrett, who was to have arrived in Chicago this week to be the house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, is not to be here until the 14th, according to the latest cable received by Mrs. Dewey.

Mrs. Garrett, who is the wife of the American ambassador at Rome, will land in New York on Saturday and will stop in New York, Baltimore and Washington before coming to Chicago. She is coming to this country as a volunteer speaker for the Republican cause and is to make two talks here on the day of her arrival. One is to be at an Italian massmeeting. Mrs Dewey is not going to make any plans for her guest's entertainment until after she has arrived in New York.

Miss Janet Fairbanks is having a vacation from her radio work and so is to be up at the Lake Geneva residence of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kellogg Fairbank, all this month instead of commuting as she has been doing since she returned from Germany in midsummer. Mrs. Fairbank is commuting more than ever these days between Lake Geneva and Chicago, for she is working hard to help the Democrats and to finish the novel she is writing. The family will not be in town at their North State street residence to stay until Nov. 1.

Writing of Janet Fairbank's radio activities reminds us of another young girl who has started broadcasting; talking, not singing, however. It is Miss Lillian Fraser, known to her friends and those of her mother, the late Mrs. Marjorie Caldwell, as "Tiggy." Miss Fraser is broadcasting W-G-N's "Good Morning" program from 7 to 9 o'clock each morning, having been chosen for the job after a tryout in which about twenty-five girls took part. In the tryout the program sponsors who listened were not aware of the identity of the contestants, so Miss Fraser won the job on acount of real merit.

John Abbott Moves to Town.

John Jay Abbott, who spent the summer as usual at the Chicago club in Wheaton, is residing again in his town house at 3224 South Michigan avenue. Mrs. Abbott has been abroad since midsummer and the date of her return is still indefinite, although she will be back to spend the winter in Chicago.

Dr. and Mrs. Francis X. Walls, who have been back about a fortnight from their summer stay at Nantucket island with their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Livingston Walls of Newark, N. J., have moved from 209 Lake Shore drive to 22 East Chestnut street.

Mrs. William H. Bush and the Misses Carol and Emeline Bush have returned to their State parkway residence after a 3 months' absence. They spent the summer at Fontainebleau, France, where Carol studied architecture and Emeline painting in the American School of Art in the Fontainebleau palace.

Mrs. Frederick M. Schmidt and Miss Dorothy Schmidt are back in their apartment at 222 East Delaware place after spending the late summer and early fall in the east.

Mrs. Joseph Donner of Buffalo [the former Carol Elting] and her two children are in town visiting Mrs. Donner's parents, the Howard Eltings, at their apartment at 900 North Michigan avenue.

Since the death of her husband Mrs. Donner and her youngsters have been living in France. Plans for her future residence are indefinite, but she intends to return to Buffalo for at least a few months' stay before deciding on a permanent location. She will be in her native city for another week and in the meantime she'll be busy seeing all of the old friends who are arranging little reunion parties for her.

Mrs. William P. Martin, who has been abroad all summer with her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. J. Allen Haines of New York, has returned to Chicago and taken an apartment at the Ambassador East for the winter. Her stepdaughter, Mrs. Helen Martin Howard, after having lived in San Francisco since her marriage a decade ago, is planning to reside here again. She was in Lake Forest for a few weeks in the late summer and is now visiting in the east, but when she returns the latter part of this month she will take a house in Lake Forest with her brother, William Paul Martin.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Milton McCoy [Carolyn Walker] were in Chicago for a few hours' visit with Mrs. McCoy's sisters, Mrs. John Paul Welling and Mrs. James Field, yesterday on their way from Middleburg, Va., to their ranch in Wyoming. They will remain in the west for just a week and then return to spend the winter at their Middleburg estate.

The social season in Hinsdale will open on Saturday, when the first big dance of the winter will be given for the benefit of the Hinsdale Infant Welfare society at the Oak Brook polo clubhouse. Mrs. Paul Butler is chairman of the committee in charge, which includes Mrs. Walter Sheldon, Mrs. John Hasbrook, Mrs. Harold Myers, Mrs. W. W. Kinnball, and Mrs. Frederick McElhone.

WASHINGTON SOCIETY

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Lady Lindsay, wife of the British ambassador, has sailed on her return journey to the United States and is expected to arrive in New York Saturday. The ambassador, who joined her in England the middle of the summer, will return here later.

Col. Edward Clifford, formerly of Chicago, was joined yesterday by Mrs. Clifford and their daughter, Miss Helen Clifford, who have been in England through the summer. Col. Clifford joined them there for a few weeks' stay and returned to their Georgetown home the middle of September.

Mrs. John R. Williams has closed her Washington home and sailed tonight aboard the Manhattan for England, where she will visit her son-in-law and daughter, the United States minister to Ireland and Mrs. Frederick A. Sterling. They will be joined later in the fall by Mrs. Williams' daughter, Mrs. Joseph Leiter of Chicago, who has been at Hot Springs with her daughter, Miss Nancy Leiter. Mrs. Leiter and her mother will spend the greater part of the winter in Europe.

Commander and Mrs. E. Hunter Tennant, who have been aboard their yacht through the summer, cruising on the Potomac river and Chesapeake bay, are now in their country place near Fredericksburg, Va. The engagement of Commander and Mrs. Tennant's son, Ensign John Gardner Tennant, to Miss Virginia Dawes was announced recently by her parents, former Vice President and Mrs. Charles G. Dawes of Chicago. The wedding will take place shortly.

Mrs. Charles E. Townsend, widow of the former senator from Michigan, who is visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Loomis, was the guest in whose honor Mrs. Seiforde M. Stellwagen entertained at luncheon followed by bridge at the Rooshu Castle club today.

NEW KIND OF SOAP SAVES MONEY ON WASHDAY
NOWADAYS, when every penny means so much, women everywhere are beginning to realize what a useless waste of money it is to scrub clothes threadbare. Housewives all over the country are taking steps to end this great waste. Instead of rubbing the life out of their clothes against a washboard, they now secure whiter, brighter washes just by soaking the wash in a new kind of creamy, work-saving suds.
One staunch supporter of the "save-money-on-washday" movement, when asked how this new method works, replied, "Like millions of other women, I now use Rinso on washday. It gives such rich suds that all the dirt is loosened right out. Just soaking in Rinso suds gets my wash whiter and sweeter than hours of scrubbing and boiling. My clothes last much longer when washed this easy way. I've cut my clothes and linen expenses almost in half since I began using Rinso."
Numerous other women report that Rinso saves money in other ways, too. "A little Rinso does so much work that it is the most economical soap I ever used," says still another enthusiast.
With Rinso there's no need to buy softeners, for even in hardest water this modern laundry soap gives creamy, long-lasting suds. Rinso is endorsed by the makers of 40 famous washers. Fine for dishes, makes grease go in a flash, yet the suds are so easy on the hands.
Try Rinso Free
If you don't use Rinso and want to try it, send a clipping of this offer with your name and address to Lever Brothers Co., Dept. T26, Cambridge, Mass. A full-sized package will be sent you without cost.

Dresses Wrap in Back and Button Up, Down, or 'Round

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Every dressmaker in Paris has dresses that are wrapped over in back, like the coat is wrapped over in front, and that is buttoned together on the bodice. Schiaparelli started this fashion with her allover apron frocks this summer, and Vionnet began the wrapped skirt evening frock. Perhaps the over the head dress is doomed. In any case these dresses that you get into in the 1890 way are very smart. They give work to idle husbands and help along the unemployment problem.

The Heim ensemble shown in our sketch has the wrapped and buttoned frock. The material of this dress is copper brown wool corduroy, a material that is big in French fashions for winter. The plain bodice and sleeves are made of the wool with the ribs worked horizontally. In back there is a U shaped shoulder yoke that is open on the right side and that hooks on the right shoulder, where it meets the wide bias band that trims the bodice front.

Below this yoke the dress is buttoned, where it is closed, down the back to the hipline, and below this it is simply wrapped over so it doesn't gap open. It is worked in back half horizontally of the ribs and half vertically, and the front of the skirt has the same pattern. There is a knee length coat with melon puffs in the sleeves and with the corduroy amusingly worked in curved bands. A separate collar of brown astrakan and wool corduroy and a muff of astrakan complete the ensemble. They can be worn with the ensemble or the dress.

NEW YORK SOCIETY

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Pierre Lorillard for the marriage of Mrs. Lorillard's daughter, Miss Mary Hill Beard, to Frederick Christian Havemeyer II. on Oct. 22. Miss Beard is the daughter of the late Anson McCook Beard, and a granddaughter of the late James J. Hill. Mr. Havemeyer is a son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry O. Havemeyer.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Lawrence Oakley are returning this week from Europe where they went to place their two daughters in school.

Boles to Start Work in Song Movies Again

Music Vehicles Return to Popularity.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., Oct. 5.—John Boles, who owes his screen start to his fine singing voice, but showed them that he also was a good actor when the singles hit the doldrums three years ago, is now to do singing hero parts again for Universal. The returning popularity of singing vehicles has also led to advances being made toward Lawrence Tibbett by MGM. And Paramount is bringing Kate Smith out here for a starring part, having just dismissed Bing Crosby to catch a New York bound train last night after the successful previewing of Crosby's "The Big Broadcast." Dixie Lee [Mrs. Crosby] accompanied him east.

Sir Hubert Wilkins and Bernt Balchen, aviator, formerly with Admiral Byrd, went out of their way to pay a friendly call on Merian Cooper, the director-producer of weird and adventure stories, at Radio yesterday. Wilkins and Balchen are here on some mysterious errand involving negotiations for a plane intended to do polar flying.

When Miriam Hopkins caught her plane for New York yesterday it was none other than her friendly but recently divorced husband who patted her hand in farewell and tucked her into her seat. Miss Hopkins expects to spend only a few days in New York and come back next week. Object—autumn clothes.

Another trip to Broadway for new togs was unexpectedly canceled when Jimmy Cagney, now the fair haired young fellow on the Warner lot, was told to cancel his reservations yesterday, just as he was packing to go east, because they need him so badly to start "Bad Boy" at once. You see, the Warner studio contracted with exhibitors to provide so many Cagney films during 1932, and Jimmy's four month walkout left the studio unable to produce. So now the executives want to rush Jimmy's return story to rapid completion, for the exhibitors feel that Cagney films bring money.

Bankers attending the American Bankers' association three day convention here played hookey from speeches to sneak a glance at Johnny Weissmuller, Mary Carlisle and Muriel Evans cavorting in the synthetic MGM jungle for a picture sequence. None of the bankers knew that the cameramen who "shot" the scene so busily weren't really recording anything for a film at all; and that it was all part of a neat piece of entertainment for them thought up by Louis B. Mayer, head of the studio and a friend of Ogden L. Mills.

The Murder of Caroline Bundy

By ALICE CAMPBELL.

SYNOPSIS.

Neil Starkey, American biographer, is engaged by Caroline Bundy to compile the life and letters of her late father, a famous English biologist. Miss Bundy is in poor health and acting peculiarly. She has hired a photographer named Tilbury as bailiff, and he and his wife, an ill-bred couple, hold a strange influence over her. Natasha Andreyev, Caroline's half Russian niece, acts as her aunt's secretary. She detests the Tilburys. Caroline tells Neil that her father, a man of science was also a mystic. Caroline and the Tilburys hold nightly meetings in the library. Giles Gisborne, vicar of a nearby parish, and his sister Rachel are friends of Neil's. Neil is attracted to Natasha, but is baffled by her odd behavior. She is giving money to a man she meets secretly. Caroline promises to visit Emily Braselton, an old friend, in Paris. Natasha drives her to London. Natasha returns a few days later and tells Neil that her aunt gave her a pearl necklace, which she sold. She receives a wire which Caroline sent from London asking her to look for an alligator bag left in the car. The bag is not found. Caroline doesn't reach Paris. The police are notified.

INSTALLMENT XXII.

A GHASTLY SIGHT.

Rachel insisted on keeping Natasha in bed. The girl was still in a state of exhaustion remarkable for one usually so vigorous, nor could she adequately account for her complete lassitude. Neil had her on his mind all the time he was helping with the unprofitable inquiries, haunted by the idea that there might be some obscure connection between her depressed state and Miss Bundy's disappearance.

During the afternoon he went over to Stoke Paulton to find the Tilburys very distraught amid an atmosphere of hushed apprehension. More telegrams from Paris had come, but nothing to shed the least ray on the ever darkening problem. Crabbe, closely questioned, shook his head and could offer no opinion. He looked very gray and decidedly older.

"Devil take these busybodies!" he raged. "That's the third to come poking her nose in here and making unpleasant insinuations. It passes comprehension how quickly these matters get round. Why, the entire village knows Carrie is missing and, to crown all, some evil minded person appears to have spread a most disagreeable rumor. I'm thankful Natasha came straight to us. That, at least, is some protection against their poisonous tongues."

Neil and his companion wheeled just in time to see Natasha slump down in a heap on the landing.

"Well, no one's had the audacity to put it into words. It's just a general, nasty tone to the questions they're asking. Was there any quarrel between Carrie and the girl—did I know there was talk of Natasha's being sent away—and so on. That harpy you saw is the worst of the lot. She declares she's had it from—Hello! What's this! The local police calling."

True enough, two stout constables were turning in under the lych-gate. The foremost lifted his helmet and cleared his throat with portentous gravity.

"Sorry to trouble you, Mr. Gisborne, but a report's just come to us from Bristol. Lady's body found near there. We wanted to ask you and your friend to come along and look it over—in case."

"Bristol? Preposterous! Why, Miss Bundy was in London last Friday on her way to Paris. This can't be she."

"I daresay not, sir, only there seems a faint chance. We's notified Stoke Paulton, too. In any case, I may tell you it's a matter of murder."

Above, from the top of the stairs, sounded a gasping cry. Neil and his companion wheeled just in time to see Natasha slump down in a heap on the landing.

In the police car which whirled them towards Bristol Neil could see nothing but the vision of Natasha's white face. What was it in her eyes—incredulity, horrified bewilderment? She had not lost consciousness, and on regaining her feet without assistance had said little except to assure them she was all right, yet that some definite fear lurked behind her rapid resumption of composure was a belief impossible to conquer.

In the heart of the bustling city they threaded several crowded streets, to stop before a dingy building. Outside this a second car was just stopping and from it alighted Crabbe and Alfred Tilbury, the latter very shaken and subdued. A sergeant met them and escorted the two parties along a passage to a small mortuary where, under a pitiless overhead light, a shrouded object lay stretched on a table. As they filed in Neil caught from behind him the bailiff's strange, hoarse croak: "Why, 'owever could they think it was 'er? On 'er way to France she was—ticket bought and all!"

The words echoed his own thoughts. No, this was not Miss Bundy.

Creaking boots, heavy breathing. The sergeant looked round to make sure all were assembled, then drew back the enveloping sheet.

A long silence, charged with horror, then the vicar's low voice. "Yes—it is she. No doubt whatever. Poor creature—what a ghastly sight!"

It was indeed a ghastly sight. The short, graying hair was caked in blackened blood, which had spread downward on to the fur coat. The head, turned so as to show a purpled bruise on the temple, had been savagely battered in several places—battered and broken.

Crabbe's thin lips were pressed tightly together. Tilbury's features twitched as with St. Vitus' dance, his pale eyes starting from his face like glass marbles. He seemed shocked to the point of nausea.

Gisborne spoke again. "This seems quite inexplicable. When did it happen?"

"They look soaked, as though she had lain a long time in the rain."

"Just so, sir—and what rain have we had except on Friday night of last week, between 9 and 12? Not a drop since. That pretty well fixes it, I should say."

"At 5:30 on Friday she was alive, in London."

"Was she, now? In London?"—incredulously.

"Ah, but do we know that for sure?" came a hoarse, eager whisper from Tilbury. Every one looked at him. Neil, resenting the shrewd tone, felt his face flame with anger.

"What about the telephone call you had at 5:30?" Gisborne reminded the speaker.

"True, sir; I was forgetting—if it was 'er," the bailiff said.

"The call can easily be traced."

"O, to be sure it can—and anyhow Miss Andreyev was with her a little before, wasn't she?"

No one troubled to answer this, and after a pause which to Neil seemed significant, the vicar asked if there were any theory as to the motive.

The officer hesitated. "Well, sir, on the face of it, robbery," he said. "Whatever she had was taken, though of course we don't yet know what it amounted to. All, that is, except her umbrella, and this here." He fished up from the sodden garments the gold chain and locket. "Not worth bothering about, probably. Picture of an old gentleman inside. Perhaps some of you can help with information. Do you happen to know what jewelry or money she had on her?"

Crabbe volunteered what they all knew—that Miss Bundy never wore jewelry beyond an occasional brooch. As for money, she usually carried no large sums, even when she was going on a journey, relying on travelers' checks and keeping only ten or fifteen pounds at most in her purse.

Neil said nothing. He was wondering if the two from Stoke Paulton had noticed what had instantly struck him, namely, that the tiny steel key was gone from its place on the chain. It was this key which belonged to the alligator bag, but did any one outside the dead woman's household know of its existence? Neither face told him what he eagerly sought.

"Fifteen pounds," the officer was repeating. "Very little to commit murder for—but it might have been supposed she had valuables on her. For all we know she may have had. Elderly ladies are often a bit queer like that. My own mother carries every bit of jewelry she owns about with her in a little black silk reticule. Never leaves go of it . . . Point now is, how did she get to Bristol? Perhaps you gentlemen would care to look at the spot where she was found? If so, one of our chaps will show it to you. It's about three miles out of town."

The suggestion that Miss Bundy might have had something intrinsically valuable in her possession added greatly to Neil's perturbation. Again he asked, why had Natasha not mentioned the pearls to Rachel and the vicar? Supposing her speedy disposal of the necklace became known, would she not be placed in an embarrassing position? There must be witnesses who had seen Miss Bundy after she parted from her niece, but if none was forthcoming, what then?

He was on pins and needles to apprise the girl of her possible danger.

Although Man's a Cad, Lovesick Girl Has Hopes

Thinks She Can Reform Him After Marriage.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"It has been my misfortune to fall in love with a married man. We have been going around together for six months. He is 36, I am 28. Lately, when he is financially embarrassed, he suggests I pay for the evening's entertainment. Though the amount may be trivial, I feel reluctant about paying. I think he is taking advantage of my good nature.

"Now, I am unemployed and he had the nerve to suggest that I take some of my saved money so we could go to the theater. I realize he has financial responsibilities at home and I have been contented with little entertainment. I did not feel it right to take away from his family out of his salary. He tells me he will get a divorce as soon as he is financially able.

"His indifference toward his wife began before he met me. His home life is not happy. He admits his wife is a good mother and wife, but owing to business reverses their love is a thing of the past."

Then, "Perplexed," the foolish girl, asks whether a man of the caliber reported above would turn over a new leaf and make a second wife happy? The optimism of some folk is beyond all understanding! Particularly that of young women attached to married men of the sort described. This one bears all the evidence needed to condemn him as a rotter, yet this young woman's ego is such as to hope marriage with her will make a better man of him.

Character doesn't change like that. It's something in the making long before the marriage knot is tied!

An interview with the current wife would throw a lot of light on the hopelessness of reform in marriage. It would throw more light on why some husbands are misunderstood, or as the rightful interpretation goes, understood too well. It might, indeed, present the surprising information to "Perplexed" that said current wife would be only too glad to have some other woman relieve her of her mate burden.

We suggest the interview, anyway, because no one like the woman who has lived with a man for years is in a position to unfold so truthfully his real measure.

DANDRUFF
Soon Destroys the Hair

If you want plenty of thick, beautiful, glossy, silky hair, do by all means get rid of dandruff, for it will starve your hair and ruin it if you don't.

It doesn't do much good to try to brush or wash it out. The only sure way to get rid of dandruff is to dissolve it, then you destroy it entirely. To do this, get plain ordinary liquid Arvon; apply it at night when retiring; use enough to moisten the scalp and rub it in gently with the finger tips.

By morning, most if not all, of your dandruff will be gone, and two or three more applications will completely dissolve and entirely destroy every single sign and trace of it.

You will find, too, that all itching and digging of the scalp will stop, and your hair will look and feel a hundred times better. You can get liquid Arvon at any drug store. It won't cost you more than thirty-five cents. No matter how much dandruff you have, this simple remedy never fails.

U. S. OFFICER SHOT TRYING TO SAVE LEGION COMRADE

BY EDMOND TAYLOR.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 5. — Lieut. Edgar Guerard Hamilton of Newcastle, Pa., the only American officer in the French foreign legion, is lying grievously wounded in the French military hospital at Capablanca. He was shot while making a gallant attempt to save the life of a wounded soldier in his command during a battle on Sept. 9 against Moroccan natives in the Atlas mountains, 9,000 feet above sea level.

Lieut. Hamilton visited Chicago on leave last spring and spoke before the Chicago Rotary club on his experiences in the foreign legion. His comrades reported that he seemed depressed since he returned from the United States.

"He seemed to be looking for the bullet that got him," a fellow legionnaire said.

Shot in the Head.

Lieut. Hamilton was wounded during an engagement against the Chleuhs, whom his detachment had just driven from a tree covered hilltop. An outpost was hit by a sniper's bullet and when the American rushed forward to bring him back, he himself was hit by a bullet which entered the left cheek near the nose and came out through the left ear. His lower jaw was fractured and his facial and auditory nerves were either cut by the bullet or paralyzed by shock.

After the battle Lieut. Hamilton was carried two and one-half miles down a steep mountainside on a stretcher and was then transported 25 miles on muleback through wild mountainous country to an ambulance, which took him another 25 miles to the nearest outpost of civilization, whence an airplane carried him to Capablanca.

Second American Wounded.

Another American, Corporal De Kalb, was wounded in the same engagement and is also at Capablanca hospital.

Lieut. Hamilton was a member of the Lafayette escadrille during the war. He reënlisted in the French foreign legion in 1922. He is one of very few foreigners to hold a commission in the famous body of adventurers, which bears the brunt of cleaning up France's colonial empire.

Tells of Escape from Legion.

GIBRALTAR, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A man who identified himself as Robert Young, a former resident of Long Beach, Cal., appeared at a hospital here today and related a story of a harrowing escape from the French Foreign Legion.

He said he decided to abandon the legion with an Italian companion at arms, Giuseppe Carusso, last month after enduring many privations. He said he had been wounded several times and decorated five times for bravery during his year and a half service with the legion in Africa. One of his decorations was the French croix de guerre.

Young said he went through the disastrous train wreck at Tlemcen, Algeria, last month, in which many legionnaires were killed, and he and Carusso walked to Spanish territory near Melilla, where they were challenged by guards.

Both of the men tried to flee, but Young said Carusso was shot dead. Young gained the Maluva river bank and plunged in, thus successfully shaking off pursuers. When he reached Melilla the Spanish police placed him aboard a mail steamer bound for Malaga, Spain. The youth said he walked from Malaga to Gibraltar, a distance of 65 miles.

When he arrived he was suffering from sciatica. British police investigated his case and announced they intended to send Young to England when he is released from the hospital, as they understood he was born at Cowdenbeath, Fife, Scotland.

ROBERT GOELET QUITS LEGION AND PROTESTS AGAINST BONUS PLEA

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Robert Goelet, financier, who served as an officer overseas in the 77th and 82d divisions, announced today that he had resigned from the Knickerbocker Club post of the American Legion.

Mr. Goelet in his letter of resignation said the commander and the officers of the American Legion "well know that the bonus is not due by law, and that our veterans of the world war have been better cared for than those of any other nation. Any self-respecting member of the A. E. F. cannot countenance the shameful, disgraceful and unpatriotic assault on our government at Washington by the so-called veterans of the B. E. F."

REP. LINTHICUM DIES; LONG A FOE OF PROHIBITION

Baltimore, Md., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Representative J. Charles Linthicum [Dem.], dean of Maryland's delegation in the house and nationally known figure in the anti-prohibition ranks, died here today after a brief illness.

The 65 year old legislator, who was chairman of the house committee on foreign affairs, went to the hospital about 12 days ago to receive treatment for a carbuncle, and after an operation remained there for observation for a chronic ailment.

Beside having been co-author with Representative Beck [Rep., Pa.] of the first repeal measure to have reached a vote in the house since the prohibition statute was enacted, Linthicum headed the unofficial committee formed by the wets in the house which planned the strategy of the anti-prohibition members.

Linthicum served continuously in the house for 21 years and was a candidate for reëlection from the Fourth Maryland district.

Of his many activities in that body, one which his Maryland constituents will long remember was his sponsorship of the measure which made Francis Scott Key's "Star Spangled Banner" the national anthem.

BROTHER-IN-LAW AND A DOG HELP HUSBAND ESCAPE

A police dog and a loyal brother-in-law enabled John Dausch, 30 years old, a garage owner, to escape arrest on an alimony contempt attachment last night. The dog was shooed away, but the brother-in-law, Knute Nordquist, 42, was arrested for disorderly conduct and resisting arrest. In addition he faces possible contempt action, police said.

The trouble started when Deputy Sheriff Mario Pallostrini appeared at the Dausch home at 655 Melrose street. Accompanying him was Mrs. Florence Dausch of 1919 School street. Dausch accepted arrest on the attachment, but asked permission to change his clothes. Deputy Pallostrini consented.

Dausch went into the kitchen. He unleashed a large police dog, which bounded into the next room—between the kitchen and the deputy. Pallostrini finally shooed him away with kind words and was about to go after Dausch when Nordquist appeared. He blocked Pallostrini's pursuit long enough to enable Dausch to get away. The deputy arrested him. Later Dausch's mother scheduled $125,000 in property for his release. The case will come up in north side court this morning.

T. J. SCOFIELD, ATTORNEY, DIES; FUNERAL TODAY

Timothy J. Scofield, a member of the Illinois bar for fifty-three years and former first assistant attorney general of Illinois, died Tuesday at his home, 7020 Jeffery avenue. He was 76 years old.

Mr. Scofield began the practice of law at Carthage, Ill. He resided at Quincy from 1890 to 1893, when he accepted the assistant attorney generalship. He remained in Springfield until 1897, when he moved to Chicago.

Here he became district attorney for the Chicago and Alton railroad. For several months in 1899 he was assistant city attorney of Chicago, resigning to become counsel for the Chicago Union Traction company. In 1906 he joined the law firm of Loesch, Scofield, Loesch, and Burke, attorneys for the Pennsylvania Railroad company.

Mr. Scofield was a member of the Illinois Athletic club and was a Mason and a Shriner. He is survived by his widow, three sons, and three daughters. Funeral services are to be held in the Bryn Mawr community church, 7000 Jeffery avenue, at 2:30 p. m. today. Burial will be in Oakwoods cemetery.

Oak Park Police Celebrate a Department Romance

More than fifty guests were gathered last night at the home of Policeman Frank W. Schwartz at 856 Home avenue, Oak Park, to celebrate the Oak Park police department's romance of the year. They were awaiting the return as husband and wife of Policeman Elmer Paulsen, 26 years old, and Lorraine, 24, daughter of Policeman Schwartz. At 9 o'clock the guests received a telegram from somewhere in Indiana that the two had been married elsewhere and were on their honeymoon. Policeman Paulsen and Policeman Schwartz have worked on the same flivver crew for a year. Through that association Paulsen met Schwartz's daughter.

RIGA, Latvia, Oct. 5.—Bales of letters asking money which have poured from Russia in the last fortnight and caused much surprise in the Baltic states were explained by advertisements appearing today in all soviet newspapers.

The soviet chain store organization —Torgsin —which advertises that it has 200 stores selling food and clothing exclusively for foreign valuta, gold, and jewelry—now advertises that persons with friends or relatives abroad may obtain goods in its stores much cheaper than in coöperatives provided that the money is sent to persons in Russia through Torgsin.

Torgsin, when the money arrives, opens an account in the name of the consignee, who is permitted to purchase against the amount credited. Listing 93 banks in 26 countries where such accounts may be arranged, Torgsin mentions that the amount of money remittances is unlimited. The articles offered for sale include provisions, clothing, cosmetics and other luxury articles, antiquarian and art objects, bicycles, and furs. The advertisements mention the Amalgamated Trust and Savings bank in Chicago.

DEPUTY FINDS D. B. KILBOURNE AND AID ARE ONE

His troubles in obtaining service upon Don B. Kilbourne, commission merchant, in the suit for divorce instituted Tuesday by Mrs. Florence Putler Kilbourne, 414 Linden avenue, Oak Park, were recounted to Circuit Judge Philip J. Finnegan yesterday by Bailiff Edward Scholler. He appeared in court with Mrs. Kilbourne and her attorney, Robert E. Cantwell Jr.

"I went to Mr. Kilbourne's office six times yesterday," said Scholler. "Each time I found a man who said he was his secretary, and who told me that Mr. Kilbourne was out. Then I went back to Mr. Cantwell's office and got a photograph of Mr. Kilbourne and served the summons on the 'secretary.' He was Mr. Kilbourne."

Kilbourne was not represented yesterday. Judge Finnegan granted Mrs. Kilbourne an injunction restraining her husband from entering their Oak Park home or from removing any of the furniture. A temporary alimony hearing was set for Oct. 11. Mrs. Kilbourne is a daughter of J. Fred Butler, wealthy head of the Butler Paper company. She charges her husband with desertion.

J. OPPENHEIMER LEAVES WIDOW BULK OF $275,000

The late Julius Oppenheimer, merchant, left an estate valued at $275,000, it was disclosed yesterday when his will was admitted to probate by Oscar S. Caplan, assistant to the probate judge. Most of his property was left in trust, the majority of the income being left to his widow, Mrs. Clara L. Oppenheimer of the Shoreland hotel. Mr. Oppenheimer was 72 years old when he died last Sept. 6.

A sister-in-law, Mrs. Dora Lederer of the Shoreland hotel, was given two pieces of real estate and an $1,800 annuity. To his daughter, Mrs. Louise Fairlie of the same hotel, he gave an annuity of $2,400. At her death the children of Mrs. Fairlie will divide the principal of the estate.

Shirley Kub, investigator, who was cited for contempt during the investigation of the police department two years ago, was left $500 by her uncle, William N. Young, 525 Arlington place, it was learned yesterday when his will was admitted to probate. He died last Sept. 19 at the age of 65 years, leaving an estate of $30,000. Gifts of $1,500 were given to church charities and the remainder was divided between two other nieces and a nephew.

CHICAGO NEGRO SINGER TO WED AFRICAN PRINCE

Groom Well Known for Escapades Here.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Roberta Dodd Crawford, talented Chicago Negress singer, will wed a prince of the once royal house of Dahomey here tomorrow. The bridegroom is Prince Kojo Tovalou-Houenou of the once independent Negro kingdom of Dahomey, which now is only a part of French West Africa.

Tomorrow's ceremony will be the civil marriage required by French law, after which the couple will take a long trip to Dahomey, where religious rites will be celebrated by Msgr. Steinmetz, bishop of the Dahomey cathedral at Whydas.

Met Singer in Chicago.

Now that the royal family no longer cuts any ice in Dahomey, the prince earns his living as a lawyer. During the war he served as a doctor. He met Mrs. Crawford in Chicago, where she studied under Mme. Herman Devries.

Mrs. Crawford won attention by a recital in Kimball hall on May 17, 1923. A month later Samuel Insull and other patrons of music financed a trip to France for Mrs. Crawford to complete her musical education. She has been in Paris for the last four years.

LIONIZED IN CHICAGO.

After a career in France, which included getting tossed out of a Montmarte night club, a sensational appeal to the French cabinet and a campaign to organize French negroes against the American Ku Klux Klan, Prince Kojo came to Chicago in October, 1924, "to study the problems of the Negro race." He lived in a hotel on east 36th street.

After his first descent on Chicago, the prince was lionized along the north shore and spoke before small groups. Then came a day in May when proprietors of a prominent Clark street sea food inn tossed him out, an affair which was liquidated in night court by explanations only, even though the prince threatened suit and called on the French consul to protect a French citizen.

However, that prominence was costly. A shopkeeper exhibited a "rubber" check with which the prince had paid a bill and pocketed the change. He was jailed, convicted, then freed after explaining that no criminal intent prompted passing of the check.

In the fall New York police, with several warrants charging swindles, pursued him to shipboard, where he was found in company with Mrs. Zulme Knowlton and her 7 year old daughter of 39 East Schiller street, Chicago, a friend to whom he had turned during his troubles in Chicago. The prince and Mrs. Knowlton landed in Dahomey. He went to jail, but later effected his freedom.

troubles of her own. She had won divorce and allmony from Harry N. Knowlton, a well-to-do consulting engineer, but the latter withheld allmony in 1927, citing Mrs. Knowlton's friendship with the dusky prince as just cause.

The court decided in favor of Mrs. Knowlton and ordered Knowlton to pay $1,875 back allmony and regular $200 a month allmony. The child's care was placed under observation of the court.

Wife of Law School Dean Wins Acquittal in Court

A typewritten brief setting forth her defense in a speeding case won a discharge for Mrs. Leon Green, 35 years old, wife of the dean of the Northwestern university law school, when she was arraigned before Police Magistrate Harry H. Porter of Evanston yesterday. The brief stated that she was not driving recklessly, that she was on her way to school to get her children when arrested, and under no condition would have endangered the lives of other children. Magistrate Porter discharged Mrs. Green on City Attorney Erwin F. Stolle's recommendation.

SANDERS' BAND IN BUS WRECK; FOUR INJURED

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Joe Sanders, Chicago dance orchestra leader, his wife, and two members of his orchestra suffered burns and injuries today, when the bus in which they were riding hit a produce truck, careened into a culvert, overturned and caught fire on the Grant highway between Stockton and Woodbine, Ill.

William Paley, drummer, was most seriously burned. He was taken to a Dubuque, Ia., hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Sanders and Rex Downey were given treatment at a Calena, Ill., physician's office.

The other members of the band, who suffered only minor injuries, proceeded to La Crosse, Wis., where the orchestra was to fill an engagement tonight. The band played at Dubuque, Ia., yesterday.

Quebec Plans to Replace Horses with Oxen on Farms

QUEBEC, Oct. 5.—(AP)—A proposal to encourage a return to the use of oxen for farm draft purposes is under advisement by the department of agriculture of Quebec province. The proposal was made in connection with colonization activities in the back to the land movement of unemployed from the cities. A pair of oxen costs $35, less than the price of one horse. Expensive harness is not necessary and they can be fed more cheaply than horses.

FEAR 4 DROWN WHEN LAKE ERIE SHIP FOUNDERS

Erie, Pa., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Three men and a woman are believed to have drowned today when the Canadian freighter J. L. Boland Jr. loaded with coal, foundered in a storm on Lake Erie. Nineteen others, members of the crew, were saved in lifeboats and landed at Westfield, N. Y.

Those missing are a Miss McIntyre of Welland, Ont., a cook; Harry Jones of St. Catherine, Ont.; S. Brooks of Windsor, Ont., and a fireman whose name was not reported.

The Boland Jr. was a 253 foot boat of 3,500 tons. The cargo was taken on at Erie and the ship was bound for Port Colburne, Ont. Available reports indicate that the vessel sank between Dunkirk and Buffalo.

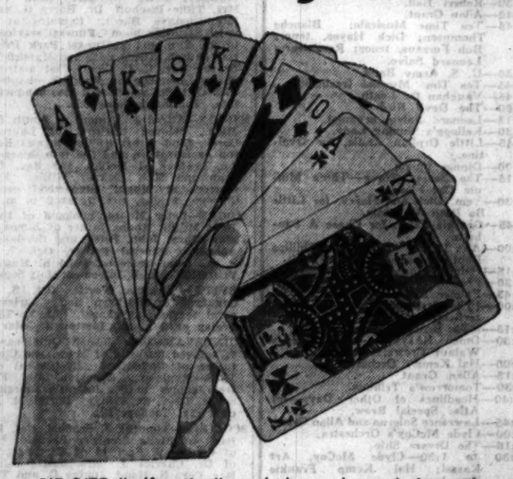
About Bid-Rite Self-Sorting Cards



BID-RITE "self-sorting" cards have changed the outline of their symbols in the true modern manner by using straight lines and sharp angles in place of the former curved standard lines. They're cards you can actually take at their "face value" because of the color scheme they've adopted. Hearts are red, Diamonds are orange, Clubs are blue, and Spades are black. Just play a hand or two with them and see how easily they sort—how quickly you can read them! Experts say these cards are the cards for them and it is the original color combination as well as the new design that have turned the trick.

33 N. U. PLAYERS PICKED TO BATTLE MICHIGAN

CECIL STOREY, MAROON BACK, IS INELIGIBLE

Cecil Storey, sophomore full back regarded as the most promising plunger the Maroons have had in recent years, was lost to the University of Chicago football squad for this season when it was revealed yesterday he had failed to attain eligibility. Three sophomore linesmen, however, whose status also had been in question, reached scholastic standards, and will go with the team to New Haven today to meet Yale Saturday.

Storey, who comes from Long Beach, Cal., tore up the varsity line last year as a freshman, and his presence with the varsity this year, while not counted on too heavily, was regarded as a guaranty that the Maroons could pick up a few yards whenever needed. Under the new plan on the Midway, the sole eligibility requirement is that the freshman, after a year of residence, must pass or have passed three comprehensive examinations. When the results of the September examinations became known yesterday, Storey's name was not among those who had qualified.

Three Linemen Pass.

The three sophomore linemen who passed are Frank Spearing, 195 pound guard from Milwaukee, whose brother, John Spearing, is a first string tackle; Edmund Wolfenson, former Lindblom player, a good guard, and Caspar Hilton, 188 pound center from Western Springs, Ill.

Because of his limited practice this fall Storey had not figured prominently in Coach Stagg's plans for Yale, and the Old Man was still willing yesterday to concede Chicago an even chance against the Eli Saturday.

A final workout for the Saturday's encounter yesterday found the Maroons somewhat disappointed by Storey's absence, but anxious to take their disappointment out on somebody, preferably Yale. This week has seen only the lightest of workouts, with little serious scrimmage in the three days.

After a student demonstration in front of Cobb hall at noon, 21 players will entrain at the Englewood station this afternoon at 3:13 o'clock. They will arrive in New York at 1 p. m. tomorrow and in New Haven at 3:38 p. m., where Coach Stagg plans a workout on the Yale field.

Stop Off on Broadway.

After dining at the Yale dining hall, where the meal will be served by Miss Colburn, now at Yale after many years as head of the University of Chicago dining halls, the team will be quartered at the Ray Tompkins fieldhouse, which contains living accommodations for visiting teams. This building, recently completed, was provided for in the will of Ray Tompkins, who was one of the alumni coaches when Stagg was a member of the Yale team, from 1884 to 1889.

The Maroons will appear at the Yale bowl wearing their white jerseys for the first time. After the game the team will return immediately to New York, put up at the Commodore hotel Saturday night, and be the guests of the New York alumni club for luncheon at the Army-Navy club at 1 p. m. Sunday. It will start home at 4:05 Sunday.

Squad In Shape.

Indications yesterday were that Pat Page Jr. will be able to take his regular place at full back. The first reserve for this position is Ed Cullen, sophomore from New Trier, who made a good impression in the Monmouth game. On the whole, the condition of the team is far superior to that which met Yale last year, since there are no serious injuries and only one ineligibility.

YALE STOPS MAROON PLAYS

The reserves, who have been coached in Chicago plays of last season, failed to make a first down with the Maroon formations. The varsity covered 67 yards in traveling to its touchdown. Parker, who sped around left end for 20 yards, and Stafford Morton, who made a 33 yard dash, which swept the play to the scrubs' 10 yard mark, were the chief ground gainers. Joe Crowley scored the touchdown through center from the 4-yard line.

Morton, of last year's freshman team, taried out at left half back, the chief cog in Yale's attack. The continued absence of Bob Lassiter has caused the coaches to try out two of last season's most promising freshmen, Johnny Dugan and Morton, and Joe Gilligan, a junior, in his backfield position. While all three are far from finished products, all are likely to face Chicago.

The veteran Crowley is relied upon as the mainstay of the Eli back field. Charley Heim was slightly injured in last Saturday's game with Bates and will be unable to play against Chicago.

THE GUMPS—THEY'RE OFF

ANOTHER YANKEE FOURSOME

Members of the New York Yankees seem to be just as irresistible at love as they are at baseball, and are out to make it four straight at matrimony. Joe Glenn, third string catcher, started it Monday when he married, and Sam Byrd followed it up Tuesday. Yesterday Bill Dickey, first string catcher, took his turn at the altar, and Vernon Gomez, star left hander, expects to make it four in a row in a few days. Here are Sam Byrd, Mrs. Sam Byrd, who was Rachel Smith until Tuesday; Mrs. Dickey, who, until yesterday, was Violet Arnold, and Bill Dickey, as they appeared at Byrd's wedding. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Dickey Joins Yanks' Army of Benedicks

New York, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—William Dickey, star catcher for the world's champion New York Yankees, and Miss Violet Arnold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Arnold of Jackson Heights, Queens, were married this afternoon at St. Mark's Episcopal church, just around the corner from the bride's home.

The Rev. R. L. Scofield, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony, and the couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Sam Byrd. Byrd, a substitute outfielder for the Yankees, was married to Miss Rachel Smith of Birmingham, Ala., at St. Malachi church, Manhattan, yesterday.

VINES SAILS FOR ORIENT TO PLAY NET EXHIBITIONS

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Ellsworth Vines Jr., holder of the United States and Wimbledon singles tennis championships, sailed today to play exhibition matches in Hawaii, Australia, and New Zealand. Vines was accompanied by two of his Davis cup teammates, Johnny Van Ryn and Wilmer Allison, and Keith Gledhill.

Gledhill, one of the leading players on the coast, won the national doubles title with Vines. Vines said it was not determined whether they will play in Japan. They will spend eight days in Honolulu, whence they will go to Australia. Vines' bride also was in the party.

DETROIT BUYS GOALIE ROACH FROM RANGERS

Detroit, Mich., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The Detroit Falcons today announced the purchase of Goalie John Ross Roach from the New York Rangers. It was a cash deal, the announcement said, and the price was $11,000.

Roach, considered one of the best goalies in the National Hockey league, will replace Alex Connell. Connell goes back to Ottawa this season along with Hec Kilrea, Danny Cox, and Alex Smith.

Wiener Beats Chicagoan in Hot Springs Net Meet

Hot Springs, Va., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Sandy Wiener of Philadelphia turned in a 6-1, 6-2 decision over Durand Smith of Chicago today in the Hot Springs fall tennis tournament. Miss Abbie Sard of Washington, D. C., won from Mrs. John T. Pirie Jr. of Chicago by default.

In the Wake of the News

NEW RIVALRIES.

THE two most important conference football games Saturday are between elevens which have not earned the shopworn term of traditional rivals. Those are the frays of Northwestern at Michigan and Purdue at Minnesota. In each instance present conditions rather than past associations suggested the contests. It is possible, even probable, in the case of the Purple and Wolverines that the games will lead to a sequence of datings with resultant new rivalries.

That these two games rank in importance over others on Saturday's schedule arises from the preseason estimate which rates the four contestants and Ohio State as those most likely to garner title honors. Thus two of the five will be eliminated from the reckoning unless mishaps befall the winners in later tests, something not at all improbable.

Northwestern and Michigan have met eight times previously. Five victories have gone to the Wolverines. Two of these games were back in the early '90s before there was such a governing body as the western intercollegiate conference. The last previous meeting was that memorable rainy day game of 1925 at Soldiers' field where Michigan lost, 3 to 2, under unfavorable weather conditions. Here is the record:

1898—Michigan, 6; Northwestern, 5.
1901—Michigan, 29; Northwestern, 0.
1917—Northwestern, 21; Michigan, 12.
1919—Michigan, 16; Northwestern, 13.
1925—Northwestern, 3; Michigan, 2.

1896—Minnesota, 14; Purdue, 0.
1897—Purdue, 6; Minnesota, 0.
1928—Minnesota, 15; Purdue, 0.

The Organ Grinder Man.

And down to Creeping Bent,
I saw the organ grinder man
Go limping as I went.

From Nottinghill to Mornington—
Returning through the park,
I found the organ grinder man
Still playing in the dark.

A wooden stick that made his leg
Was splintered at the heel,
The monkey was too tired to beg—
And he too tired to feel.

From Mornington to Nottinghill,
And back to Creeping Bent,
I saw the organ grinder man
Drop coins as I went.

Then There's Jack Doyle.

Sir: Before it's too late. I've also wondered why Scout Jack Doyle was not cut in on the Cubs' players' pool. He brought to the major league Hartnett, Bush, Malone, Warneke, Tinning, Root, Herman, Jurges, English, Koenig, Johnny Moore, and perhaps some others, including Demaree. Isn't that as important as the work of Coaches O'Leary and Corriden in batting fungoes during preliminary practice and in shouting "atta boy!" "that's the old pepper!" during the games?

HAWKS SIGN 7 AMERICAN BORN HOCKEY PLAYERS

Have Majority of 12 Yank Stars in Game.

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The heavy frosts and snappy temperatures of the last forty-eight hours have caused Joseph Farrell, public relations director of the Blackhawks' hockey team, to light up his publicity smudge pots in great haste.

Mr. Farrell has reported himself as enthusiastic about the prospects for the intimate type of hockey which will result from the Blackhawks' moving back to the Coliseum, the hall in which they launched professional hockey in Chicago seven years ago this fall. There, in the less spacious quarters, it is believed the fans really will come to know the athletes personally.

Sign Largest Squad.

One of the largest squads which ever started a National league training season will get busy next Monday morning at Duluth, Minn., under the direction of Physical Director Emil Iverson. The workouts will continue every morning from 8 o'clock until noon, the drills being conducted in four relays each day.

There will be no training season in Chicago this year, the first appearance of Hawks in Chicago being scheduled for Nov. 13. The Hawks will have played one league game before arriving here. They open the season at Detroit Nov. 11.

Mr. Farrell says that in line with the historic character of the Coliseum a special effort has been made to enlist an American team. He says there are only a dozen pro hockey players who were born in the States and that seven of the dozen have been signed by the Hawks.

Gardiner Returns.

These seven are Taffey Abel, born in Michigan; Doc Rommes, Minnesota; Art Coulter, Pennsylvania; Rogers Jenkins, Wisconsin; Burr Williams, Minnesota; Emil Hanson, North Dakota, and Pudge MacKenzie, Connecticut.

Capt. Cyclone Wentworth, for five years a star defense man with the Hawks, will be the only veteran missing when the athletes assemble Monday. Wentworth was sold to Montreal and will be seen on Chicago ice three times this season. George Boucher, who played a part of last season after injuries to Helge Bostrom, the Hawks' new captain, will not be back.

The list of returning vets is headed by Goalie Charley Gardiner, last year's winner of the George Vezina cup, awarded to the goalie with the best defensive record.

In addition to Abel, Bostrom, and Teddy Graham, defense men well known to Chicago National league fans, there will be Burr Williams, giant youth who last year starred with the St. Louis Flyers in the American league; Art Coulter, who was with the team part of last year; Emil Hanson of the Duluth club, who probably will be with the Hawks by the time the training season starts, and Art Wiebe, reported to be the amateur sensation of hockey last season.

Ottawa Is Back.

The right wingers who will report are Mush March, for whom the Blackhawks turned down an offer of $15,000 several days ago, according to Mr. Farrell; Lola Couture, Rogers Jenkins and Pudge MacKenzie. Pudge played with the Chicago Shamrocks last year and was claimed by the Blackhawks during the readjustment of the American league's status.

And here are the left wingers: Vic Ripley, Paul Thompson and Jerry Lowery, of last year's team; Donnie McFadyen, of last year's Chicago Shamrocks, and Louis Trudell, an amateur from Edmonton.

Listed as centers are Johnny Gottselig, Tommy Cook, Doc Romnes, and Louis Holmes. Ripley also will play center when occasion arises.

The National league this year will be a nine club circuit, Ottawa having returned to the fold. The schedule will consist of 24 home and 24 road games for each team.

Minneapolis Prep School Football Player Dies

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Injured internally Sept. 21 while practicing with the Columbia Heights High school football squad, George C. Dunham, 17, of Columbia Heights, a suburb, died today. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Willard Dunham, Deer River, Minn.

Beat Purdue? Minnesota Wonders How You Do It

BY WILFRID SMITH.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—While Myron Ubl, injured quarter back of the University of Minnesota football team, continued his valiant fight for life at the University hospital today, with odds even for his recovery, his teammates went about their gridiron chores preparatory to meeting Purdue university here Saturday in the first game of the Big Ten season.

Ubl's illness is uppermost in the minds of the players and it continues to absorb the interest of the students and townspeople. Ubl is immensely popular. Not only did he possess football ability above the average, so much so that it is said that Minnesota had planned its attack around him, but he had the will to win, which makes for leadership on the field.

Doesn't Recall When Injured.

If Ubl fails to win through to health, it will be a blow to intercollegiate football, the rules of which were just changed to halt the unprecedented casualties of 1931. In fairness to football, and particularly in fairness to the conditions under which Ubl received his injury, a clearer understanding of what happened is essential.

Ubl does not recall how he received the injury which later examination showed to be a fracture of the breast bone. Some time during practice he received a blow on the chest, which, as any football player will tell you, is not protected by equipment. In the next practice that afternoon, Ubl complained of a pain in his chest and he was not permitted to take part in scrimmage. That evening he was sent to the University hospital for an examination. X-ray showed a fracture. The doctors minimized the injury, believing that in a short time the bone would knit.

Ubl became ill, developing a high temperature, and on return to the hospital, it was discovered that infection had developed. Further complications in the following days were pneumonia and the failure of the infection to drain. An operation was performed and Ubl now is striving to conquer the inroads of the infection and his lung congestion.

Crisis Within 24 Hours.

According to attending physicians, the crisis will be passed within 24 hours. If the infection is held in check during that time he will be able to make progress in recovery from pneumonia. Ubl has been administered oxygen for several days.

Under this circumstance, it is not surprising that the spirits of the Minnesota players are at ebb. And the same feeling is displayed by Coach B. W. (Bernie) Bierman and his assistants. Bierman returned to his alma mater last spring after a successful seven year span at Tulane university. He is confronted with more than average difficulties in his effort to bring Minnesota to the top rank in Big Ten football.

Victory Would Be Surprise.

Minnesota hasn't given up hope of defeating Purdue Saturday. But it is obvious to the most casual of observers that a victory would be surprising.

Purdue, one of the three Big Ten universities to share in the 1931 football title, was impressive in its conquest of Kansas State last week. At the same time a lethargic Gopher eleven defeated South Dakota State by two touchdowns. It is true that Jack Manders, the plunging ace of the Minnesota back field last year, who has been compared with Bronko Nagurski and Herb Joesting, played only a few minutes in the last period. But the feeling continues that if Minnesota holds Purdue to a low score, that is all that can be expected.

Lack Good Kicker.

Minnesota this fall will not have a good kicker. Its line is average, and while Manders may prove to be a power in plunging, his support will not be as efficient as in 1931.

With the exception of Northwestern,

Purdue Changes Offense to Abet Running Attack

Lafayette, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Several changes in offense for the Minnesota game were made by Purdue's coaches in today's scrimmage.

Lack of a sustained running attack against Kansas State, coupled with Mel Edwards' report on Minnesota's defensive power, led to an effort to build an attack capable of eluding the husky Gopher linemen.

Coach Noble Kizer indicated tonight he would start the same eleven at Minneapolis that kicked off against Kansas State. A short drill tomorrow before the squad entrains for Minneapolis will conclude the week's preparation.

PLANE, TAXI GET FOXX, COCHRANE TO BOAT IN TIME

San Francisco, Cal., Oct. 5.—(AP)—Jimmie Foxx and Gordon S. [Mickey] Cochrane, Philadelphia Athletics' baseball players, almost missed a boat for Honolulu today.

Foxx and Cochrane, accompanied by their wives, arrived at Oakland airport from Los Angeles as the liner Maui, on which they had booked passage, was on the point of sailing.

Another airplane was pressed into service to bring the baseball stars and their wives across San Francisco bay. The quick hop was followed by a taxicab dash which ended at the liner's gangplank just as it was being drawn away.

Foxx and Cochrane will join a group of American baseball players in Honolulu for a series of exhibition games.

Griffith Hints He May Manage Senators in 1933

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—A hint that Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington American league baseball club, may succeed Walter Johnson as manager next year was given tonight by Griffith.

Asked if he was considering returning as manager, Griffith said it was possible. He added, however:

"Only if I am unable to find the man I want will I take over the management myself."

His comment added fuel to the speculative fires over who would succeed Johnson, who managed the team for the last four seasons.

Some talked of Joe Judge, veteran first baseman, while others thought it possible that Sam Rice, long a Senator fielder, or Joe Cronin, young Washington shortstop, might pilot the club.

SQUAD LEAVES TONIGHT AFTER FINAL WORKOUT

Meet Freshmen in Scrimmage.

Northwestern's football team hit the peak of its preparations for the Michigan game yesterday in a scrimmage against the freshmen. It was the first actual contact work of the week and will probably suffice, as Coach Dick Hanley is using every precaution to keep the regulars in condition for Saturday's encounter at Ann Arbor. A squad of thirty-three was named for the trip.

Hanley continued to emphasize the need of additional speed on the part of both linemen and backs. Pass defense also came in for considerable attention since a large portion of the Wolverine attack centers around the expert passing of Harry Newman, star back.

Leave Tonight for Detroit.

Today's practice will be the last on the home field as the Wildcats leave tonight for Detroit. A workout will be held tomorrow afternoon at the University of Detroit. The players will not get a glimpse of the Michigan stadium until they arrive in Ann Arbor shortly before the game Saturday.

Players who have been selected to make the trip are:

QUARTER BACKS—Potter, Kawal, Horne.
FULL BACKS—Olson, Augustin, Bennett.
GUARDS—Dilley, Kinder, Whalen, Gottschalk, Witkowski, La Rocque.
TACKLES—Froberg, Riley, Gonya, Zuver, Valentine, Huess.
CENTERS—Welnin, McDonald, Hamilton.
ENDS—Fencl, Manske, Jens, Buechel, Kostbade, Fisher.

Upon arrival in Detroit the team will go to the Detroit-Leland hotel where headquarters will be set up until time for departure to Ann Arbor Saturday morning. Tomorrow evening the players will be the guests of Northwestern alumni of Detroit at a dinner and pep meeting.

Alumni Hold Dinner Today.

Chicago alumni of both schools will get together at noon today in the Louis XVI. room in the Sherman hotel at which time speakers of both institutions will attempt to predict the out come of the game. President Walter Dill Scott, Coach Dick Hanley and Athletic Director K. L. Wilson will represent Northwestern, while Tom Hammond, Michigan football player of a generation ago, will represent the Wolverines. Music will be supplied by the Northwestern band.

NIGHT DRILL AT MICHIGAN.

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Coach Harry Kipke indicated here tonight he has fears the Michigan regulars may not be ready for the power attack which Northwestern is expected to launch here Saturday. Kipke ordered both regulars and reserves out for a special practice in Yost field house tonight, both teams being used on defense against a team of freshmen employing the Wildcats' plays.

Players went back to fundamentals in the afternoon session. Kipke sent most of the squad through a workout with the tackling dummy.

Capt. Williamson remained a spectator today, but will start against Northwestern. Wistert was still out of uniform, but is expected to be back. All others were in prime condition.

CHRYSOSTOM IS NEW LUCK PIECE FOR MR. O'BYRNE

Two Year Old Wins by 5 Lengths in Mud.

BY FRENCH LANE.

He saddled another of his two year olds in the Wacker Drive purse which featured the program yesterday. The colt's name was Chrysostom and O'Byrne had bought him for a song a couple of months ago from W. R. Coe of New York.

Well, Chrysostom turned out to be the best appearing two year old which has raced at Lincoln Fields this season. He came from behind, conquered his field in mid-stretch and won going away by five lengths.

And Chrysostom didn't beat bums. Trailing him in second place was the fleet footed but weak hearted Le Bruyere, owned by R. W. Collins of Kentucky. Home in third place was the spectacular and consistent filly, Miss Brilliant.

His Time Is 1:13 4-5.

It was the most stylish band of two year olds which has been brought together at Lincoln Fields, and Mr. O'Byrne had a perfect right to jump up and down in great glee when his colt beat such speedsters on a muddy track after running six furlongs in the sensational time of 1:13 4-5. Noted mud runners with considerable class had been stepping the distance two seconds slower in all the other races.

O'Byrne's hard riding jockey, Melvin Calvert, was in the saddle on Chrysostom. He did a right good job of getting him through on the inside to take the lead a sixteenth of a mile out after Miss Brilliant and LeBruyere had run each other into exhaustion. From there on home Chrysostom ran like a cup horse. He was going faster near the end than the early pacemakers were at the start.

Calvert and Parke Share Honors.

It was Calvert's second victory of the day, but he had to share riding honors with Jockey Monte Parke, the Idaho kid who has developed into somewhat of a sensation lately.

Parke became the second jockey to score in a daily double when he kicked Missie home in the second race and then got the long shot, Pana Franka, past the winning post in the third race. The mud was flying so thick and fast young Parke probably didn't know which way he was going, but he got there just the same. The daily double combination of Missie and Pana Franka paid $288.88 for a $2 ticket.

These honors didn't satisfy Parke. He climbed into the saddle on Old Bill in the fourth race and was in front all the way. Old Bill won by two and a half lengths from Running Water, which always forced the pace. Donday, another which was heavily backed, finished third. Old Bill paid $7.04, but won like a 1 to 2 shot.

Martie Flynn Out of Money.

Parke didn't do so well in the Goldenrod purse, which was fifth on the program. He was in the pilot house on Martie Flynn, always a great favorite with Chicago crowds. He didn't give Martie any help and as a result Martie was out of the money. La Feria turned up as the winner after racing El Puma and Durva into defeat during the run down the stretch. El Puma was second and Durva third. The crowd groaned at Parke's weak effort on Martie Flynn. A plunge on old Mortie near post time made him a short priced betting choice.

AUCHTERMUCHTY MEANS 'BEAT PAR' TO ART SWEET

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

'Twas a bitter, blustering autumn day for golf yesterday, but not too bitter or blustering for a hundred braw lads from all parts of the district who answered the piper's blast at the opening of the Oak Park Country club's sixteenth annual Auchtermuchty. Furthermore, all of them promised to be present for the second 27 holes of the west side club's famous invitational tournament today, and with reason, for there is a deal of handsome prizes awaiting the winners.

Art Sweet, the writer man from Ridgemoor, kept himself warm against the frigid breezes which assailed the course yesterday by the simple process of using his clubs to set the course on fire. He finished the first 18 holes by shooting a 71, one under par, and then added a subpar 35 for his extra nine holes and a 27 hole card of 106. His card follows:

Par—In	444	345	534—36—72
Sweet—Out	534	443	443—34
Sweet—In	445	344	535—37—71

Bags Plenty of Birdies.

Sweet was short of the 5th green with his second, but chipped up to the pin for an easy putt and a birdie 4. He missed a six-footer for a birdie at the 8th, but sank one from the same distance at the 9th for a subpar 3. He was trapped at the 12th but evened that with a birdie at the 15th, where he was on in two and down in four. He was short with his second to the 18th and required three to get on and down. He three-putted the 21st and then dropped in a 35-footer for a birdie deuce at the 22d. He chipped dead to the pin at the 24th for a birdie 4. His try for a birdie at the 26th failed when the ball hopped out of the cup.

The Auchtermuchty was christened by the late George Simpson, for many years professional at the club, who so named it because the stream which crosses 14 holes of the course resembled a winding brook in his home town of Auchtermuchty, Scotland.

MOON MULLINS—LET'S HOPE YOU'RE RIGHT, MOZO

H. H. Taylor Wins Senior Golf with 79

Chilling lake breezes which swept across the fairways of the Exmoor Country club failed to keep 160 veteran golfers from competing in the annual fall tournament of the Illinois Seniors' Golf association yesterday.

H. H. Taylor of Skokie shot a 79 to capture the senior championship for all classes. The senior of seniors award was won by Ward Willits of Exmoor, who had a gross score of 90. He tied with J. A. Middleton, but Willits, because he was the older player, was awarded the title. The senior of seniors' prize is given annually to the player who wins low gross in class A.

Players were grouped in classes according to age as follows: Class A, 70 years and over; class B, 65 to 69; class C, 60 to 64; class D, 55 to 59. Prize winners in the respective classes were:

Class C, first low net—C. B. Spaulding, 97—22—75; Frederick Hill, 83—7—76; Roswell Ackley, 88—12—76; Fred Gardner, 89—12—77; Edwin Bedrick, 91—14—77. Putting prize—H. B. Burpee, 29 putts.

Class D, first low net—Harry Hadsall, 94—11—73; J. B. Wantz, 84—10—74; W. G. Strong, 94—18—76; H. I. Green, 86—10—76; P. B. Eckhart, 85—9—76. Putting prize—Charles D. Brandriff, 29 putts.

At the dinner which followed in the evening the following officers were elected: Charles F. Thompson, Flossmoor, president; H. S. Burpee, Rockford, vice president; W. F. Bode, Exmoor, second vice president; G. L. Pope, Skokie, third vice president; W. V. O'Brien, Exmoor, treasurer; Charles Spaulding, Olympia Fields, secretary.

Beat Purdue? Gophers Ask How You Do It

Minnesota's schedule is more strenuous than that of any other team. The Gophers play Northwestern, Michigan, Purdue, Wisconsin, and Iowa, with non-conference foes Nebraska and Mississippi. If Minnesota wins two Big Ten games it will measure up to the rating of most critics. Chances of victory are highest against Wisconsin and Iowa, and this series is more interesting for it involves the three first year Big Ten coaches, Ossie Solem of Iowa, Dr. Clarence Spears of Wisconsin, and Bierman of Minnesota.

Guard Against Injuries.

In today's drill no chance was taken that the regulars receive any injury which would prevent them from meeting Purdue. And by injuries, we mean the ordinary mine run of bruised muscles and twisted ankles, which prevent a 100 per cent performance. Purdue's shift plays were presented and met in dummy scrimmage. The varsity drilled on its own attack. The remainder of practice was routine kicking, forward passing and signal drill.

Minnesota may be headed for a licking by the Boilermakers, but Purdue should be advised that if it has a fit of over confidence like it experienced last fall against Wisconsin, and which led to the Badgers' 21 to 14 victory, that chapter may be repeated Saturday. Purdue will need some good old fashioned football to whip Minnesota decisively.

ALBIE BOOTH IS SOUGHT AS COACH AT U. OF MEXICO

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The University of Mexico, seeking Albie Booth as a football coach for this season, today sought the assistance of Harry F. Sinclair, oil man, in negotiating for the services of the former Yale captain.

A representative of Sinclair said the university, in asking for Booth's engagement, advised "material fine, but coachless through lack of funds."

Two years ago, when the University of Mexico took up American football, Reginald Root, former Yale star, was engaged as coach. His expenses were paid by contributions from the university's patrons and football fans. Last year the cost was defrayed by Sinclair.

Brothers Win Fights at Catholic Youth Center

Henry Rothier beat Vincent Satkoff [3].
Mickey Callahan beat Marty Graham [3].
Michael Sullivan beat Tony Caputo [3].
Joe Mack beat Gus Skraza [3].
Sam Cibello beat Jimmy Zack [3].

U. S. C. Players Crash in Plane; Injuries Slight

San Bernardino, Cal., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Orville Mohler, quarter back, and Tay Brown, star tackle and captain of the University of Southern California football team, crashed in an airplane shortly after noon here today in attempting a take-off at the Shandin Hills airport.

Mohler, who is a licensed pilot, had reached an altitude of about 40 feet in the plane when it turned in a stiff north wind and nosed down, barely missing high voltage wires in its descent. Mohler partly straightened the ship out before it struck, but it was badly damaged. Neither of the athletes was seriously injured.

Rain or No Rain, Notre Dame Has Its Scrimmage

Notre Dame, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The third successive all day rain failed to stop the Notre Dame football squad from practicing on Cartier field today in preparation for Saturday's game with Haskell. The first two teams engaged in a light drill, while two others met in a scrimmage.

Coach Heartley Anderson said again today he was satisfied with his first two teams in the four scrimmages they have had thus far and indicated he would attempt to prevent fatigue and injury by avoiding scrimmage until the week of the Carnegie Tech game, Oct. 22.

The only serious injury in the Notre Dame camp of 400 freshman and varsity players is a wrenched shoulder received two weeks ago by Fred Solari, sophomore center, who was hurt hitting the tackling dummy.

Indiana Builds Three Elevens for Ohio State

Bloomington, Ind., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The battle for positions on the three Indiana football teams which will be taken to Columbus for the Ohio State game Saturday was carried into scrimmage this afternoon.

Bill Rehm, dependable tackle, was out with an injured ankle, as first string aspirants scrimmaged with freshmen teams. The frosh used passes in attempts to go over the Crimson line, which has shaken off the apathy shown last Saturday.

Bernard Dickey, end, also was on the sidelines with injuries, and it is doubtful if he will be able to play against the Buckeyes.

BUCKEYES SCRIMMAGE.

Columbus, O., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Weather conditions again hindered the Ohio State football squad's drill against Indiana plays today. Later in the afternoon the first and second varsity teams met in scrimmage.

Terrill and Gillman were at ends on the first team, while at tackle Rosequist replaced Monahan, with Conrad at the other tackle. Tanski replaced Gailus, who has a leg injury, at one guard, with Varner at the other guard and Smith at center.

Another scrimmage, the final before the Indiana game Saturday, is scheduled for tomorrow. Ohio State's largest freshman squad in history, numbering 215, reported for first practice today. Larkins, former tackle, was in charge.

ILLINI SHIFT SEAMONS.

Champaign, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Zeke Seamons, Rockford, became the latest prospect for the full back post on the University of Illinois football team today. He was shifted from end as the freshman ran Northwestern plays against the varsity in scrimmage.

Coach Bob Zuppke is looking past Saturday's game against Bradley Tech toward the first conference game with the Wildcats here a week later. Augie Kowalski was again at left guard and La Verne Joslin worked at right tackle.

Chinn Kamm, 200 pound tackle prospect, has decided to give up football and will be lost to the squad. Bob May and Eugene Liggett are two tackle possibilities being considered to support Joslin. Bart Cummings seems to be a fixture at left tackle.

IOWA PERFECTS PASSES.

Iowa City, Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Strengthening of a passing game and a defense against the same style of attack occupied University of Iowa's football squad today in the last regular practice before leaving for Madison, Wis., to meet Wisconsin Saturday.

The Hawkeye squad of about 30 will entrain at 2:30 Thursday afternoon. It will hold an hour of light practice before boarding the train.

Second and third team players received a hard scrimmage today but Coach Ossie Solem, who said he was afraid of injury to the regulars, spared the first string. Dutch Schmidt, half back, and Francis Schammel, tackle, reported after having missed yesterday's practice because of injuries.

BADGERS USE LIGHTS.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—Still dissatisfied with the Wisconsin line, Coach Clarence W. Spears worked the first team on defensive scrimmage for more than an hour today until it became apparent that the second team could not make ten yards in ten plays against the first. Night scrimmage was continued under lights with all teams using ghost balls. The third team scrimmaged the freshman squad.

After 40 Minute Argument, Bears Beat Millers, 12-9

Minneapolis, Minn., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The fifth game of the little world series between the Newark Bears and the Minneapolis Millers ended under protest today as the Bears broke an 8 to 8 tie in the ninth inning to win, 12 to 9. Newark now leads in the series, 3 games to 2.

Manager Donie Bush of the Millers, American association champions, and Outfielder Rice were banned from the game in the ninth inning for their objection to an umpire's decision.

In the Bears' half of the ninth Saltzgaver walked. He went to third on a single by Hargreaves. Then, with two out, Neun hit a long fly to Rice, who, in making a sensational catch, fell to the ground. Manager Al Mamaux of the Bears claimed Rice dropped the ball.

Saltzgaver raced home to give the Bears the lead, 9 to 8. Managers, players, fans, and the umpires argued over the decision for more than forty minutes. Finally the umpires, who had ruled that the ball was fairly caught, reversed their decision and the Millers continued to play under protest.

After the players again had taken their places in the field Rolfe sent a long fly into the outfield for a home run, scoring Hargreaves and Neun and making the score 12 to 8. The Millers in their half of the ninth scored a run on singles by Smith and Van Gilder and a base on balls to Ganzel.

The Millers' protest will be referred to the advisory council.

Harrison to Battle Crane Tech Saturday

Harrison Tech's city championship football team will start defense of its title Saturday afternoon when it meets Crane Tech in the opening game of the 1932 Chicago Public High School league at Mills stadium, Lake street and Kilpatrick avenue. Weakened by the loss of last year's stars, Harrison enters the race with its record marred by a defeat and a scoreless tie.

Harrison, which last year went through a ten game schedule without a defeat, was held to a scoreless tie by Wendell Phillips two weeks ago. Last week it dropped its first game of the season to Lindblom, the 1930 champion. Lindblom's victory avenged a defeat at the hands of the champions last year.

Harrison's first step toward retaining its city championship is to gain the west section title and qualify for the semi-final round of games with representatives of the other three sections of the league. Harrison has won the sectional championship for two consecutive years.

One other game will be played in the west section Saturday. McKinley meets Austin on the same field at 12:30 o'clock. The Harrison-Crane game will start at 3 o'clock.

A former member of the Mount Carmel Catholic league championship team will be in the Leo lineup when it meets Mount Carmel at Soldiers' field Sunday afternoon. He is John Carney, a giant tackle, who left Mount Carmel to attend Leo. Carney is a junior.

Johnny Schneewind will replace Dave Krieter, regular Marshall quarter back, in the Marshall-Rockford game on the latter's field tomorrow night. Krieter was injured in last Saturday's game with Elgin.

Lindblom will seek its second victory of the season against Hyde Park Saturday at Normal park, 61st street and Racine avenue. It will be the opening central section game for both teams.

Three games will open the Suburban league season Saturday. Oak Park will play Deerfield at Highland Park; Proviso will meet New Trier at Kenilworth, and Morton will face Evanston on the latter's field.

High School Officials to Take Exams Monday

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—H. V. Porter, assistant manager of the Illinois High School Athletic association, who is in charge of the assignment of officials, has announced a football examination next Monday for central Illinois officials, to be held at Bloomington High school.

BURDICK AND GRAHAM OUT OF CARD-BEAR GAME

Lillard, New Negro Find, to Play Sunday.

All but two players, one on each team, will be available for the twenty-fourth game between the Bears and Cardinals at Wrigley field Sunday afternoon.

Gil Bergerson of the Bears was considered a doubtful starter, but he has recovered from injuries. Lloyd Burdick, however, has not regained proper playing shape after being injured in the Green Bay game and he is not likely to be called upon, Coach Ralph Jones said yesterday.

Graham Injured.

Pup Graham of the Cardinals has a hip injury and will probably not be used.

This means both teams will be able to muster practically full strength for what the Bears hope will be their sixth consecutive victory over the Cardinals. The Cardinals will have Joe Lillard in the back field.

Lillard Is Find.

Lillard, a colored athlete who pitched for the American Giants baseball team last summer, was given a trial at Portsmouth last week. His performance against the Spartans was enough to convince Coach Jack Chevigny that he had a real find.

Lillard is fast, weighs 185 pounds, and stands 5 feet 11 inches. He played two years under Dr. Clarence Spears at Oregon. Lillard hails from Mason City, Ia. He will play left half Sunday.

Guth Leads in Standings of Bike Riders

Fred Guth of the Henry Playground Cycle club, with 34½ points, won individual honors for the eight one-hour team races sponsored by the Amateur Bicycle League of America during the summer. Jerry Rodman, who teamed with Guth to win the final race to count in the standings on Sunday, was second with 23 points. Ed Triest, who won the state championship last week, was third with 20, and Frank Le Majeur, Belgian-American star, was sixth with 15. Andy Engelhardt, former state and tri-state champion, who placed second in the national trials at Boston, scored 6 points for 16th place. The 19 riders who placed in the scoring column follow:

Fred Guth, 34½; Jerry Rodman, 23; Ed Triest, 20; Henry Sima, 17½; Morris Gillis, 16½; Frank LeMajeur, 16; Art Cumming, 15; Andy Cajet, 14; Jerry Huvaere, 12; Ed Somedy, 12; Stanley Olsen, 12; George Thelin, 10½; Al Klingbeil, 9½; Al Eisentraut, 9½; Willard Mann, 8½; Andy Engelhart, 6; Helmut Stolle, 3; Bill Schultz, 2; Harry Smessaert, 1½.

The Bicycle league will close its outdoor season Sunday at Humboldt park with five races, featured by a one hour team event in which riders have picked their own partners. Fred Guth will ride with Jerry Rodman, Andy Cajet with Andy Engelhardt, Ed Somedy with Jerry Huvaere, Art Cumming with Willard Mann, Morris Gillis with Al Eisentraut, Joe Fisli with Harry Smessaert, and Ed Triest with Frank LeMajeur.

SQUARES PLAY MOORES.

WHEAT DROPS 2C; CORN, OATS MAKE SEASONAL LOWS

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

President Hoover's speech at Des Moines Tuesday night fell flat as a market influence as far as grains were concerned. While the statements were regarded as constructive in their nature the trade generally expressed the belief the ideas presented for the relief of agriculture failed to hold out any hope to an immediate upturn in prices.

General selling developed in all grains, the weakness in stocks having a material effect, and all deliveries of corn and oats as well as the cash grain sold at a new low for the season. Wheat at the inside figure was off over 2c from the finish on Tuesday and the close was at the bottom with net losses of 2@2¼c, the December being 51⅞@52c at the last, the lowest figure for this future since Aug. 3. May was 57@57⅛c and July 58¼c at the finish.

Winnipeg Wheat Supported.

The wheat market showed little disposition to rally at any time during the day, and while holders of bids gave support the sellers of the latter were finally forced to protect themselves. Relative strength in the Winnipeg market also failed to have any influence, although there was the same persistent buying of December at 51¼@51½c and of May around 56½c as has been in evidence since last Friday in the Canadian market.

October wheat at Winnipeg sold at 48⅞c, a new all time record low, and finished at the bottom as did the December. The latter was 51¼c at the last, showing ⅝c lower than on Tuesday. Liverpool was ¼@⅝c lower, with December at 56½c.

Had it not been for the undoing of spreads between Winnipeg and Chicago, the latter being bought, traders expressed the belief that the decline in wheat might have been greater than it was. The May future here came within ⅞c of the lowest figure of the season.

Corn Lowest Since 1897.

A car of very poor quality old Iowa sample grade corn sold in the Chicago market yesterday at 14c per bu. After deducting freight and other charges the shipper will receive a net return of about three-quarters of a cent per bu. The charges include country elevation allowance, inspection, etc., but not the customary charge of 1½ to 3 cents per bu for shelling the grain.

Scattered liquidation developed in corn futures at the start, with prices dropping as much as 1⅝c from Tuesday's finish to the lowest figures known since 1897. The cash grain also sold at a new low, No. 2 mixed bringing as low as 26¾c, or within ⅝c of the inside figure in 1898.

Little hope of export business in domestic corn was held out during the day. Cables from abroad indicated Danubian grain was offered at a price equal to 25c for Chicago December.

Oats Near Record Low.

Cash oats and futures are hovering a few cents above the record low levels of 1896, the December selling at 16⅜c yesterday, or within ⅝c of the lowest figure known for that future. No. 2 white oats sold as low as 16¾c, or 2c above the inside figure in September, 1896. On June 22, 1861, oats were quoted down to 12½c, while in January, 1843, they sold at 11c. The quality of the latter sales is not given. No. 4 white yesterday brought only 15c. Decline in wheat and corn had a depressing effect and the close was at net losses of ⅝c, with December 16½c and May 19¾c.

There was little interest taken in rye and the close was 1½@1⅝c lower, with December finishing at 33⅝c and May at 37½c.

EGG FUTURES LOWER

Heavy selling pressure sent egg futures sharply lower on the Chicago Mercantile exchange yesterday, closing prices being off 1@2c. Butter was irregular, November dropping ¾c, but December was unchanged. Egg futures opened quiet and held fairly steady until after midsession. The profit taking came out with a rush and the market fell off hurriedly. While buying was fairly active and covering developed, the market dropped steadily lower to the close. Storage news was poor, the four markets reporting withdrawals 10,000 cases under last year and receipts were heavier. So far this month the shortage in the four markets has been reduced sharply. Butter saves improved, but the market continued dull. Selling continued fairly active in December, but slight improvement in support was noted. The movement of supplies out of the four markets totaled 400,000 lbs, which was 90,000 lbs less than last year. Sales: Butter, 30 cars; eggs, 280 cars. Deliveries: Eggs, 8 cars. Prices follow:

REPORT BIG GAIN IN SEPT. SALES OF FRIGIDAIRE CORP.

An increase of 43 per cent in unit sales and a gain of 28 per cent in net dollar volume of household sales for September over August was reported yesterday by Frigidaire corporation, subsidiary of General Motors. Marked improvement was shown in all sections of the country, according to H. W. Newell, vice president in charge of sales, who said the outstanding increases were in the New York and Philadelphia districts. The entire area east of the Mississippi river registered improvement, Newell said, despite the fact the electric refrigeration business normally is 10 per cent lower in September than in August.

CASH GRAIN NEWS

Scattered lots of Canadian wheat were reported as having been sold for export yesterday, but the demand in general was disappointing. Despite the sharp narrowing of the differences between the Chicago and Winnipeg markets no interest was claimed in American hard winters.

Eastern shipping demand for cash grain was slow with sales of 27,000 bu wheat, 23,000 bu corn and 38,000 bu oats reported by local handlers. There was 3,000 bu wheat, 154,000 bu corn and 6,000 bu oats booked to arrive.

Cash wheat basis showed little change with No. 2 red December price to ¼c over; No. 2 hard, December to ⅛c over; No. 3 yellow hard, ¼@⅜c under and No. 2 mixed, ⅛@⅜c under the future. The basis at Kansas City was unchanged to ½c lower.

Lowest prices of the season were obtained for cash corn in the local market yesterday as a result of the decline in futures. The basis, however, was steady with No. 2 mixed selling at December price and No. 2 yellow at ⅛c over while No. 2 white was December to ⅛c over. No. 3 yellow brought December price.

Cash oats sold at the lowest prices yesterday since September, 1896, with the No. 2 white at 16¾c within 2c of the inside figure during that year. The basis was steady with No. 2 white December price to ⅛c over and No. 3 white ⅛@1c under the future. No. 2 rye was nominally 3@5c over December.

CALLS DISCLOSE BANK POSITION MUCH STRONGER

Liquidity Increases, Deposits Gain.

BY HOWARD WOOD.

Chicago banks have greatly strengthened their position during the last three months, the quarterly figures published yesterday showed. Substantial increases have been made in deposits and cash resources. Loans and discounts are sharply lower.

The regular statements of all banks were made in response to calls from the United States controller of the currency and the state auditor of public accounts. The call was as of Sept. 30.

The figures show that the banks have increased their degree of liquidity since the last previous call on June 30. More important still, public confidence in the soundness of Chicago's banking institutions has been growing steadily as indicated by the increase in deposits since June 30.

Total Deposits Higher.

The improvement in the banking situation has been even more noteworthy than the actual figures show, for the low point in deposits was not reached until about two weeks after the June call.

Total deposits of state and national banks on Sept. 30 amounted to $1,688,954,000, compared with $1,627,273,000 on June 30, an increase of $61,681,000. Total deposits of national banks were $488,220,000 on Sept. 30, compared with $464,831,000 three months ago. Total deposits of state banks were $1,200,784,000, against $1,172,442,000 on June 30.

Cash resources of all Chicago banks increased $83,151,000 during the quarter. On Sept. 30 they totaled $559,537,000, compared with $476,386,000 three months earlier.

There was a slight drop in the aggregate of savings deposits. In view of the substantial increase in total deposits, the falling off in the savings division was taken to mean that people with reduced incomes were drawing on their bank accounts to meet current needs.

Less Than Expected.

The decline in savings, in fact, was much less than might normally be expected under such conditions. Combined savings deposits of Chicago banks on Sept. 30 amounted to $251,980,000, compared with $285,491,000 at the end of June.

Loans and discounts continued to shrink, amounting on Sept. 30 to $858,930,000, compared with $995,241,000 on June 30, a drop of $136,311,000.

This decline in the amount of bank credit outstanding is partially the result of the banks' policy of increasing their liquidity to be able to meet depositors' demands. Reduced demand for loans in some lines of business has also been an important factor.

The trend in banking during the last few months has been running true to form. Deposits reached the low point early in July, but loans and discounts have dropped still further since that time. In previous depressions the turn for the better in deposits has usually preceded an increase in loans and discounts by several months. Sometimes the lag has been as long as a year.

Confirm Developments.

The figures published yesterday are but official confirmation of developments already recognized in the financial district. The improvement in public sentiment has been even more marked than the statements indicate.

Three months ago depositors' faith was at low ebb. Foreign interests were withdrawing deposits in American banks. Gold was being taken out of the country. Many were worrying about the standing of the dollar and the maintenance of the gold standard. The picture now is vastly different. Depositors' money, as shown by the official figures, is steadily going back to the banks. There is no longer concern over the gold standard. Foreign gold is coming back to the United States to cover foreign investments in this country. And there hasn't been a bank failure in Chicago since the last bank call on June 30.

Commonwealth Edison Co. Declares Usual Dividend

An Out of Date Book Takes Its Toll in Taxes

BY SCRUTATOR.

The United States department of agriculture, which last year absorbed $297,000,000 of the taxpayers' money, for months past has sent us bulletins issued by the "press service" on about every conceivable subject. They came without solicitation, so probably they were adjudged our share of the tons of printed matter issued every year.

But recently we received an example of what a bureau of the department can do when it really takes up serious things. This effort is a book of 164 pages entitled: "Car-Lot Shipments and Unloads of Important Fruits and Vegetables." However, any interest we might have in the subject is dimmed at the start because the cover proclaims that the book, issued last July pertains to what happened during the calendar years 1929 and 1930. So most of the information is two years old.

There Are 37 of Them.

But our curiosity conquers an impulse to consign the book to the waste basket. We turn the cover to discover that the book is "statistical bulletin No. 38" and that 37 other bulletins had been issued up to July.

There is an introduction to the book by which it may be learned that it was prepared by the division of fruits and vegetables, bureau of agricultural economics. It was compiled under the direction of Lucy Watt, principal junior marketing specialist.

The introduction, which occupies two pages, explains that the book contains tabulations showing the number of carloads of 37 fruits and vegetables shipped during 1929 and 1930, segregated by states of origin and by months. It also contains tables showing the carloads of 19 of these commodities unloaded in 66 cities during the same years. Then follow 160 pages of solid tables.

Some Facts Missing.

We might look at some of these statistics if we were not halted by another paragraph in the introduction. It says: "The total movement of fruits and vegetables produced in the United States is much greater than the car-lot figures would indicate, as large quantities are moved by motor truck and in less than carload lots by boat and rail. The car-lot unloads should not be regarded as representing the actual consumption in the various metropolitan areas, as freight and express receipts of less than carload lots and arrivals by trucks are not included. Reshipments by rail and truck to outlying territory are also not accounted for."

So we judge that this book of statistics lacks something. We obey our original impulse to toss it in the waste basket. But we meditate on what the preparation of such books cost American taxpayers and on this particular sample of government waste.

VOLUME OF REVENUE FREIGHT CAR LOADINGS AGAIN MOVES UPWARD

Revenue car loadings of the principal railroads continue their upward trend, although still considerably below the volume attained last year. More than 375,000 cars were moved by 16 roads for the week ending Oct. 1, which was 9,303 cars more than were hauled in the week of Sept. 24.

The Pennsylvania road hauled 89,897 cars compared with 88,424 the preceding week. The decrease from 1931 was 23.6 per cent. New York Central loadings totaled 94,036 cars in comparison with 91,134 the previous week Illinois Central loadings for the week were 30,456 cars in comparison with 29,416 the week of Sept. 24 and 30,456 the same week in 1931.

The St. Louis Terminal handled 29,829 cars in comparison with 29,436; the Frisco 14,240 against 13,917; Missouri, Kansas and Texas, 8,012 against 8,021; Missouri Pacific, 23,766, against 23,034 and Norfolk and Western 69,342 cars against 65,037.

Chicago Postal Receipts Grow Nearer Last Year

FAILURES FEWER IN SEPTEMBER, DUN'S REPORTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Business failures in September were the smallest in number and liabilities for any month of the year, R. G. Dun & Co. reported today.

The total was 2,182, compared with 2,796 for August and 1,936 for September, 1931. For the nine months there were 25,007 failures, against 20,970 last year. For the eight months from January to August the increase in failures was 19.9 per cent. These figures cover only mercantile defaults.

Liabilities for September, while still high, owing to some unusually large defaults, show relatively a better situation than the record as to numbers. The amount involved for the month just closed was $56,127,635, against $47,255,650 for September of last year, an increase this year of 18.8 per cent.

GREAT WESTERN SUGAR TO SPEED UP OPERATIONS

Denver, Colo., Oct. 5. — (AP) — Two hundred and seventy-seven sugar beet receiving stations of the Great Western Sugar company in Colorado and Nebraska opened today, assuring full operation of all 22 of the company's factories by the end of this week, company officials announced.

Officers of the United States Beet Sugar association reported to the trustees that farmers in four states, Colorado, Nebraska, Wyoming, and Montana, will receive from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000 for their beet crop this year.

W. D. Lippitt, president of the association, estimated the harvest, which began in California in August, will yield more than $36,000,000 to farmers of 18 states who raise sugar beets.

New York, Oct. 5.—The stock market broke out of the narrow trading range which has prevailed recently in a sharp decline yesterday which carried prices of leading shares back to the level which prevailed in the middle of September.

The decisive change in trend took Wall street by surprise. Business statistics which can usually be counted on to influence the trend were more favorable than otherwise. Market observers were at a loss to explain the severity of the decline, which was one of the sharpest the market has experienced this year. Quotations on leading stocks at the close of the day were $3 to $8 below yesterday's final prices.

Wheat Break Hits Stocks.

A two cent break in the price of wheat in Chicago was regarded as an important factor in the market's set back. The two markets have moved together recently, and the sharp reverse in the grain prices caused sympathetic reaction among stock traders. As the outlook in some quarters in Wall street has been bullish on the wheat market, change in trend in Chicago gained added significance.

Some brokers in attempting to explain today's sharp reverse in stocks pointed out that the improvement in the steel industry has not been up to the expectations of a few weeks ago. It was said that many traders who have adopted a cautious trading policy had placed stop loss orders which uncovered in the first wave of selling this morning. This added to the volume of selling and caused a bad break in prices all along the line.

Short Selling a Factor.

Short selling was also said to have played an important part. Aside from the break in the wheat market there was nothing in the day's developments in other commodity markets to explain the burst of selling in stocks. Cotton turned down late in the day following the other markets. The sugar and coffee markets were fairly steady.

The dealings were heaviest in more than two weeks. The flood of selling swamped the high speed ticker, at frequent intervals distancing it by as much as three and four minutes.

Railroad shares were again the center of attack and such issues as Union Pacific, Delaware, Lackawanna and Western, and Pennsylvania felt the weight of accumulated offerings, and losses ranged from 2 to 9 points.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—An invitation to become commissioner of the western railroads with power to curb uneconomic duplications of service was laid before Carl R. Gray, president of the Union Pacific railroad at a meeting here today. Mr. Gray, who has been active in pressing for the appointment of such an official, is chairman of the committee appointed by the western lines to fill the position.

The acceptance would involve Mr. Gray's resignation as president of the Union Pacific. He is 65 years old. According to an interstate commerce commission statement in July, Mr. Gray's salary was $90,000 a year. It was indicated this was after he had accepted a 10 per cent cut.

Those who attended the meeting were the members of Mr. Gray's committee. They included Ralph Budd, president of the Chicago, Burlington and Quincy; Fred W. Sargent, president of the Chicago and North Western, and H. H. Scandrett, president of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific. The committee will meet again in Chicago Friday.

Two Others Considered.

E. M. Durham Jr., senior vice president of the Missouri Pacific railroad, also is being considered for the position. His acceptance also would involve resigning his present position. Winthrop M. Daniels, professor of transportation at Yale university and formerly a member of the interstate commerce commission, has been considered by the committee.

The western roads' aim is to reduce services that are sometimes unprofitable, but are continued for competitive reasons. Fast parallel freight services and competitive cutting of rates would be within the scope of the commissioner's jurisdiction. Reduction of such duplications, it is felt, would be possible only with the aid of an impartial arbitrator.

The presidents' traffic conference for the eastern railroads will meet here Thursday. It was organized to reduce destructive rate cutting in the east as part of the general plan of the carriers to eliminate uneconomic practices.

DEFER PAY CUT PARLEY

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, Oct. 5.—Eighty presidents and other officials of railroads in all parts of the country met today and agreed to conform with President Hoover's request that they postpone moves to reduce union wages until after election.

But they approved a proposal to continue suspension notices demanding a 20 per cent reduction in wages from the levels prevailing before Feb. 1 and authorized a committee of managers to negotiate with the railway labor executives' association for a temporary continuance of the present agreement, for wages 10 per cent less than those prevailing before last Feb. 1, until such time as a new agreement may be reached. The present agreement expires next Feb. 1.

Speakers at the meeting pointed out that an unqualified acceptance of Mr. Hoover's request would permit wage levels to be restored next Feb. 1 to the levels at which they were before last Feb. 1.

BANKERS LAY UPTURN DELAY TO TAX BURDEN

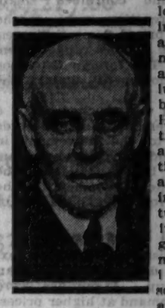
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Oct. 5.—A definite upturn in business could be hastened if "the excessive load of taxation in state, local, and national" matters is eased, according to resolutions adopted by the American Bankers' association in its 58th annual convention today. They added the warning that this upturn may turn into a "disintegration of business" if "organized minorities seeking their own advantage" are able by political manipulations to continue excessive and needless governmental expenditure."



FRANCIS H. SISSON

The bankers' views on problems of business, taxation, politics and banking were recorded in the adoption of the convention's resolutions as written by the committees without dissent from the floor.

Governor Explains Sales Tax.

Besides the resolutions which embodied a denunciation of excessive government borrowing, approved the Reconstruction Finance corporation and the federal reserve activities, advised against guarantee of bank deposits and averted controversy over the branch banking proposition, the convention had as one of its highlights an address by Gov. Bennett Conner of Mississippi. In it the executive explained the working of the sales tax in his state, dubbed the plan a "great success."

Here are the salient opinions, predictions, and leanings of the American banking industry as reported in the convention of nearly 3,000 persons in the language of their own resolutions touching on economic problems of 1932: "For the first time during the depression we are able to record definite signs of business improvement. Banks are rapidly paying their borrowings and building up ample reserves. The return flow of gold from abroad is evidence of the confidence of the rest of the world in our monetary system."

Assail Excessive Taxation.

"Excessive taxation, state, local, and national," was dubbed a "menace to agriculture, trade and transportation" and characterized as being at present "almost too burdensome to carry."

In the resolution the convention referred to estimates that "one person in every ten in the United States is

New York, Oct. 5—Influenced chiefly by the break in the stock market, the bond market today worked lower, although volume continued small. Leading the reaction were second grade and low priced domestic issues. Losses in these classes ranged from 1 to 3 points. The foreign list stood out with a movement against the trend.

The recession was touched off by a liquidating movement in second grade rails, similar to the movement in stocks. As liquidation gained momentum in stocks, bonds abandoned the narrow range they have held for the last fortnight for an exploration of the downside.

Foreign Issues Firm.

The foreign list furnished more exceptions to the downward trend than any other group. Argentines were again in good demand at higher prices. Italian Government 7s duplicated the year's high and new highs were established in Milan 5½s, Rome 6½s and Fiat 7s. Italian bonds have been rising for several days to the accompaniment of reports in trading circles of an exceptional demand for Italian account. German 5½s and 7s were lower again, but there were several bonds of that nationality which went through their old high levels.

While offerings of treasury bonds were light their market was still a bit soft. High grade railroad and public utility bonds were slightly easier on limited transactions.

Rails Yield Ground.

The second grade issues which yielded most ground today were the obligations of the Baltimore and Ohio, Milwaukee, Erie, Illinois Central, New York Central, Pennsylvania and Nickel Plate.

The downward trend continued in International Telephone and Telegraph issues, the convertible 4½s and the 5s losing about 2 points each.

Better grade utilities held firm. In the industrial section, International Match, United States Rubber 5s, International Cement 5s, United Drug and Shell Oil issues encountered selling pressure. Armour 4½s moved up a point.

New Issues.

Offering of $9,000,000 of North Boston Lighting properties 5¼ per cent secured notes is being made by a syndicate headed by the Harris Trust and Savings bank. The notes are due Oct. 15, 1937, and are being offered at 100 and interest, yielding 5.50 per cent.

A banking group headed by Coffin & Burr, Inc., yesterday offered $15,000,000 of Detroit Edison company general and refunding mortgage 5 per cent gold bonds, series E, due Oct. 1, 1952, at 99½ and interest. The proceeds of the issue will reimburse the Edison company for expenditures for additions to its plants and systems.

PIT NOTES

Close observers of the trading in wheat yesterday said at the close that there had been big back spreading between Chicago and Winnipeg, which brought the two markets nearer together. The technical situation is said to have been improved. The largest holders are credited with having maintained their position and considerable wheat has been accumulated on the decline. Pit traders expressed the belief there was a substantial shortage outstanding and any attempt to cover would likely bring a sharp reaction unless there was a renewal of the heavy selling during the day.

That there has been an accumulation of wheat on declines of late is indicated by the increase in open interests. This, it is said, placed the market in a position to respond to any change in trade sentiment or to export buying. It was asserted by close analysts that to have any permanency in bulges from now on there must be better buying support.

Wheat traders who have been bearish for a long period assert the only thing that will help the market permanently is to place American wheat on an export basis so that millions of bushels can be disposed of in the next two months, or before the southern hemisphere wheat becomes a factor in the European situation.

Australian wheats in Liverpool are said to be offered at discounts under the spot market and below No. 3 Manitoba without attracting substantial buying.

Latest reports from south Russia and the Balkans say that seeding of wheat continues to be delayed by dry soil conditions. Absence of offerings from Russia are said to have a strengthening influence on continental markets. A weak feature in the American wheat market, it was said at the close, was that sharp decline in prices failed to stimulate new export business.

ELECTRIC POWER OUTPUT SHOWS GAIN FOR WEEK

Chicago Area Shares in Advance.

The output of electric power for the week ending Oct. 1 showed a gain both for the Chicago district and the country as a whole, according to figures made public yesterday by the Commonwealth Edison company and the National Electric Light association. At the same time the percentage of decrease from last year narrowed in both instances.

Electricity output for the Chicago district totaled 90,121,000 kilowatt hours, as compared with 98,932,000 kilowatt hours in the corresponding week of last year—a decrease of 8.9 per cent. The percentage of decrease for the week of Sept. 24 as compared with the same week in 1931 was 12.7, while for the week of Sept. 17 it was 14.5.

Weather More Favorable.

Total electric production for the entire country aggregated 1,499,459,000 kilowatt hours, compared with 1,490,863,000 in the previous week and 1,645,587,000 in the like period of last year. In comparison with 1931 the output for the week was only 8.9 per cent smaller, compared with a decrease of 10.2 per cent recorded for the week of Sept. 24.

Industrial Pick Up.

The improved showing for the country as a whole was the result of the more favorable performance in the important central industrial and the Atlantic seaboard sections, where the spread between the current and the 1931 output was considerably reduced. Little change was noted for the Pacific coast, which of late has not reflected the improvement noted in the major sections.

LEGUME PLANTING INCREASES.

Within six years the planting of winter legume seed in Jefferson county, Alabama, has increased from 1,000 to 75,000 pounds a year.

INDUSTRY DROP SEEMS HALTED, CHAPIN ASSERTS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—On the basis of commerce department figures showing gains in some industries, Secretary Chapin today said it appeared the downward trend had been halted. The secretary said commodity prices had improved, particularly in the farm and food products lines, and that he found indications of strength or moderate improvement in several others.

He said the gain in business from August to September was probably 3 to 4 per cent greater than the normal seasonal expectation.

The secretary observed that the advances had been confined largely to the consumer goods industries, such as textiles, leather, and food processing, but that the heavy industries still displayed a tendency to lag. He said the construction situation was encouraging and holding up in better volume than in the two previous years.

HOLDS CANADA'S DEBT MORE THAN INDUSTRY'S CASH

Montreal, Oct. 5.—(AP)—W. L. McGregor, chairman of the Canadian chamber of commerce national committee on public finance, said today that government debts in the dominion exceed the total capital employed in all forms of dominion manufacture.

The rate of increase in government debts during the last 18 years has been four times the increase in the total assets of all Canadian chartered banks and six times the increase in the value of the dominion's external commodity trade, he said.

He put gross government debts at $5,300,000,000 which, he asserted, represented an increase of about 400 per cent between 1913 and 1931.

Mine Wage Dispute to Go Before Mediators Soon

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Preliminary negotiations having ended in a deadlock, a wage disagreement between anthracite miners and operators will go before a conciliation board of two men soon. Announcement that the board would be chosen was made yesterday. Operators have been seeking a wage cut which would affect some 140,000 miners. Officials of the United Mines Workers of America oppose the cut.

A mild rally in hogs altered the course of the general market yesterday and raised the average costs of most droves 5@10c. The recovery did not reach down into the plainer grades of spring pigs, but the shorter supply of packing sows shared in the full strength. The extreme top price advanced 5c to $4.15 and the general average moved up 5c to $3.85. Most high quality 175@275 lb hogs sold quickly at $4.00@4.10, while a range of $3.50@3.90 picked up 300@340 lb averages.

Prime 380 lb butchers sold at $3.30 and 503 lb averages at $3.15, the heaviest butchers on the market. The latter kinds come in competition with the 400@500 lb packing sows that are available at $3.00@3.20. Consequently demand for butcher grades exceeding 325 lbs is generally weak. Plain quality underweights and pigs finished weak to a shade lower. Most other hogs were firm at the finish. Large local houses, while not aggressive, paid up to $4.10 for best selections, within 5c of the top.

Top Cattle High.

The bearish attitude of buyers sent the rank and file of cattle into slightly lower price channels yesterday, but had little effect on the market for the "cream" of the crop of highly finished corn fed steers selling at $9.00 and above. These are still selling within 25@35c of the highest point since last January and $2.35, or 30 per cent, above the low spot about four months ago. A string of 62 prime 1,251 lb Iowa steers set the day's top price at $10.00, which was also paid for 31 averaging 1,387 lbs.

Not many transactions passed $8.50 the buk of steers going over the scales at $6.00@8.50. Prime 1,538 lb beeves sold at $9.25. Plain classes, of beef merit, ranged down to $4.50 and inferior grassy natives were sold at $3.00@4.00 in smaller numbers. There has been an increase in the proportion of light steers and yearlings lately. Many of these are good to choice quality, but in the weight class that has taken the brunt of the decline the last few days. Declines of 50c are general for the first three days of the week and many of the 600@900 lb averages show 75c to $1.00 loss, compared with early last week.

Top Lambs Reach $5.70.

In a belated upturn after most of the natives had changed hands on a steady basis, top western range lambs to city butchers advanced 20c to $5.70, while several carloads sold at $5.60 to packers. Bulk of the native crop cashed in at $5.00@5.25, city butchers hand picking occasional lots of ewe and wether lambs at $5.25.

Cooler weather held the mutton trade firm, with choice old western ewes averaging 130 lbs at $2.10, the same price paid for similar kinds Tuesday. Angora goats from the west sold for local slaughter at $1.00. Feeding lambs were scarce and in only fair demand at $4.25@5.00.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 5,000 cattle, 19,000 hogs and 20,000 sheep, against 4,706 cattle, 19,498 hogs and 24,262 sheep the previous Thursday and 5,290 cattle, 23,648 hogs and 20,775 sheep a year ago.

RAIL SAFETY UP 75 PCT. IN 10 YRS., REPORT SHOWS

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—[Special.]—The railroads of the United States are being operated with the greatest safety in their history, according to a report of the committee on train accidents submitted to the twelfth annual convention of the safety section of the American Railway association now in session.

"In the last ten years, American railroads have made an improvement of 75 per cent in safety in train operation," said G. H. Warfel of Omaha, Neb., in presenting the report. "This remarkable achievement culminated in an unprecedented safety record being made by the railroads in 1931, and preliminary reports for the first six months this year show a still greater improvement.

"In 1931 only four passengers lost their lives in train accidents, three of whom were killed in one accident."

AMERICAN GAS.

American Gas and Electric company and subsidiaries reported for the twelve months ended Aug. 31 surplus of $11,163,882 after interest, subsidiary dividends and preferred dividends of the parent company, depreciation, etc. This compares with $15,986,832 available for the common stock in the preceding twelve months.

BANKERS CHARGE BURDEN OF TAXES HALTS RECOVERY

on some public roll" and that "30 per cent of every earned dollar will go for taxes in 1932."

"Great governmental expenditures without necessity or desirability have been induced," another resolution stated, and continue to be foisted "by organized minorities seeking their own advantage."

The continuance of this "will cause business to disintegrate," the resolution stated. The Reconstruction Finance corporation was lauded for rendering invaluable emergency service.

Flareup Over Branch Banking.

The controversy over extension of branch banking was left in another resolution as a question for decision by the state and national bank organizations.

In spite of the compromise resolution on branch banking, in which the suggestion was advanced that this contentious question was an internal problem of the state and national bank divisions, the resentment of the small banker against the threat of branch expansion flared for an interval.

Charles F. Zimmerman, president of First National of Huntington Penn., speaking as president of the association of independent bank units, took the floor to protest against the proposal to allow national banks the privilege of state-wide expansion. He announced an intention to poll members of the national bank division by mail at a later date. The buzz that followed his speech and threat was shushed when spokesmen for the convention harmony program hastily switched the discussion.

Urges Tax Convention.

Gov. Conner urged the convention to work for tax revision, so as to spread the tax burden more uniformly over all the people of a community and for a stricter limitation of local bond issues in order to curb the public debt boom.

During his address the Mississippi executive, first governor of a state ever to address the bankers during the 58 years of their annual meetings, said:

"It is not strange that the American people have suddenly became painfully tax conscious and vociferously insistent on tax reform when we consider that "federal, state and local governmental expenditures increased from $2 billion in 1912 to $12 billion in 1931.

Tax 22 Per Cent of Income.

"Our tax bill last year amounted to twenty-two per cent of the total 1931 income of all citizens.

"The sum total of this huge obligation remains as a prime mortgage on the lands and homes of our people—as a millstone about their necks and a blight upon their hopes."

Asserting "unwise voting by the people" had resulted in an enormous number of local bond issues which permitted "politicians to squander public funds," Gov. Conner said: "The remedy is to be found in an inexorable limitation upon local bond issues."

Referring to the sales tax, Gov. Conner said:

"This form of taxation appears to be especially acceptable to Mississippi. We adopted it four months ago. It is still on trial, and we make no extravagant claims for it, but receipts have thus far exceeded estimates and there remains no doubt that it has met the emergency for which it was adopted."

"Receipts have thus far exceeded estimates and there remains no doubt that it has met the emergency for which it was adopted."

Sisson Named President.

Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust company of New York, was elected president of the association to succeed Harry J. Haas, vice president of the First National Bank of Philadelphia, retiring president. Sisson has been first vice president of the association.

Francis Marion Law, president of First National Bank of Houston, Tex., was moved up from second vice president to first vice president.

The 1933 convention will be held in Chicago.

BANKER ATTACKS POSTAL SAVINGS IN SHANNON QUIZ

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The congressional committee investigating competition of government with private business closed its session here today after hearing objections of two country bankers against the postal savings system.

W. F. Duvall, president of the Duvall Trust company, Butler, Mo., who said he represented the Missouri State Bankers' association, said "the government could do nothing better toward making the communities more prosperous than to turn the money in the postal savings banks over to the banks so the banks could use it in the communities."

Representative Joseph B. Shannon of Missouri, chairman of the investigating committee, said the final hearing of his committee will be held in Chicago, Nov. 14, when the United States Chamber of Commerce will offer evidence of government competition in twenty-six lines of business.

I.C.C. Orders Investigation of Seatrain Lines, Inc.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The interstate commerce commission today ordered an investigation of the legality of Seatrain Lines, Inc., a company which tomorrow will begin transporting entire trains from New York to Havana, Cuba, and between Havana and New Orleans on ships. The commission will take in the question of whether the new plan violates the Panama Canal act, whether acquisition of the Hoboken Manufacturers' Railroad company is legal, and issuance of securities.

H. G. ZANDER JR. NOMINATED TO HEAD REALTORS

BY AL CHASE.

For the second time in realty history the house of Zander is to have a member as president of the Chicago Real Estate board. Henry G. Zander Jr., son of Henry G. Zander Sr., a former president of the realty organization as well as a past president of the National Association of Real Estate boards, last night was announced as heading the 1933 ticket. And as there seems absolutely no possibility of an independent ticket entering the field, Mr. Zander Jr. seems scheduled to be the next president of the Chicago Real Estate board, the oldest and largest realty organization of its kind on the continent.

HENRY G. ZANDER JR. [Koehne Photo.]

Lester W. Porter, of the realty firm of Hodge, Nicolson & Porter, is named as first vice president. Walter R. Drennan is on the ticket as secretary and Alben T. Myren as treasurer.

Choose Other Vice Presidents.

The second vice president and chairman of the board of governors of the renting and management division is Henry C. Spiekerman. The third vice president and chairman of the board of governors of the industrial division is J. Percy Strickland. S. O. Stone is fourth vice president and head of the sales division. The fifth vice president on the ticket is P. S. Gilbertsen, head of the coöperative apartment division. Percy Wilson is sixth vice president and chairman of the subdividers' division.

For the board of directors, Robert E. L. Brooks is named for a one year term and Leo G. Varty and Homer H. Schneider for three years each.

For the renting and management division John H. Southman, Louis T. Orr and George W. O'Brien are named for the south side. For the west side George S. Parker, James W. Belanger and Benjamin L. Coolidge are nominated. Arthur Kruggel, Thomas J. Fleming and Howard E. Haney will represent the north side.

Election to Be Held Nov. 1.

Frank S. Slosson is named for a two year term on the reference and arbitration committee and George J. Eckhoff for three years. Clifton R. Bechtel is named for one year on the membership committee. Paul D. Angell, Samuel R. Rappold and Clayton D. Eulette will have three year terms.

The annual election will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 1, instead of Dec. 15 as in former years. This will give the new president six weeks before installation to select his committees. Formerly the president was elected on Dec. 15 and was at once installed.

The nominating committee is composed of: Newton C. Farr, Mark Levy, John R. Magill and Henry G. Zander Sr., all former presidents. Members at large are: James J. Carroll, John C. Bowers, Arthur C. Kussman, William C. McLennan and Homer H. Schneider.

Objects to Service Charges.

TO THE EDITOR: I am the owner of a first mortgage amounting to $3,750 purchased from ——— bank. The bank charges $18.75 annually for collecting interest, checking taxes, and insurance. This is more than I can afford to pay and the mortgage does not expire until 1936. Will you please let me know how to check up on taxes. I have the insurance papers and can write the insurance company. I would like to save at least a part of this expense. Will you tell me how to collect interest?—H. R.

ANSWER: Collecting money today is a highly specialized business and requires a thorough follow-up and persistent effort on the part of the collector to secure payments when due. Notices are mailed notifying the party sixty days in advance when payment is due on a certain date. A letter requesting payment is sent several days before payment is due. The collector calls on the party on the due date to collect. If payment is not made threatening correspondence follows, together with calls demanding payment. Of course, if you can't afford to pay for this service, you must handle this unpleasant job yourself.

Regarding taxes, you can secure the information in the county treasurer's office. If the owner of the property meets his bill promptly the job is easy; then again, if he is out of work and up against it financially you have assumed an unpleasant task.

Keep Up the Good Work.

TO THE EDITOR: I would like your advice on what to do. I bought a home in Chicago eight years ago. I have it all paid but the first mortgage. I owe two notes of $250 each. One is eighteen months past due, the other six months. The mortgage is $3,000. I am only making $8 a week and am paying the interest as best I can. I have my taxes paid, all excepting 1930. I have a big yard and have been growing my own vegetables all summer and am raising chickens. If you can give me some advice I will appreciate it very much. —J. A. S.

ANSWER: You apparently have a substantial equity and certainly are exerting every effort to make both ends meet. As long as the first mortgage holder is not pressing you for payment, we suggest you keep up the good work and continue paying the interest as long as possible. It would be advisable to call on the first mortgage holder, explaining your temporary inability to pay more. In this way the mortgage holder would understand your intentions and you would hear his viewpoint in this matter of mutual interest. Should any difficulty arise don't hesitate to write us.

STEEL OFFICIAL TELLS HOW TAXES TAKE AWAY WORK

Grace Warns Load Now Too Heavy for Industry.

Taxes paid by the Bethlehem Steel corporation if available for wages would increase employment for the company's 50,000 workers by nearly 20 per cent for a year, according to a statement made yesterday by E. G. Grace, president, to the corporation's employés.

"Taxes levied today are too great to be carried by industry and by the worker," Mr. Grace said. "Between 1929 and 1932 the ratio of the average man's tax to his income has about doubled. Our company, along with the rest of industry, finds its property tax obligations out of all proportion to wages and other costs of conducting business.

"The cost of government, local, state and federal, advanced out of all proportion during the years of prosperity, and, unlike other costs, has not yet come down.

For Political Purposes.

"As citizens, we have demanded extensions of government services, which have meant an inevitable increase in the tax bill. But much of the cost has been forced upon us for political purposes. Scores of unnecessary activities have been created. Certain other activities have been extended beyond all reason, resulting in costly bureaucracies.

"We now realize that this cost is too large and that it must be greatly reduced by eliminating unnecessary and illogical government services. The plain fact is that in our public expenditures we are living beyond our means."

Mr. Grace pointed out that large as is the federal tax burden the citizens are paying two-thirds of their entire tax bill to state and local governments.

Leads to Bankruptcy.

After urging his employés to take their part as citizens by coöperating with public officials to secure economy, Mr. Grace warned:

"The squandering of public funds, as in private business, will lead to bankruptcy. Therefore, to hasten the return of improved business and thus relieve unemployment there is no greater contribution we can make than to assist in every way toward lessening the cost of government."

RIVER LINES PLAN FIGHT AGAINST RAIL RATE CUT

Cincinnati, O., Oct. 5.—(AP)—The groundwork was laid today for a fight by river transportation interests on the Ohio and Mississippi on possible reductions in southern railroad freight rates.

Called by Alex W. Dann, of Pittsburgh, vice president of the Union Barge line and president of the Pittsburgh Coal exchange, representatives of barge lines and river improvement associations met here for preliminary discussion. Another meeting will be held in two weeks.

Southern railroads, the river men said, are contemplating an appeal to the interstate commerce commission for permission to reduce rates on cotton, petroleum and sugar shipments moving south, for a six months period.

Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator.

Will you please give me your opinion of Minneapolis-Honeywell Regulator company common stock?—F. C. M.

Minneapolis - Honeywell Regulator company was incorporated in 1927 to acquire the assets of two organizations, one of which was established in 1885 and the other in 1893. It is the leading manufacturer of automatic heat regulating devices.

Its products are used as standard equipment by certain manufacturers of gas and oil heating equipment. The company developed a line of refrigeration controls in 1931. About 10 per cent of sales is to foreign markets.

Sales for the twelve months to June 30, 1932, were $5,082,000 and net income was $639,000, or $2.69 per common share.

Sales for 1931 were $5,441,000, against $5,272,000 for 1930 and $6,233,000 for 1929. Net income in 1931 was $681,000, or $2.90 per common share, after preferred dividends. Net income in 1930 was $962,000, or $5.06 per common share. There were then no preferred shares outstanding. Net in 1929 was $1,438,000.

The company finished 1931 with current assets of $4,177,000 and current liabilities of $250,000. Cash assets alone were $1,689,000. Working capital was $3,927,000, against $3,814,000 the year before.

Funded debt is nominal, totaling $220,000. There are outstanding 15,000 shares of 6 per cent cumulative preferred (par $100) and 203,674 shares of no par common.

A dividend of 50 cents per share was paid on the common on Aug. 15, 1932. On May 14, 1932, the common dividend was 75 cents a share.

The company's command of its field has apparently been strong enough to prevent serious price cutting. This has probably been an important factor in enabling it to operate at a profit when many other organizations so dependent on equipment for new building have operated at a loss. A return to earnings comparable to 1929, however, must apparently await a revival of the building industry.

The preferred is rather high grade. The common is speculative at present.

Consumers Power.

FORECAST LOANS TO MEXICO BY OIL COMPANIES

New York, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Purchase of control of the Penn Mex Fuel company by the Consolidated Oil corporation is expected in Wall street oil circles to be followed by the early extension of a loan to the government of the republic of Mexico by leading oil companies.

The republic of Mexico is seeking a total loan of $10,000,000, including an advance of $3,500,000 already made by the Standard Oil Company of California. Three other companies, the Consolidated Oil corporation, Standard of New Jersey, and Dutch Shell groups, now are negotiating for the balance of the loan with Finance Minister Pani. An agreement was reported reached on all but a few details.

It was understood in oil trade circles that the advance would be in the nature of a tax anticipation loan to be repaid from gasoline taxes.

VARIED FACTORS BRIGHTEN HOPES OF STEEL TRADE

Industry Expects Gain in October Showing.

The steel industry is entering the final quarter of 1932 with prospects for at least an improvement in business for October over September greater than the gain in September over August, according to the magazine Iron Age in its weekly steel discussion.

The magazine bases its opinion on the present rise in steel ingot production to slightly above 18 per cent of capacity, the probability that unfilled orders of the United States Steel corporation as of Sept. 30, to be announced on Monday, will show a sizable increase and the 15 per cent gain in the daily rate of pig iron output in September over August.

Buying in Small Lots.

"Most of the acceleration in steel business continues to come from miscellaneous consumers and in small lots for immediate shipment," Iron Age states. "An exception is the placing of 50,000 tons of tin plate by a leading can maker for first quarter delivery.

"Railroad buying has not yet assumed important proportions, but prospective tonnage is coming into the market.

"Automobile parts makers are taking small lots of steel for work in connection with new models, presaging larger releases soon by the motor car companies themselves. Buick is starting some departments this week on its new cars, and will be in full operation by Oct. 17, having scheduled work for a 9 hour day, five days a week, to the end of the year. Buick is now receiving steel for its first 10,000 cars. Chevrolet has started work at its Saginaw, Mich., foundry on cylinder blocks for its new car.

Gain in Pig Iron.

"The increase in pig iron production last month was 19,753 tons a day from 17,115 tons in August. The month's total, with one less working day, was 592,589 tons, against 530,576 tons in August. The gain was mostly in steel-making iron. Forty-seven blast furnaces were operating on Oct. 1, a net gain of five over the number in service on Sept. 1. The September rise was the first since last February, and, with that exception, the first since April, 1931. On a percentage basis, the improvement was more than seasonal, but this loses some of its significance in view of the low base from which the increase is figured. In ten preceding years pig iron output gained five times and decreased five times in September."

SALESMEN.

MILLIONS OF DOLLARS WILL BE PAID IN 1932 TO ELECTROLUX MEN WHO QUALIFY TO SUCCESSFULLY REPRESENT THIS COMPANY. A FEW ADDITIONAL POSITIONS NOW AVAILABLE AT OUR CHICAGO BRANCH OFFICES.

Additional permanent positions paying qualified men $4,000.00, $5,000.00, $7,500.00, $10,000.00 and more every year, regularly, are available with Electrolux, Inc., due to the amazing saleability and unprecedented success of our mechanical specialty (not refrigeration).

Capitalizing on this natural, unique selling power, a former home service route man earned $185.00 for his last week reported while a former farmer earned $125.00 that same week and a former refrigerator salesman made $115.00, a new man with no previous sales experience earned $85.00 his first week and a former farmer who started in this work 24 years ago earned $225.00 that week. That same week a former draftsman made $115.00, a former jewelry store clerk made $90.00, a former auto salesman made $160.00 and a former tailor made $185.00, and in the seven preceding weeks made $130, $116, $300, $300, $185, $250, and $150, respectively.

Today a man must have something of tremendous value to sell and for such men there is tremendous uncontested opportunity. Just ordinary products and ordinary work do not make money today. Sales success requires a product with a kick, and a man who appreciates the power of PROOF. This combination made September another record sales month for us, 1932 will be our third consecutive record sales year.

The men who make this kind of money regularly in our company learned how to do the necessary things for success in our business. They acquired sufficient self-management and self-assurance to meet and master the obstacles and difficulties that must be met by enterprising business men in taking advantage of an opportunity of this quality. Yet they would not have believed this possible before they came to us and investigated our product, market, compensation and future opportunities. Identical beginnings of men they met and associated with.

For instance, as one man wrote to us: "At the age of 45 years I was at a point that made me realize I was practically at a standstill. Thinking of the past thirty years of hard physical labor and earnings that quickly disappeared, I was not satisfied. One day after a long, serious illness which left me very weak and discouraged, you suggested that I inquire about a position as salesman which she read about in an advertisement. So I went to the Electrolux office and spoke with the branch manager who was very helpful and courteous. My earnings speak for themselves. They have increased from $60.00 to over $5,000.00 year " [over $6,000 in '31].

Not all of these men made $1,000.00 per week the first month, although some made more than that. Some had to go along on modest initial earnings, $125.00 to $200.00 per month, while learning and adapting themselves to the work. This work is no get-something-for-nothing, but something real for the man who can learn and has the self-control to consistently and courageously go ahead and do things—things which in and of themselves are simple and easy to do, but which must be pursued and performed with purpose, determination and self-confidence.

If you can learn from men who prove it with pay checks, and will put effort and character into your work, arrange for a personal interview with an executive of this company, Thursday a. m., 9 to 12 and 1 to 3.

APPLY AT PARLOR F, MORRISON HOTEL.

RENT COLLECTOR—EXPERIENCED; MUST have South Side rental experience, one who has the following qualifications: big aggressiveness and able to use his own judgment as the case may demand; must have own car; state experience, salary and be able to furnish the best of references.
